3 CANADIAN VESSELS GET READY TO MOVE

HALIFAX (UPI)—Three Canadian warships are on stand-by orders for the Middle East.
The Canadian Navy supply ship HMCS Provider was fueling up this morning and the destroyer-escort Kootenay is taking on stores preparatory to sailing to the Middle East if so required. The destroyer Saguenay, now at sea on manoeuvres, will join the others for the trip east.
The ships will form part of a contingency plan to withdraw the Canadian forces with UNEF if a step-up in the evacuation becomes necessary.

TAKES 4-YEAR-OLD SON

U.S. Officer Defects, Lands Plane in Cuba

MIAMI (UPI)—An army major with domestic problems and a top security clearance became the highest United States officer ever to defect to a Communist country Wednesday when he and his four-year-old son were granted political asylum in Cuba.

The defection of Major Richard Hardwood Pearce, 36, whose ex-wife normally has custody of their son, apparently came as a shock to all who knew him.

"I never heard him say one thing detrimental toward his government or country and that's why I think this thing is more domestic than political," a friend said.

"A man certainly wouldn't take a boy four years old to Cuba unless he was trying to get back at someone."

Pearce, a decorated veteran of the Vietnam War, was known as a "loner" by associates. An infantry advisor who served with him in Vietnam described him as "not unfriendly, but just hard to get to know."

INVESTIGATION

The army said in Washington that while Pearce had a "top secret" security clearance, all classified documents to which he had access have been inventoried and have been accounted for. It added an investigation of the case was under way.

In announcing Pearce's defection, Havana Radio quoted him as saying:

"I have decided to leave my country in the company of my young son for reasons of conscience and I request that Cuban authorities grant me asylum or authorization to continue on to another country of my choice."

The disclosure by Havana

Radio that Pearce and his son had defected ended an intensive air search that had been under way since the major and his son failed to return to Key West Sunday from a "sightseeing" trip over the Florida keys in their private plane, a Cessna 150.

Pearce picked up his sandy-haired son, Richard Jr., May 12, at the Houston, Tex., home of his former wife, who has remarried. He told her he wanted to take the boy on vacation.

"He didn't say where they were going or anything," she said.

Drivers Intimidated Into Leaving Buses

HONG KONG (AP)—Bus drivers went on strike again today at the homeward rush hour as pro-Communist Chinese leaders kept up their labor harassment of the British colony after 11 days of riots and demonstrations.

Officials said roving pro-Communist agitators intimidated operators and conductors into abandoning half of Hong Kong Island's 180 buses. Two hundred gas company workers also went on strike but service was continued by supervisors and 150 employees who refused to walk out.

Reports persisted that the Communists, who touched off the series of riotous incidents after police broke up a strikers' demonstration, would disrupt water and electric services.

The government said the reports were being "maliciously circulated" by Communist elements. It repeatedly gave assurances that its Essential Services Corps would maintain public utility services if there were strikes.

Parliament Locks Doors On Farmers

OTTAWA (CP)—The doors of Parliament were locked today as thousands of farmers, mainly from Quebec, poured up to the main entrance of the Centre Block demanding admittance after a mass demonstration on the Parliament Hill lawn.

The farmers apparently were dissatisfied with promises by politicians and farm union leaders that further meetings would be held to discuss their demands for higher manufactured milk prices.

About 10,000 farmers, mainly from Quebec, had assembled on Parliament Hill for the demonstration.

The Ontario group left quietly but the more boisterous Quebec group poured over the grandstand after the speakers departed and pushed up to the main door beneath the Peace Tower.

They banged on the doors in a demonstration that seemed more boisterous than violent.

DOORS LOCKED
All entrances to the building were locked.

A taxi that had pulled up before the main entrance was rocked back and forth before Mounties cleared a way.

Albert Alain, first vice-president of the Catholic Farmers Union, spoke to the pressing crowd of about 1,000 men in an attempt to calm them.

The pounding on the outer oaken doors, rarely closed when Parliament is in session, then subsided.

Mounties and guards then began allowing a handful of men into the Centre Block every few minutes.

TENSE AFTERNOON

Thousands of other demonstrators meanwhile began drifting off Parliament Hill, or else sat down to watch the scene at the doors.

It was the climax to an afternoon that grew more tense as speaker after speaker failed to meet the crowd's changed demand: "We want $5."

UN Agrees To Discuss War Threat

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The UN Security Council decided without a vote today to take up the critical situation in the Middle East.

Despite strong statements by the Soviet Union and India opposing a council meeting at this time and expressions of reservations by France, no formal objection was raised.

The meeting was called at the request of Canada and Denmark.

Canadian Ambassador George Ignatieff said Canada is asking "that the Security Council and in particular all of its permanent members who bear special responsibilities, add the weight of their influence collectively by asking that no member of the United Nations take any action which would worsen the situation or jeopardize the efforts of the secretary-general to preserve peace."

Ignatieff said the Security Council had the responsibility to agree on some course of action that would help Secretary-General U Thant in his efforts to preserve peace in the Middle East.

DIDN'T THINK AHEAD

Soviet Ambassador Nicolai Fedorenko said the Canadian ambassador did not take into account "the simple fact" that Thant now is in Cairo to gather "the necessary information" about the Middle East situation.

He said the council should await his report.

Fedorenko described Ignatieff's attitude as "rather ironical."

"It reminds us of an Oriental proverb. He is asked to look at the moon but he looks at his own finger."

But the Soviet ambassador said Ignatieff, together with certain other Western representatives, is "artificially dramatizing" the situation.

Arthur Goldberg, U.S. ambassador, said:

"This council would have to be burying its head in the sand if it refused to recognize the threat to peace implicit in the events that have occurred since the secretary-general left two days ago."

Goldberg said the situation had deteriorated since Thant's departure for Cairo Monday.

"It is precisely because of these events that we are meeting to consider what the Security Council ought to do in the discharge of responsibility to further his efforts, not to impede him."

The council agreed to allow the ambassadors of Israel, the United Arab Republic and Syria to take part in the debate as parties directly concerned.

France Seeking Big Four Meet

(Times News Services)

France and Britain, both allies of Israel in the 1956 Suez war, called today for international efforts to cool off the Middle East crisis as Egypt was reported moving on land, sea and in the air to block Israeli shipping in the Gulf of Aqaba.

At the same time, Mecca radio reported Saudi Arabia had been declared in a state of general mobilization for possible war with Israel.

France suggested a meeting of the Big Four powers to discuss joint action to keep peace in the Middle East. The wartime Big Four are Britain, the United States, Russia and France.

A cabinet spokesman said the French government is working for consultations among the four powers who have "a particular responsibility in the safeguarding of peace."

In Britain, Prime Minister Wilson told a labor union meeting his government is seeking a solution through the United Nations and is ready to join any other countries in keeping open the Gulf of Aqaba.

WARSHIPS WAIT ORDERS

British warships in the Mediterranean were put on a standby alert.

Israel has said an Egyptian blockade of the gulf, its only shipping route to the Red Sea and Indian Ocean, would mean a fight.

Lloyds, the international shipping underwriters whose intelligence service keeps track of shipping throughout the world, said it knows of no ships of any nationality heading for the gulf or preparing to leave the Israeli port of Eilat at the head of the waterway.

In Cairo, UN Secretary-General U Thant began his peace mission by conferring with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad.

Israel's foreign minister, Abba Eban, flew toward New York, where the UN Security Council was called into session. Israeli sources said Eban would ask U.S. officials to clarify American intentions in the crisis and would remind them of previous U.S. assurances of support for Israel against Arab attack.

President Johnson said Tuesday the Gulf of Aqaba should be open to ships of all countries and declared Egypt's threatened blockade illegal.

About the same time, the Soviet government warned that it would back Arab countries in the Continued on Page 3

Israeli Forces Poised

TEL AVIV (CP)—Israel's newly-mobilized military forces were poised for action today after Premier Levi Eshkol warned Tuesday night that any interference with shipping in the Gulf of Aqaba would amount to an act of aggression against his country.

Speaking to the Knesset on Egypt's announcement that it would bar Israeli ships from the vital waterway, Eshkol called on the world's major sea powers to act immediately to maintain the right of free passage to Israel's port of Eilat at the head of the gulf.

He said any interference with shipping in the gulf would be "a gross violation of international law, a blow at the sovereign rights of other nations and an act of aggression against Israel."

Eshkol said Israel would cling to its right to free passage through the gulf in accordance with its 1957 announcement to the United Nations General Assembly.

Thant Hears War Chants

CAIRO (AP)—Thousands of Egyptian demonstrators shouting "we want war" massed in front of the Arab League headquarters Tuesday next to the hotel where United Nations Secretary-General U Thant was resting after his arrival from New York.

The demonstration was organized by the Arab Socialist Union, Egypt's sole political party, and included white collar workers and women employees from virtually every firm in Cairo.

Thant arrived for talks with President Nasser over the worsening Middle East situation involving the Arabs and Israel.

U.S. WILL ACT EGYPT WARNED

CAIRO (Reuters)—The United States has warned the United Arab Republic that it considers the blocking of the Gulf of Aqaba as an act of aggression and will use all measures in and out of the United Nations to counter it, according to well informed sources here.

The sources said the U.S. measures did not rule out the use of force if all other possibilities were exhausted. They added that these views were conveyed to Egyptian officials here.

U.S., Russia Go Easy In Bid to Avert War

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Associated Press Staff Writer

As Middle East leaders push the threat of war close to the point of no return, a new test of U.S.-Soviet relations is in prospect.

Both the Russians and the Americans seem to be acting with notable caution in this new test of a long succession of Arab-Israeli uprisings, suggesting neither welcomes the idea of war in the sensitive area.

Neither the Soviet government's pledge of support to the Arabs nor President Johnson's statement that Egyptian blockade of the Gulf of Aqab is "illegal and potentially dangerous" changed matters in that respect.

Both the Russians and the Americans have commitments in the Middle East which they consider important to their national interests.

But Soviet press treatment of the gathering clouds seemed to reflect much Kremlin worry. Another full-blown donnybrook in the Middle East could open the door to a return to the deep freeze of the cold war.

Pravda Monday connected the crisis with Vietnam. It claimed the United States was behind the uproar to deflect attention from its penetration of the demilitarized zone there and its bombing of Hanoi.

Pravda noted the presence of the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean in a way suggesting a warning against repetition of 1958, when the fleet landed U.S. marines in Lebanon at the height of a crisis there.

Even Moscow's announcement of support for the Arabs seemed to lack the thunder of Soviet pronouncements and threats in other crises.

When the Suez war broke late in 1956, then Premier Nikolai Bulganin threatened to "send rockets against England in retaliation for the British-French attack on Egypt."

U.S.-SOVIET PRESSURE

Soviet and American interests appeared to coincide then. Neither wanted a conflagration in the Middle East. Their combined pressure forced withdrawal of the British, French and Israeli forces from Egypt.

Different circumstances prevailed during the confused turmoil of 1958 in Lebanon. When the marines landed, the Russians roared with anger, warning that the move could be a step toward world war. Moscow may have felt justified in contending its security was endangered, as the United States would have done should Soviet troops have landed, say, in a Latin American crisis.

More recently, Soviet and U.S. interests have tended at times to dovetail again. Russia, becoming a "have nation," possesses with the United States the awesome responsibility of enormous nuclear power. The Russians, like the Americans, seemingly have a stake in stability. The two powers both worked to promote peace between India and Pakistan when their 1965 war threatened new Asian turmoil.

While the Russians apparently intend to continue their global political contest with the Americans, the needs of their internal economic program suggest lessened tension and free association with Western nations in trade and commerce.

FAMILIES RUN GAUNTLET OF JEERS, GLUE POTS

By ANTHONY GREY

PEKING (Reuters)—Two British diplomats were kicked and smeared with glue by Red Guards in Shanghai today, a British spokesman said here.

Peter Hewitt and Raymond Whitney, both first secretaries in the office of the British charge d'affaires here, ran a gauntlet of jeering workers and Red Guards at Shanghai Airport as they were returning to Peking.

Hewitt's wife and two children also were with them.

The demonstrators jostled, kicked and struck the two diplomats and daubed glue used for putting up wall posters on their clothes, the spokesman said.

Hewitt's jacket was torn in the melee.

Hewitt had been carrying out consular duties in Shanghai. He was ordered back to Peking by the Chinese government, which announced two days ago that it was closing the British office in Shanghai.

Whitney travelled to Shanghai earlier in the week after demonstrators had broken into Hewitt's house and smashed everything in it.

A protest was being prepared about today's incident, the British spokesman said.

New demonstrations erupted today in Peking in front of the British and Outer Mongolian diplomatic missions after charges that officials of both countries committed anti-Chinese atrocities.

The fresh protests outside the British office followed publication here today of a New China news agency report from Hong Kong claiming that at least 200 Chinese were killed or seriously wounded there in rioting Monday.

At the embassy of Outer Mongolia, only a few hundred yards away, several hundred demonstrators shouted slogans after the Chinese agency reported violent incidents involving Chinese in Ulan Bator.

The news agency reports said British authorities in Hong Kong sent thousands of riot police into the streets to slaughter workers and staff of Chinese organizations.

The demonstrations followed five days of quiet outside the British mission, after three days of protests last week involving more than 1,000,000 people, also against British handling of the Hong Kong riots.

Tory Glory Rekindled in SC Sweep

By ED SIMON

EDMONTON (CP)—Premier Manning's "board of directors" remains in firm control of the corporation. But he will have to contend with a vigorous young minority group of stockholders.

The executive-suite approach was one of the premier's favorite weapons in his plea to the Alberta electorate to give the Social Credit government a ninth term in office. And the voters responded Tuesday by presenting Mr. Manning with another handsome majority.

But they also confronted him with a new official Opposition of six young Progressive Conservatives, five of them under 40 and all newcomers to the legislature.

Final Standings

Final CP standing in Alberta:

Social Credit	55	60
Liberals	3	2
New Democratic	—	—
Prog. Con.	6	—
Independent	1	—
Coalition	—	1
Total	65	63
Redistribution	increased number of seats to 65 from 63.

The victory was a personal triumph for the 58-year-old premier, the seventh under his leadership and an unprecedented ninth mandate for a party that has held office continuously since it came to power under the late William Aberhart in 1935.

But much glory belonged to 38-year-old Peter Lougheed, a Calgary lawyer who brought the Conservatives back from the political wilderness in two years as their leader.

SUPPORT WAVING

The Liberals retained their three-seat representation in the house but saw their share of the party vote virtually halved. The New Democratic Party lost a seat it had picked up in a by-election last year.

CASTING HER first ballot in Alberta elections is Mrs. James Lapotac, of the Stony Plain Indian Reserve. She is one of the 12,000 Alberta Indians eligible to vote for the first time in a provincial election. Waiting behind her is a neighbor, Daniel Lapreire. (CP Wirephoto.)

Mr. Manning, who had made the NDP his chief target during the campaign, expressed pleasure at its "complete repudiation" and welcomed Mr. Lougheed and his colleagues to the house.

The Conservative comeback was spurred by an energetic door-knocking campaign, particularly in urban constituencies.

The sixth PC seat was won by Dr. Hugh Horner, a proven vote-getter who resigned a federal seat to take the northwestern constituency of Lac Ste. Anne from Social Credit.

Among the victims of the Conservative upsurge was Education Minister R. H. McKinnon, the first Alberta cabinet member to suffer defeat at the polls since 1955. His conqueror was 33-year-old Don Getty, a former Edmonton Eskimos quarterback.

FOOTBALLER LOSES

Another former Eskimo, defensive back Oscar Kruger, fell 1,300 votes short in his bid for the PCs to capture the new Edmonton seat of Strathcona South won by Social Credit Joe Radstaak.

Conservatives finished worse than second in only three of the 20 Edmonton and Calgary constituencies. Mr. Lougheed's 4,452-vote majority was the biggest in the province.

Ironically, all three Liberal members of the last house increased their majorities while the party's support elsewhere dwindled.

Party Leader Mike MacCagno won a fourth term in Lac la Biche by more than 500 votes, nearly 200 above his 1963 margin, and Bill Dickie's margin in Calgary Glenmore increased by 150 votes.

Bill Switzer, who scraped through by 90 votes two years ago in a byelection in Edson, was nearly 600 votes ahead. NDP Leader Neil Reimer, the 1965 runner-up, was in third place, almost 1,300 votes back.

REJECT TURCOTT

A bitter NDP loss was the Pincher Creek-Crowsnest constituency, which Garth Turcott had won by 136 votes in a by-election last October to give the party its first seat in the legislature.

Charles Drain, a 54-year-old retired contractor conducting his first political campaign, recaptured the seat for Social Credit—the only government gain at the expense of a rival party.

From the day he entered the house, Mr. Turcott established himself as one of its most publicized members with a lengthy campaign for a judicial inquiry into allegations that Municipal Affairs Minister A. J. Hooke and E. W. Himman, former provincial treasurer, had used or attempted to use their office for personal gain in conflict with their public duty.

Mr. Manning eventually set up the inquiry after the house was dissolved and its hearings are expected to open next month.

Mr. Hooke was re-elected in Rocky Mountain House by a

Albertans Against More Sun

EDMONTON (CP)—Incomplete reports on a plebiscite held in conjunction with the Alberta general election Tuesday showed a majority of voters opposed to the introduction of daylight time in Alberta.

A tabulation of reports from 3,546 of 3,508 polls reported showed 220,039 against daylight time, 211,501 in favor.

Rural areas retained their traditional opposition to daylight time which many farmers argue creates problems in their operation.

The heaviest favorable vote came from urban areas although some Edmonton constituencies were almost evenly divided.

Use of daylight time in Alberta now is forbidden by provincial law. Premier Manning said a simple majority would decide the issue.

sharply reduced majority. Mr. Himmman failed to win re-election in Cardston but rancher Alvin Bullock retained the seat for Social Credit.

Indians voted for the first time in an Alberta election and the NDP gained support but no seats with Indian candidates in two northern constituencies.

Phil Thompson, business agent for the Hay Lakes reserve, missed by 200 votes in his bid to unseat a Social Crediter in Dunvegan and Stan Daniels, a business executive, slipped 1,000 votes off a government member's majority in Grouard.

SIR FRANCIS TV man dead

Chichester Rendezvous Sparks Row

PLYMOUTH, England (AP)—Controversy and death Tuesday marred the last stage of the 28,000-mile world voyage of lone British yachtsman Sir Francis Chichester.

The controversy arose over a mid-Atlantic rendezvous between Chichester's 53-foot yacht Gipsy Moth IV and a boat carrying a British Broadcasting Corp. television crew.

Francis Spriggs, 23, a young independent television technician who had been taken off the TV boat in huge seas Monday, died in hospital.

In the row over the rendezvous, Dr. Michael Winstanley, a Liberal party spokesman on broadcasting, described the BBC interview as "inane and tasteless."

Lady Chichester denounced the BBC rendezvous off the Azores as "an intrusion of privacy."

Chichester, 65, is due to reach Plymouth by the weekend. The cause of Spriggs' death was not immediately known.

Policeman Killed

OSCEOLA, Ark. (UPI)—A 70-year-old man, equipped with a shotgun, rifle and pistol, engaged police in a five-hour gun-battle Tuesday night. One policeman was killed and two other officers were wounded along with several spectators.

BIG POWERS URGE TALKS

British Foreign Secretary George Brown discussed the crisis in Moscow with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Premier Alexei Kosygin. In a speech later, Brown appealed for Soviet help in getting the Security Council to discuss the crisis and in efforts to re-establish a UN presence in the Middle East.

At Nasser's request, Thant pulled out the 3,400-man UN Emergency Force last week from positions in the Egyptian-Israeli border and along the Gulf of Aqaba where it had kept the peace after the Suez war.

Cairo's semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram said blockade operations were begun Tuesday on Nasser's orders. It said mines have been placed in the gulf and Egyptian planes and torpedo boats are patrolling the Red Sea at the mouth of the gulf.

"War with Israel might break out any moment," the paper said in banner headlines above a four-column picture of a big coastal gun it said was trained on the narrow Strait of Tiran, the entrance to the gulf.

Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol renewed his government's pledge to defend the right of Israeli shipping to use the Jewish nation's water route to East Africa and the Far East. He told Parliament that "a fateful hour, not only for Israel, but for the whole world" is at hand. Maariv, Israel's largest evening paper, said Nasser's threat to close the Strait of Tiran amounted to a declaration of war.

President Johnson made the U.S. position plain in a statement declaring American support for free passage through the Gulf of Aqaba.

Johnson said Egypt's threat to halt all Israeli ships and ships of any other nations carrying strategic cargo was "illegal and potentially disastrous to the cause of peace."

Two hours before Johnson spoke, the Soviet government lined up with the Arab states in a statement warning that aggression in the Middle East "would encounter not only the united strength of the Arab countries, but also resolute resistance on the part of the Soviet Union."

The latest confrontation developed after Israel threatened military reprisals for Arab commando raids from Syria. Syria and Egypt massed their forces on Israel's borders and Israel deployed its troops in response.

Informants in Cairo said more than 100,000 Egyptian troops are on Israel's southwest frontier.

The war threat brought some closing of ranks by traditional enemies among the Arab states.

King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, on a state visit to Britain, said he would overlook differences with other Arab states—meaning Egypt and Syria—and join in any war against Israeli aggression.

Baghdad radio said Israeli troops pledged to aid Syria are on the move. There were reports that Jordan had given Iraqi forces permission to cross its soil to Syria.

Planning For Crisis

Acting Health Minister Dan Campbell today emerged from a morning-long meeting to say that emergency planning to meet the psychiatric nurses crisis is well under way.

He said the planning was being carried out even while he awaits a reply to a Tuesday wire asking the nurses' representatives to meet with him and Civic Service Commission chairman Dr. Hugh Morrison.

I. R. Martin president of the B.C. Psychiatric Nurses Association, earlier had wired to ask for a meeting with Premier Bennett to try to find a formula for averting the June 2 resignation of almost 900 nurses in provincial mental hospitals.

Threats at Expo

MONTREAL (CP)—A spokesman for the Israeli pavilion at Expo 67 said today the pavilion was closed to the general public for much of Tuesday after "threats of a general strike" were received. (See story Page 1.)

President Zalman Shazar of Israel and Mrs. Shazar visited the pavilion during the Tuesday celebrations of the fair's national day for Israel.

Church Against Sale

TORONTO (CP)—An agency of the United Church of Canada says Canadians "must voice their deep concern that the federal government seems to be backing this foolish, utterly impossible adventure of the United States in Vietnam."

The board of evangelism and social service of the church, largest Protestant denomination in Canada, said in a statement Tuesday that Canadian companies and individuals are "reaping handsome profits" from increasing exports of war materials to the U.S.

Last year, exports of weapons under a defence production agreement between Canada and the U.S., reached $300,000,000 "and it is expected to be higher in 1967."

"The Canadian government says it is working constantly in an attempt to bring the warring parties to the conference table. At the same time... Ottawa is encouraging Canadian firms to compete actively with American companies in the supply of military equipment to the U.S. armed forces."

Political Reflex

OBSERVERS MIGHT DETECT more than a trace of envy in Mr. Diefenbaker's typically energetic criticism of the federal government in regard to its unified defence force and the dissolution of the United Nations police force function in the Gaza Strip.

For years he has heard his arch rival, Mr. Pearson, praised for his history-making feat in initiating the UN peace-keeping operation on the Israeli-Egyptian border. And he has seen the government plan for unification of the armed forces of Canada pushed through step by step to adoption. Now he has the opportunity to strike at the latter by pointing to the Gaza situation on the basis that unification was advocated as one means of creating a mobile force for UN peace-keeping roles.

Two fallacies in Mr. Diefenbaker's current attacks are evident. He ignores the possibility—indeed, the probability—that some new means of using a neutral United Nations military force will quickly be devised. And he implies that without the opportunity for service in UN policing operations the new unified Canadian force will be useless.

The present situation brought on by President Nasser's warlike gestures cannot wipe out the fact that for eleven years the United Nations force has successfully patrolled the Gaza boundary and kept the peace. Nor can it dispel the success of similar UN operations in the Congo and currently in Cyprus.

The need for an international peace-keeping force is as great now as it was last week before President Nasser's action—and the very extremity of that need ensures that some answer will be devised to meet the new difficulty. President Nasser himself may be very happy before long to welcome a United Nations "presence" back into the area.

Such a development would not silence Mr. Diefenbaker's criticisms, of course, but it would put them in perspective—a position which does not do much for the Opposition Leader's utterances, so often ruled by automatic political reflexes rather than by a sober observation of what is going on.

Time for a Fresh Look

TAKE away the bands, floats, marchers and clowns and what have you got? So the saying goes.

It would not be fair to subject the Victoria Day parade to such attrition and then demand an answer. But it was very evident on Monday that the visiting bands from United States schools have become the most prevalent feature of the annual display, and it is now time to take stock of the traditional Victoria Day parade and determine what the future trend is to be.

Certainly there should be no thought of cutting down on the Washington State entries—they are a welcome and invigorating addition to the big event. The move should be to increase the local participation in various ways so as to place the picture in perspective.

The day of the large decorated float apparently is over. The rising costs of ornate floats have limited such projects mainly to civic entries. But there should be plenty of scope for other imaginative displays—and many of Monday's entries were good examples of what is possible. The parade, however, seems to need some innovation and encouragement and a new look at what might be done.

The problem of lengthy gaps has not been solved, and this year it was particularly evident. This is something to which the hard-working parade organizers should give priority attention, for it has reached the point of curtailing the interest of the audience in what for many Greater Victorians is the big public event of the year. It is because of this popular status, and the great amount of work that many persons put into the event, that it should be preserved and improved to meet the hunger of people for their favorite form of celebration.

A Home Off the Reserve

MR. EDWIN UNDERWOOD, former chief of the East Saanich Indian band, thinks the federal government's newly announced plan of federal grants to help Indians to acquire homes off the reservation is "very nice," but he doubts that money allocated for the project will go very far.

The former chief's doubts are understandable but perhaps a little too pessimistic.

The conditional grants make available up to $6,000 for a home and up to $1,000 for furniture. For this, says Mr. Arthur Laing, minister of Indian affairs and northern development, his department has set aside a sum of $1 million to initiate the program.

If qualified applicants received the combined maximum, the initial million dollars would be taken up by 143 recipients.

The fund, however, is only an "initial amount" to start the program. It could grow—and the reception of the idea by some opposition spokesmen indicated hopes that it would.

The proposed assistance is not a gift without strings. To qualify, Indians must be employed and seek living accommodation off the reservation. The grants, moreover, would be protected by second mortgages which would be excused only when the Indian had lived in his home for 10 years.

The intent of the scheme seems admirable. It is an effort to make it possible for industrious Indians, with jobs, to choose the locality in which they want to live and build their lives on a permanent foundation.

Specifically, it gives them the opportunity to take advantage of home ownership finance facilities available to other Canadians—a chance to acquire a home of their own and, in the process, improve housing conditions for members of their race.

Money in the Banks

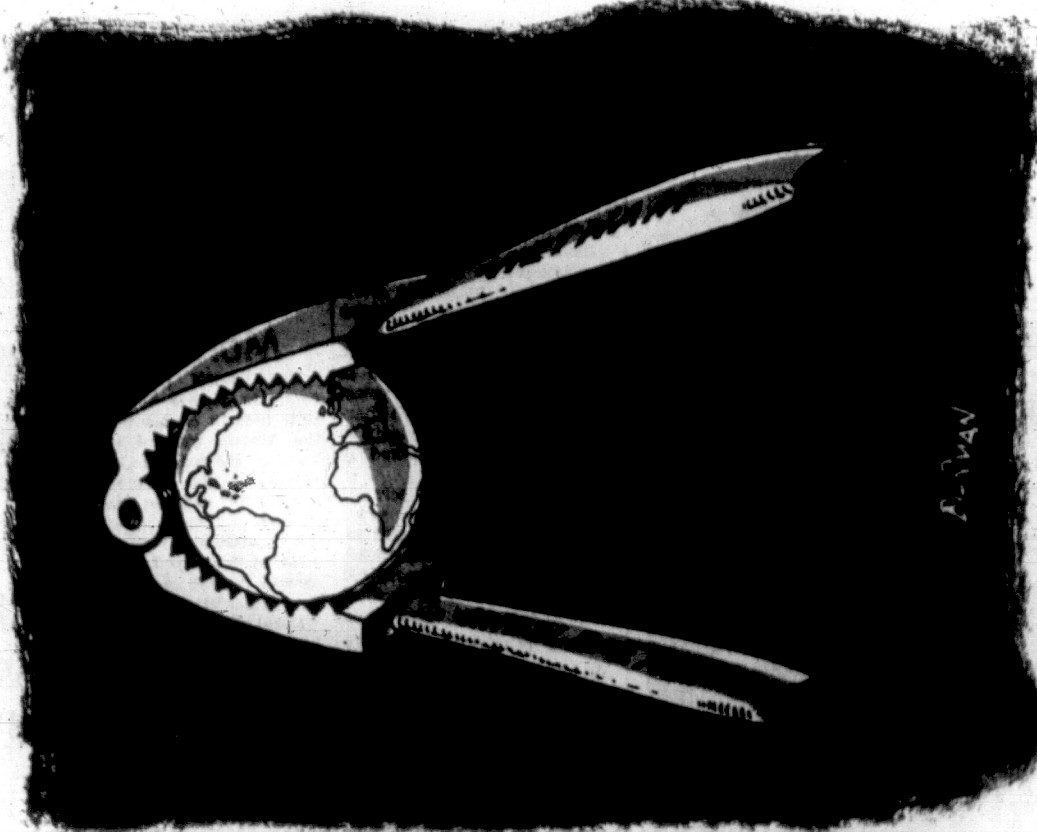

A BILL SIGNED BY PRESIDENT Johnson last week points indirectly to the enormous value of fresh water in parts of the world where it is in short or diminishing supply. The legislation commits the government to contributing $57.2 millions toward development of the world's largest desalting plant on a man-made island off the coast of southern California.

Full cost of the project—a nuclear facility to produce 150 million gallons of fresh water a day as well as 1.8 million kilowatts of electricity, is close to half a billion dollars. Scheduled to go into operation in 1973, the plant will relieve the pressure of demand on the Colorado River, whose waters are claimed by a large part of the semi-arid southwestern United States.

The 150 million gallons a day of fresh water to be produced by the nuclear facility is virtually a trickle compared with the great amounts of fresh water which Canada has available. Yet look at the price tag. Even allowing for the power generated, it is expensive water and yet the President said this was just a beginning, the first of "a whole family of desalting plants to help not only coastal communities but inland towns as well."

The American experience provides a lesson for this country—our fresh water resources are as good as money in the bank; if we abuse them or alienate them we could be faced with the same heavy expense as the United States.

UNITED NATIONS, NEW YORK

Canada Urges An Alternative to UNEF

By WILLIAM R. FRYE

THE principal objective of UN Secretary-General U Thant's peace mission to Cairo, it is understood here, is to replace with a new UN "presence" the peace army which President Nasser has thrown out. Thant is acting, in part, at the strong urging of the United States and Canada, which objected to the removal of UNEF and want some substitute arranged.

Washington and Ottawa believe Nasser can be persuaded to accept a modest UN "presence" which does not seriously inhibit his freedom to act against Israel, but which might reduce the danger of war.

One form the new presence could take, they suggest, would be an expanded UN truce-supervision organization (TSO). TSO observers now investigate and report armistice violations along the other three Arab-Israeli borders.

It remains to be seen, as a result of the Thant mission (A) whether Nasser is, indeed, amenable to a limited form of UN presence, and (B) if so, whether such a presence would be able to make a significant contribution toward keeping the peace.

The TSO has been so severely hamstrung by both sides in recent months that it has been unable to keep the Israeli-Syrian border quiet. It has done better along the Israeli-Lebanese and Israeli-Jordanian armistice lines.

Washington and Ottawa believe Nasser essentially wants, not a clash with Israel, but the political benefits in the Arab world of having threatened one.

They see him in the role of a man who postures belligerently but who secretly wants someone to hold his arms.

The United States has considerable leverage which could, it is felt, be brought to bear on Nasser if necessary.

The U.A.R. needs American food aid, and has been having exchange difficulties in the International Monetary Fund where the United States is influential.

Amenable

But Washington assumes—perhaps optimistically—that, with some 40,000 of his best troops tied down in Yemen, Nasser will not need to be severely pressured into avoiding large-scale warfare.

The real danger, it is felt here, is not that war will be deliberately planned by either side but that it will come about accidentally, as a result of misinformation or miscalculation.

This is the kind of thing the UN's TSO has helped prevent elsewhere. In addition to investigating clashes and reporting findings, its officers sometimes negotiate cease-fires on the spot.

Moreover, mixed armistice commissions (MACS) consisting of Israeli, Arab and UN personnel, sit as quasi-courts to pass judgment on offenders. Their only form of "punishment" is exposure and condemnation, but this has a certain amount of inhibiting effect some of the time.

MAC Collapse

The Egyptian-Israeli MAC collapsed some years ago, when Israel, contending the armistice agreement with Egypt was dead, insisted on dealing with UNEF instead. The MAC continued to operate on the Egyptian side.

Now, with UNEF being withdrawn, there will be no mutually acceptable intermediary unless TSO operations are restored. Thant saw Israeli delegate Gideon Rafael, May 22, presumably to urge Israel to co-operate.

The Secretary-General left New York Monday evening and is due back Friday afternoon.

On his return, the Security Council is expected to agree to carry out whatever agreement he reaches—the Soviet Union withholding its veto, not wishing to be "more Moslem than Mohammed."

Letter

U.S. Anti-War Vote

You may recall that in the 1966 elections in the U.S. one American city, Dearborn, Michigan, confronted its citizens with the question, "Are you in favor of an immediate cease-fire and withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam?" Of those voting 41 per cent voted for withdrawal. The issue had been put on the ballot by the mayor, an ex-Marine, who said, "I think the war is illegal. If I were a young fellow, I'd rather spend three years on a rock pile than to fight some poor little barefoot guys who have never done anything to us."

The American people today are sicker of the whole bloody mess than they were then. They would gladly seize on a sensible alternative if it were presented to them. Howard Zinn's "The Logic of Withdrawal" 1967 clearly shows the solution, immediate cease-fire and withdrawal. Most of us have relatives and close friends south of the border. We feel that those who call for a halt to this madness are their true friends. The enemies of the U.S.A. would seem to be those who stand outside its borders urging ever greater loss of life, valuable goods and world prestige.—Dorcas Blair, No. 705, 450 Dallas.

FROM LONDON

Andropov Rises on Changing USSR Tides

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

THE dismissal of a chief of Soviet security invariably reflects a major shift in the balance of power within the Kremlin.

The one certainty about the fall of Vladimir Semichastny and his supersession as head of the committee of state security, or KGB, by Yuri Andropov is that it means an accession of strength to Leonid Brezhnev, general secretary of the Soviet Communist Party.

It may be true, as some have suggested, that Semichastny has gone because he let Stalin's daughter slip through his fingers, or because his spy network had lately shown itself too accident-prone. But sacking on such grounds would be only a pretext. The dismissal of Semichastny is an important move in Brezhnev's long and steadily successful campaign to undermine one of his chief rivals, Alexander Shelepin.

Shelepin and Semichastny have been close for years. Shelepin climbed to power through the Komsomol, the Young Communist League, and Semichastny was his chief aide. When, in 1958, Shelepin took over as head of the KGB from the notorious General Serov, Semichastny inherited the leadership of the Komsomol.

He then secured a footnote in the history books by covering writer Boris Pasternak with the language of the gutter—"He has done what even a pig will not do. Pasternak, who regards himself as a shining light of society, has fouled the place where he eats and covered those by whose labor he lives and breathes with filth."

In 1964, when Shelepin, still only 44, soared to dangerous heights because of his role, as chief policeman, in engineering the fall of Nikita Khrushchev, Semichastny took over the KGB from him. Since then, in his long and losing struggle with Brezhnev, Shelepin has always possessed some sort of a power base through his connection with Semichastny in the KGB. That power base has now gone.

Older Roots

Andropov, who succeeds as the head of KGB, is senior to Semichastny not only in years but also, very much, in rank. Shelepin, still only 49, and Semichastny, six years younger, have been prominent in the "Young Turk" group that came of age a generation after the revolution. Although Andropov is only 53, he belongs much more to the transitional group with its roots in an older tradition.

The two egregious youth leaders were born tough; Andropov is quieter. He has a diplomatic career behind him—he was ambassador to Budapest at the time of the Hungarian uprising in 1956. After that he moved up, very much in the shadow of Khrushchev, inside the party apparatus with special responsibility for relations with the Communist parties of the Soviet bloc.

Crumbling Monolith

He has thus presided over the gradual disintegration of this so-called monolith, beginning with the Sino-Soviet quarrel and up to and including the Rumanian challenge to Moscow.

More important, he is a member of the central committee secretariat and thus very much a Brezhnev man. His appointment brings the security apparatus, with the secret police, under the immediate control of a member of the party's higher leadership for the first time since the killing of Beria in 1953. What this will mean in practice is anybody's guess.

Certainly Andropov is more gifted, more cultivated and far cleverer than

Russian Roulette

By WALTER LIPPMAN
From Washington

THE President denies that he has put us on a collision course with Red China and the Soviet Union. In this he is relying upon his ability to guess correctly how far he can go in North Vietnam without bringing on Chinese intervention. He feels he is able to judge just what targets he can hit before the big Communist powers decide to hit back. This is a kind of Russian roulette. The President believes that he can discriminate between those targets which he can hit with safety and those which he cannot hit with safety.

This is a deadly guessing game. Yet it has become the centre of the Johnson strategy. It would be less giddy and nerve-racking if it were not for the fact that it was played once before, and played, moreover, by some of the same men who are playing it now. This was in the Korean war. Some of the President's principal advisers are the same men who guessed wrong in the Korean war. They could not then believe that if General MacArthur carried the war into North Korea and to the Yalu River that the Chinese would intervene. The Indian ambassador in Washington passed along a message from the Indian ambassador in Peking warning the United States government that a movement to the Yalu would set off Chinese intervention. The Indian ambassador's name was Panikar, and he was one of the ablest diplomats in the service. But the State Department dismissed his warnings, and the ever witty bureaucrats called him "Panicky Panikar." Not long after that the United States army suffered one of its worst military disasters.

Could Be Repeated

It does not, of course, follow that the Korean experience will be repeated. But the fact of the matter is that it may be repeated. This is because President Johnson has allowed the issue of the Vietnam war to become a test of whether the United States is to continue to be a military power on the Asian mainland. The President is acting through a puppet regime in Saigon supported by troops and enormous sea and air power.

The most important recent development from the other side of the struggle has been the warning that the two Communist powers are resolved not to let the United States win the kind of military victory which President Johnson's new war aims call for. No one can pretend to know at just what point in the escalation the Chinese and the Soviet Union will in fact intervene. But what we do know is that President Johnson has war aims in Asia that cannot be achieved against the offensive power of China and of Russia. That is why he is on a collision course.

Positive Press

Montreal Le Devoir

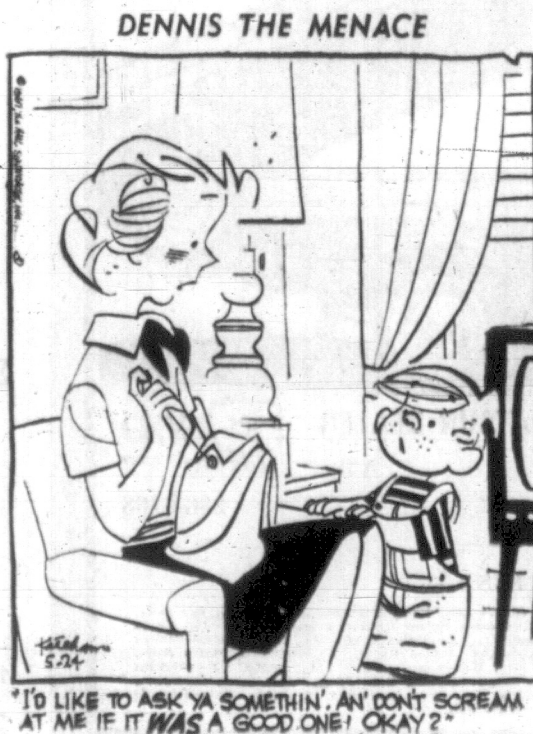

Pierre Dupuy (commissioner-general of Expo 67 and former Canadian ambassador abroad) did not make any bones about it the other day. He said that in all his years as a diplomat and in public life he had never seen a press as pessimistic as that of Canada. He even asked if in certain cases the so-called freedom of the press, which is being abused, should be sacrificed to the overriding interests of the nation.

The judgment of the commissioner-general surprises us. We have travelled a fair amount. In all countries where there was a living democracy, we found a press that knew how to be skeptical, critical and even severe toward power in any shape or form. Compared with that of France, Britain and Italy, the press here, in general, appears to us to be more conciliatory, less aggressive toward those in power.

The press here sometimes commits monumental blunders, but this must be attributed particularly to the carelessness or the incompetence of a few individuals. It is, however, when everything is taken into account, a press with a clearly positive approach, at least as far as the daily newspapers are concerned.

As to the argument about national interest, it is very familiar to those in charge of newspapers. Every time they disturb people, it is the argument these people use to complain about the treatment they have been receiving.

It is necessary to attribute to fatigue the excessive proposals by the generally moderate man which Mr. Dupuy basically is. We are forced to register our dissent, but this incident changes nothing in the admiration inspired in us by the work Mr. Dupuy has accomplished in the last three years.

Looking Back

From The Times, May 24, 1967.

The contract for the new Merchant's Bank to be built at the corner of Yates and Douglas Streets was let today for $42,850. The building firm of Wood and McVicar will commence work immediately on the building.

It will be built entirely of stone, and stand on a corner which many predict will be the main artery of the city in the future. The frontage facing Yates and Douglas will be flanked by massive columns.

THE MEN BEHIND THE PRESIDENT

Premier Johnson in Paris: Nervous-Making for Ottawa

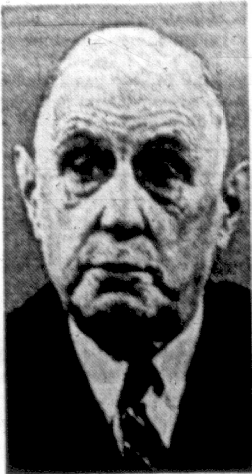

By PETER C. NEWMAN

OTTAWA — Despite Canada's deepening involvement in both the Middle East crisis and the Vietnam war, some of the most nervous-making dispatches coming into the External Affairs Department over the past week have been the reports datelined Paris, speculating on the blossoming entente between Charles de Gaulle of France and Daniel Johnson of Quebec.

The concern that haunts Ottawa officialdom is that the two men may have privately agreed to some grand pronouncement, timed to coincide with the French president's visit to Canada in mid-July, which could move the delicate detente now setting limits on how far the province of Quebec can edge into the arena of international affairs.

The Johnson-de Gaulle deal on the construction of a satellite which will beam French radio and TV programs into Quebec is only one example of the kind of joint French-Quebec initiative which will have to be met by a yet-to-be-formulated federal policy. (The Pearson cabinet has already delayed six months trying to decide whether we should have a national satellite policy of our own.)

Recent Quebec governments both under Jean Lesage and

CHARLES DE GAULLE could upset . . .

DANIEL JOHNSON . . . delicate entente

Daniel Johnson—have scrupulously observed both the form and the substance of their circumscribed provincial jurisdiction in dealings with foreign powers. But Ottawa's current nervousness over the extent and evolution of direct diplomatic relations between France and the province of Quebec is based on solid historical precedent.

It is important to remember, in this context, that although Canada became a nation in 1867, it wasn't until the years between 1923 and 1931, that Canadian sovereignty was given final recognition through a series of treaty negotiations which first allowed our diplomats to negotiate independent of British auspices. (This process began with the halibut treaty of 1923 and culminated in the Statute of Westminster of 1931 which provided that no Canadian treaty could be voided, even if it were incompatible with British law.) Some historically-minded bureaucrats in Ottawa have convinced themselves that their radical opposite numbers in Quebec City intend to pursue the same route to independence followed by the Dominion: that is, to sign more and more treaties in wider and wider jurisdictions until separate international recognition becomes a de facto reality.

This trend was emphasized, they feel, by the establishment last spring of Quebec's department of inter-governmental affairs, charged, among other things, with international contacts.

affair goes back to the signing of the cultural 'umbrella' agreement between France and Canada in the fall of 1965. This allowed Quebec to negotiate cultural treaties under federal sponsorship and immediately after it was signed, the Canadian government offered the same kind of deal to Belgium, Europe's other major French-speaking power.

But the Belgian government, aware of internal problems with its own Flemish minority, rejected the idea in favor of a bilateral treaty with Canada's federal administration. Quebec took soundings as to whether the Belgian approach could be changed, but they were politely rebuffed.

Premiers Advised

Just before the Belgian royal visitors arrived here in the first week of May, Prime Minister Pearson sent a letter (received in Quebec City on May 4) to all provincial premiers advising them that a treaty would be signed between the two countries, but noting that it would be limited to fields within federal jurisdiction. (The 11-point treaty deals mostly with matters involving the CBC, the Canada Council, the National Research Council and other federal agencies. It doesn't commit any province to share in these cultural exchange programs unless it specifically wants to do so.)

It was at this point that Quebec began to put great pressure on the Belgian embassy in Ottawa, urging them not to sign the treaty until after the royal visit to Quebec (on May 9 and 10) so that it could at least appear as though the Quebec government had been involved in its drafting. Ottawa replied that it was not engaged in any act of wilful provocation, but the presence of the royal personages in the capital merely seemed like the ideal occasion for the signing ceremonies.

On Sunday, May 7, Premier Johnson sent a telegram to the prime minister stating angrily that signing of the agreement with the Belgian government without consultation with his province "raised the general antagonism of Quebec," and that his government would be obliged to "disassociate itself from such a gesture."

Even Stiffer

The next morning an even stiffer telegram was sent by Andre Patry, chief of protocol in Johnson's office to General Robert Monceil, Ottawa's man in charge of state visits, requesting Monceil to inform the department of external affairs that the presence of Paul Tremblay (Canada's ambassador to Belgium) who was accompanying the royal party would not be welcomed in Quebec City under the circumstances.

The federal cabinet considered the Patry request and rejected it out of hand. Patry was warned that the royal visit to Quebec would be cancelled on 12 hours notice, and that this would have implications for future state visits as well.

The federal reply asserted further that visitors of state were guests of Canada and that it was clearly within the rules of international protocol that our ambassador to the country involved accompany the distinguished visitors.

The Canada-Belgium agreement was signed on schedule in Ottawa on Monday, May 8, with the royal couple, Paul Martin, Tremblay and Guy Dufresne de la Chevalerie (Belgium's ambassador to Canada) in attendance.

Had No Choice

The following afternoon Marc Lalonde, the prime minister's policy advisor, flew to Quebec City on a government plane to persuade Daniel Johnson that he had no choice but to back down and allow the Canadian ambassador to Belgium to accompany the royal couple. By nine o'clock the same night Lalonde had obtained a withdrawal of the threat from Johnson and carried it back with him to Ottawa.

Although Daniel Johnson charged the next day in the Quebec legislature that Belgian royalty had been used as dupes in a federal campaign to crush Quebec's jurisdiction, the visit of the prince and princess to Quebec City was relatively uneventful. Ottawa is not boasting about its firmness in the Belgium-Quebec dispute but the federal authority has made the point that Quebec must realize where its prerogatives end, and that if the province overreaches itself, it can expect to be slapped down.

The next test will come when President de Gaulle arrives in Quebec City, but for now at least the battle lines are clearly drawn, and both the federal government and the Johnson administration are aware of the limitations of their powers.

McNamara's Split Personality

WASHINGTON—Arch-heretics labeled the war in Vietnam "McNamara's war". That misnomer is more ill-fitting today than it ever was.

Any man responsible for spending the greatest portion of the federal budget, and for providing physical security to the United States in an age of unparalleled insecurity automatically casts a larger-than-life shadow across Washington.

Defence Secretary Robert S. McNamara casts two images, for he is a split personality.

One Robert McNamara lives in the fiscal year, thinks cost-effectively, and allocates for peace, rifles, bombs, men, ships, planes and missiles. He emits, in reassuring staccato bursts, statistics, analyses, predictions, conclusions.

The other Robert McNamara is a humanist who lives in an imprecise world. He is especially tormented by the refusal of a second-class war in a fourth-rate country to yield to any quantifiable result producible from any specific measure of investment by the world's greatest military power. This McNamara proclaims as "a kind of reductio ad absurdum" the concept that military hardware is the exclusive or even the primary ingredient of permanent peace in the mid-twentieth century.

To his more polite critics, McNamara is "Janus-faced," meaning that on the war in Vietnam, he talks dove-talk to the doubters, and hawk-talk to the committed.

Position Shift

Where McNamara's talk and actions count most, inside the closed councils of government, it is said by insiders, he is just about as militant as Secretary of State Dean Rusk and presidential adviser Walt W. Rostow, the other principal war co-ordinators for the president. All have shifted position at one time or another on the wisdom of taking this step or that at a particular time.

There is at least one fundamental difference about the war among these officials. It cannot be expressed by the maddeningly imprecise hawk-dove labeling, which is a semantic shorthand legacy of the 1962 Cuban missile crisis.

McNamara's reputation for brilliance rests on articulating precision; the application of mathematical logic to break a problem into its component parts, the production of a solution for each part, with the result an identifiable, projectable answer.

When the United States began to plunge deep into the Vietnamese war, McNamara was a prime optimist. But unforeseen forces kept breaking through the surface to drown his expectations: The Buddhists, the collapse of

This is the second of three articles on the three men who influence President Johnson most strongly in the decisions he makes on the war in Vietnam. These men—Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defence Robert McNamara and Special Presidential Aide Walt Whitman Rostow—meet formally with the President weekly at what has come to be known as Washington's "Tuesday lunch" and additionally are available for consultation 24 hours a day.

Robert McNamara With the Boss overthrow of this Saigon leader or that, the inability of various strategic calculations to produce decisive results. "He changed from a mechanical optimist to a mechanical pessimist," is the way one who knows him intimately has put it.

Rusk and Rostow were and are sustained by a simpler rationale: American power and ingenuity, and the military, somehow inevitably will produce the requisite conjunction of pressures to add up to success. There are no Georgetown circuit stories of expressions of self-doubt in moments of candor by Rusk or Rostow.

There are stories about McNamara. On occasion he has said that the prime decision was to put American military forces into Vietnam and that on this decision he is as fully responsible as he was for the decision to undertake what turned out to be the Bay of Pigs debacle. That does not mean that he was equating the two but that he feels a deep share of the responsibility for the Vietnam war.

McNamara, it should be stressed, dismisses as total rubbish rumors that he may resign, that he is dismayed by his job, that he is now out of the inner decision-making circle, or that he is thinking of anything but his current post.

McNamara was a leading advocate, after initial doubts, of what became the 37-day bombing pause in December, 1965-January, 1966. Rusk had to be converted at the last minute. Rostow was then in the State Department, with remarkably little, if any, influence on any phase of foreign policy.

The sporadic McNamara emphasis on negotiations was not the result of any lesser confidence in the efficacy of American military prowess. It was because he was uneasy

McNamara was arguing within the administration that, given the massive anti-aircraft and surface-to-air missile (SAM) defences around the MIG fields, such raids simply were not worth the expected cost in pilots and planes.

Nonetheless, the president gave the green light for the raids under strong pressure from the military and heavy backing from both Rusk and Rostow. Rusk contends that he has never proposed a bombing target but clearly he felt these and other air raids were part of what he believes is the necessary pressure on the north.

McNamara is frequently before congressional committees with militant membership: The Senate and House armed services committees; Rusk more often faces challenges from the dove-end of the spectrum, before the Senate foreign relations committee.

In their own departments, McNamara and Rusk are dealing with differently-oriented bureaucracies: At defence, McNamara holds down extreme hawks; at state, Rusk sits on extreme doves,

South the Kay

While McNamara, especially abroad, is depicted as the ruthless bomber of North Vietnam, in fact he has long argued, sometimes with more determination than Rusk and Rostow, that the key to the war lies in the south. McNamara can grow heated in pointing to what he considers overemphasis in news reporting of the bombing of the north.

To some of his more militant-minded critics, this produces the complaint that McNamara looks at the war too mathematically; that he is too unmindful of the interplay of international relations and diplomacy in which the bombing of the north is a major bargaining chip.

McNamara thus tends to look like a dove as he departs from an all-out position of militancy. Rusk, on the contrary, seems even more hawkish than he is as he tries to demolish the doves' contention that he is not doing enough for peace.

Although the McNamara and Rusk images do get over-polarized in the eyes of their varying supporters and antagonists, in reality there is a basic degree of difference in their state of comfort with the war.

THE GALLUP POLL

Most Canadians Approve Idea of a State Lottery

By The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

No mention was made in the Speech from the Throne about introducing government-operated lotteries and in this omission the government lags behind the public will. Today more than seven in ten citizens would approve government-sponsored lotteries for health and welfare. Less than two in ten disapprove such means of raising money.

This trend question, on subject of legalizing lotteries, has been periodically placed before the public since 1955. In that year 69% of the people approved government-operated lotteries; in 1959, 75% approved; today 73% approve.

The question: "Suppose the government operated a big national lottery to raise money for health and welfare, would you approve or disapprove?"

	1955	1959	Today
Approve	69%	75%	73%
No opinion	8	4	10
Disapprove	23	21	17
	100%	100%	100%

	Men	Women
Approve	79%	66%
Disapprove	15	18
No opinion	6	16
	100%	100%

And Next a Whole Community Aloft in a Giant Airliner

By ART STOTT

In a centennial year a thirtieth anniversary might slip by unnoticed. It hasn't, though, for Air Canada, and for good reason. The nation's airline has produced a small magazine marking the birthday of Trans-Canada and tracing developments since 1937 which have made the national service one of the top 10 in the world. It rolls back the years.

The first aircraft I ever saw appeared in the sky over Foul Bay more than 50 years ago—a strange, box-like sort of thing, skeletal and noisy as it spluttered and coughed up there on a flight to tragedy, crashing into Victoria's Chinatown.

We waited some time, after that, before we saw more. Then Eddie Hubbard, or his seaplane, became a familiar sight, sweeping across the bay on the mail run between this city and Seattle. A relatively few Victorians knew Eddie personally. All spoke of him as a friend.

After that we saw bigger craft when Ernie and Cecil Eve headed a local group which bought a Tri-Motor Ford, operating from the Lansdowne field. That also, followed a trail of calamity into the waters of the Strait.

Intermittently we had small cabin jobs flying out of the Inner Harbor, Esquimalt, or View Royal, one piloted by MacKenzie, others by men whose names slip the mind.

And then, in a major development, came Trans-Canada Airlines, C. D. Howe's particular baby, and Victoria talked about the lack of fog here and dreamed of becoming Canada's Pacific terminus for air travel throughout the world. That didn't happen, though the great pioneers of flying touched down here on occasion, and with each landing the dream rose again.

As Trans-Canada grew, Victoria became a link in the national system while Vancouver forged ahead. Some of us are old enough to think of those earlier years. A flight to Vancouver and back was adventure—a prestige activity for the busy businessman, a reward for the student returning to graduation ceremonies at UBC. You covered the distance between the two cities in 40 minutes—less if there was a tailwind.

At the old Times building, excitement ran high when Tom Merriman was picked to make the first flight across Canada—an inconceivable jaunt that would require only a few touchdowns, during which he would wire reports, and would bring him back the next day. We thought then, as the cowboy on his visit to Kansas City, that they'd gone about as far as they could go.

On the anniversary publication put out by Air Canada, the cover shows the cabin of an early TCA Lockheed 1808A Lodestar 14-passenger job, the type that flew domestic routes from the start of 1941 to late 1949. Sitting in the first seat is a lady who looks like Nancy Hodges. It probably is Nancy. She was early in the air hereabouts.

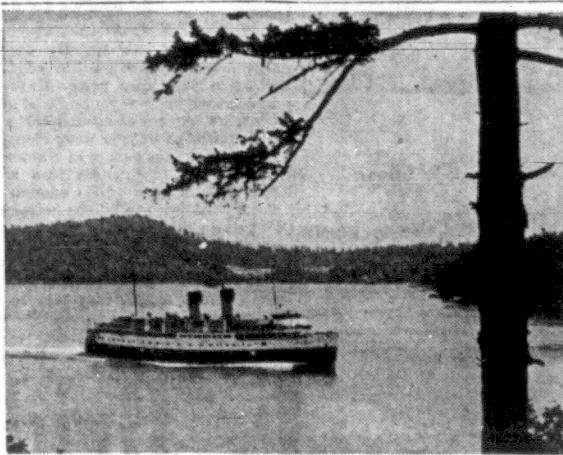

In recent years I've enjoyed flights on Air Canada. On a never-to-be forgotten occasion in 1958 some of us in the newspaper business "pioneered" the Hudson's Bay Route in a "Super Connie". From Vancouver to London it took us only a shade over 20 hours, with touchdowns at Winnipeg and Gander.

Because of bad weather, we didn't fly Hudson's Bay. We kept south, but at least one of us aboard felt like the early gentleman adventurers—up to the last two or three hours over the Atlantic, watching the sun rise over the cloud blanket and so tired he thought he'd just as soon have walked.

By 1960 the jets came in and time was almost halved.

Then, last year at this season, the Western Arrow made its trail-blazing flight from Vancouver to London non-stop and we covered the distance in under nine hours—a little more that I spend from starting for work in the morning and going home after my shift's finished. In 30 years Air Canada has moved a long way ahead. In the future are the supersonic air-liners crossing the Atlantic in a little over three hours and swinging over Canada from coast to coast in just over two, with 300 to 350 passengers aboard. Hope I'm around for the experience.

Not that I'm that keen on speed. But it gives you more time on the ground to see things leisurely, and it brings you home, drifting down above the Fraser Valley, then across the Strait over the islands to the hills and fields of Saanich, which is a view, I guess, that will always have imperishable attraction for this small-town boy.

Life Insurance for 20 year olds?

Definitely. This is the best time to buy life insurance. At the beginning of your career when the premiums are lower.

When you buy life insurance you create an estate of your own the moment you sign. Life insurance is also a sound investment. Thanks to compound interest, the cash value will keep increasing through the years giving you a "nest egg" for unforeseen emergencies.

Life insurance can also be used as collateral. For loans or business deals later.

Talk to the Man from Manufacturers. He'll discuss your particular situation with you and draw up your personal life insurance program. One with options so that up to age 40 you can add to it at intervals, including when you marry and when your children are born. You can make these additional purchases regardless of your health condition.

Twenty isn't too young to start your life insurance program. Some men even begin at 18. You have to start early when you're aiming for financial success.

'TELLING FRIENDSHIP OF DUTCH'

Queen Juliana Dedicates Carillon

Emotional Outburst By Crowd

By JOHN MIKA

While steel hammers and concrete trucks provided background noise, a one-time royal refugee Tuesday said she hoped a gift of bells would peel the sound of love and harmony for centuries to come.

Queen Juliana of the Netherlands expressed the hope before 400 persons gathered for the first function in the sunken Centennial Plaza of the museum-archives complex still in its midst of construction.

UNVEILED BLOCK

She unveiled a large granite block commemorating the event which will be placed in the base of a 78-foot tower to hold the carillon bells donated by the Netherlands Community Centennial Committee for B.C.

Most spectators were of Dutch origin, many of them recent arrivals, from various parts of Vancouver Island and the lower Mainland. For them it was a highly emotional event.

They burst into spontaneous singing of the Dutch national hymn during the ceremony and greeted their former queen as she arrived with the song dedicated to the Dutch royal family, the House of Orange.

EVEN PREMIER MOVED

Even Premier Bennett, who accompanied her along with Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, was moved by the occasion and he led the crowd in three mighty cheers and a tiger for Queen Juliana after she responded to the unexpected urgings to say a few words to the assembly.

"The Dutch-Canadians have given it (the carillon) as a token of their gratitude and their friendship for the wonderful, great country of Canada, and British Columbia especially," she said.

"Having lived myself here for several years, I can imagine how they feel and how happy they are to have found a new life in this Dominion."

TOLLING FRIENDSHIP

"And therefore," she continued, "may I express the wish that these bells will be ringing throughout the coming centuries to tell of all the friendship, harmony and gratitude of all those of Dutch descent feel for their hosts in this great land."

"Although your visit with us is but very brief," said Premier Bennett to the queen, "I trust you will carry with you fond memories of British Columbia and its citizens."

He said the gift to B.C. from its Dutch community "reflects the qualities of a thoughtful and industrious people. We are favored to have them as citizens."

"They are indeed a great asset to our expanding province."

While some of the workmen in the museum structure broke off to watch from vantage points — a few even recording the event with movie and still cameras — the Queen pulled aside the sheet covering the tablet which will commemorate the gift.

WORE DUTCH GARB

Doreen Oosterhuis, 14-year-old daughter of the Vancouver president of a Dutch organization, presented the queen with a bouquet of carnations and roses and, as the party left, it was waved farewell by three tots dressed in the traditional Dutch costumes.

Queen Juliana visited City Hall and later was driven to Butchart Gardens for an hour of peaceful quiet among the twittering birds and distant splashing of a waterfall and fountain in the famous quarry of the sunken garden.

She and her party sipped tea with their hosts Mr. and Mrs. Ian Ross, in a gold-and-white striped marquee tent overlooking the quarry before taking a brief tour of the various gardens and chatting with several gardeners of Dutch descent.

From Butchart Gardens, she was taken for an afternoon drive around Saanich Peninsula before returning to Government House for a state dinner.

She departed this morning for Vancouver where she will have a day free of formal duties before returning to Ottawa to resume her state visit to Canada.

Woman Leaps, Survives Fall

BRUSSELS—The woman who was photographed leaping from a burning department store on Monday has been identified as Mme. Monique Lenssens.

The photo was carried on the front page of the Times Tuesday.

She is in hospital with a broken back but doctors say she will be able to return to work in eight to 10 weeks.

Mme. Lenssens was a computer operator at the store.

Victoria Man Receives Degree

Kenneth Beattie of Victoria Newport Union High School in will receive his bachelor of arts degree from the University of Oregon, during 125th commencement exercises May 21. Mr. Beattie graduated from Beattie, 2810 Lansdowne Road.

UNVEILING an inscribed granite stone Tuesday was Queen Juliana of the Netherlands while (from left) Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Works Minister W. N. Chant joined 400 others as lookers-on. The stone will be placed in the base of a tower at the centennial museum-archives plaza which will hold carillon bells donated by the Dutch community as a centennial gift to B.C. Ceremony was at the plaza's 13-feet-below-street level, close by the large pool site.

A Beauty Hint

Margaret Merrill advises that it is quite simple for every woman to promote an English countryside complexion. Her hint to gain a peach-and-cream loveliness is to damp a cloth with cold water from your refrigerator and press it over your face for a few minutes once or twice a day. Then, to hold the good of the complexion—beautifying cold water, smooth on tropical oil of Olay. This oil is rather scarce and expensive, but your drug store should be able to get you a small supply.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan. If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bulk disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

FLAT TIRE BRINGS MEN OUT OF SKY

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Three men in green suits have come down from the sky to help Marilyn Kelsey change a tire.

The newlywed Mrs. Kelsey, 38, was moving from Casper, Wyo., to Denver Tuesday when her car had a flat tire. As she was struggling with the jack she heard a whirling noise above her.

Three air force men landed their helicopter on the deserted highway, changed her tire and whipped off.

Hoffa Jr. Loses

DETROIT (UPI)—James P. Hoffa, son of the imprisoned Teamsters Union president, today attributed his failure to win election to the Michigan House of Representatives to Democrats who stayed home on election day. Anthony Licata, 48, an advertising executive whose candidacy was backed by Gov. George Romney, narrowly defeated Hoffa Tuesday and his victory gave the Republican party control of the Michigan house, which had been divided 54-54.

MAN JAILED 3 MONTHS

Gave His Wife As Raffle Prize

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—A man who held a raffle with his wife as the prize was sentenced Tuesday to three months in jail. Provincial police said when they raided the Niagara-on-the-Lake home of Clifford Greenhalgh May 14 they found his 26-year-old wife naked in the living room with a man.

Greenhalgh, also 26, was in another room with four men. Police found a bowl containing draw tickets in that room. Greenhalgh, a hotel waiter, pleaded guilty to knowingly permitting his home to be used as a common bawdy house. A joint charge against Mrs. Greenhalgh, a mother of two, was withdrawn.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Corporation of the District of Central Saanich

BRENTWOOD SEWERS

The District of Central Saanich proposes to install sewers in the Brentwood area and will submit a money by-law to the ratepayers after the Council has held a public meeting, the public fully informed and provided the following conditions are met by the installation:

- (1) The installation is approved by the Pollution Control Board.
- (2) The Department of Fisheries will assure the District that the necessary protection for the fisheries of the area, has been effected and that future growth of the system appears well taken care of, and will be inspected regularly by the Department for the life of the plant.
- (3) The requirements of the Provincial Department of Health have been met.

The system proposed is commensurate followed by an extended aeration (secondary treatment) treatment plant with an outfall to a minimum of 10' depth of water. This plant provides a clear, odorless effluent, and no trace of the effluent will be found in the Bay.

The treatment will reduce the biological oxygen demand of the sewage by 90% - 95%.

After the population reaches 4,000, estimated to be in about 20 years, the effluent shall be pumped into mains built in other parts of the Peninsula, which will discharge into areas other than Brentwood Bay, as outlined in the Greater Victoria Sanitary Sewerage Study.

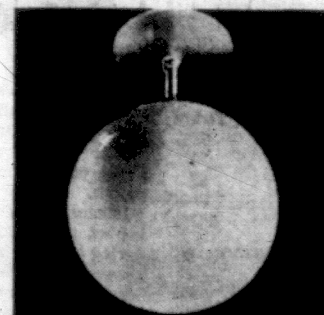

The Director of Pollution Control will hold a hearing commencing at 10:00 a.m. on Tuesday, May 23rd, 1967, in the Brentwood Women's Institute Hall, West Saanich Road at Brentwood Bay in connection with the application of the Corporation of the District of Central Saanich for a permit to discharge treated domestic effluent into Brentwood Bay.

Persons wishing to appear and make submission to the Director should notify the Director in writing by May 23, 1967. All briefs or written statements should be presented at the hearing, with a verbal summary.

No Sign Arson Caused Fire In Brussels

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — Belgian police have failed so far to find any sign of arson behind Monday's massive department store fire here in which more than 300 were feared killed.

Asked whether rumored anti-American arson by pro-Chinese Communists was suspected, Brussels Police Commissioner Andre-Julien de Gryse said: "So far there is no positive element entitling us to conclude that a criminal act was involved."

Persistent rumors have blamed the same young Communist-led youths, who demonstrated twice last week against a two-week American sales drive in the seven-storey Innovation department store, for sparking off Monday's inferno.

The number of victims officially stood at 38 dead and 64 injured persons in hospitals.

ROBERTS WINS APPROVAL FOR MOVE

Confederation Meeting Next Fall

TORONTO (CP) — Premier John Roberts Tuesday repudiated provincial supremacy views of Ontario Attorney-General Arthur Wishart and went on to win an almost unanimous approval of his Confederation of Tomorrow conference next fall.

Speaking during legislature debate on his conference proposals, Mr. Roberts countered Mr. Wishart's statement that the provinces are "sovereign states in our own right."

The premier said the British North American Act gave the federal government an identity and "it is the senior government."

Mr. Wishart had contended earlier in the legislature that the provincial governments originally gave the federal government a portion of their powers as sovereign states.

The legislature backed by a vote of 70 to 1 Mr. Roberts' resolution asking for approval of the conference and rejected 56 to 15 a Liberal amendment which criticized him for failing to win the support of the federal government for the conference.

The single "nay" vote was ruled by speaker Donald Morrow when George Ben (L-Toronto, Brudenell) tried to abstain on the recorded vote. Mr. Morrow said abstentions were against the rules of the house.

The premier defended his relations with the federal government, declaring his relationship with Prime Minister Pearson "has always been the most amicable indeed."

JULIANA VISITS CITY HALL

Red Carpet Rolled Up Until Graced by Grace

By JIM HUME

Victoria's red carpet was carefully rolled up in protective plastic Tuesday afternoon.

It will stay that way until the end of July—possibly longer.

Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco will visit British Columbia at the end of July and they are tentatively scheduled to come to Victoria. But to date city hall has no confirmation of the visit.

That's why, after Queen Juliana of the Netherlands visited city hall briefly Tuesday, the red carpet was placed in storage for a while.

It was with a minimum of fuss that Queen Juliana paid her state visit.

Fewer mounties prowled city hall—at the request of high-ranking officers travelling with the Queen who said they were confident the popular royal figure would not encounter trouble.

And fewer people graced the council chamber for the official welcome by Mayor Hugh Stephen.

Mayor Stephen told Queen Juliana that he extended the city's grateful thanks to her for her visit to the city during Canada's Centennial.

About 100 people were on hand to hear him as compared with the jammed council chamber for Princess Alexandra's visit.

While thanking the Queen for her presence and complimenting her on the fine immigrants Holland had sent to Canada, the mayor remembered the men of the 16th Canadian Scottish Regiment who died at Amiens.

"It was from this city that they went in defence of liberty," he said. "Your presence today recalls those of our sons who rest at peace in the soil of Holland. I believe it would give pleasure to know of your majesty's presence with us today and that the land where they rest is once more prosperous, independent and free."

Prior to the official welcome Susan Curtis, daughter of Reeve and Mrs. Hugh Curtis of Saanich, presented the Queen with a bouquet.

Her reward was a silver bracelet suitably inscribed.

Following the ceremony Her Majesty signed the official visitors' book and was conducted on a guided tour of Centennial Square and the senior citizens activity centre.

And then they rolled up the red carpet in protective plastic.

The royal visits were over, at least until the end of July.

... UN TO HOLD TALKS

Canada and Denmark, "two NATO countries," had made such a strong effort to convene the council, in as much as they are not neighbors of any Middle Eastern countries and are not parties to the dispute.

"Is there not more of concealed desire here to interfere in the affairs of some one else than a true concern for peace and security in the Middle East?" he asked.

Ignatieff then recalled Thant's report to the Security Council last Saturday in which the secretary-general said the situation in the Middle East is more menacing than at any other time since the fall of 1956.

Ignatieff added: "In recent days there have been statements by the president of the United Arab Republic (Egypt) and by the prime minister of Israel which face us with the possibility of the danger of direct confrontation between the United Arab Republic and Israel over the question of access to the Gulf of Aqaba."

"In the face of this rising and dangerous state of tension, the means of bringing influences of moderation to bear in the area through the UN, far from having been increased, have been decreased at the very moment of crisis by the withdrawal of UNEF—the UN Emergency Force withdrawn—early last week at Egypt's request."

"The principal means to balance this deteriorating situation through the United Nations has been the mission of the secretary-general himself," Ignatieff said.

"I believe at this stage the most useful contribution which this council can make to this grave situation is to reinforce the current efforts being made by the secretary-general to preserve peace in the area. We should at the same time urge that no member state of the UN take any action which would either prejudice the success of the secretary-general's mission or worsen the situation."

"In taking this initiative to ask the council to convene, I must stress that we are willing to consult with all our colleagues, as well as with the countries most directly concerned, to try to find agreements which will reverse the drift towards the worsening of confrontation which now exists and which has been drawn to our attention in so dramatic a way by the secretary-general and by his mission."

Three sun shone but it was a wet weekend for some Victorians.

A total of 19 people charged with being drunk crowded the court calendar Tuesday.

Eight of them, including two women, had their $15 bail exonerated when they failed to appear in answer to their names. The bail is the same as the fine.

Of the 11 held in custody, all pleaded guilty. Two offenders with a pair of recent convictions against them were sentenced to 20 days. A man and a woman with a single recent conviction each were fined $25.

For the rest, holiday celebrations cost $15 each.

HAS UNDERGROUND COST GONE DOWN?

Oak Bay Testing Hydro Claim

Cost of underground wiring for Cedar Hill Cross Road is being investigated by Oak Bay.

Council's B committee Monday decided to ask for new estimates following a statement in B.C. Hydro's magazine Progress that cost of overhead wiring, once 10 times that of underground services, is now only two or four times as much.

The earlier estimate of $370,000 must be in the "10 times" category, said Coun. J. D. Watts.

The committee also felt the quoted $370,000 was actual cost of installation and did not take into account the savings on maintenance which would be made by having wiring underground.

"Let's ask B.C. Hydro the latest costs and quote its own magazine," Coun. Watts suggested.

Machine may replace man in Oak Bay's garbage service in 1968.

The committee agreed that a small three-wheel pickup unit should be tested to see if it would reduce costs by allowing collections to be done by fewer men.

The small vehicle would be taken into driveways and the driver would load the garbage into a hopper to be later transferred to the main collector truck.

The $2,500 machine could reduce the number of men per garbage unit from five to three. At present men bring garbage cans from the property to the street, then return them when emptied.

It was green arrows, not red lights, that held up the B committee traffic section.

TRANSFUSION DELAYED; WITNESS DIES

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — A young mother, a Jehovah's Witness, died in childbirth of massive hemorrhage because her religious beliefs caused delay in administering blood, a coroner's jury ruled Tuesday.

Mrs. Judy Rider, 19, died two hours after giving birth to a healthy son in hospital here May 18.

Her religion forbids blood transfusions, but the presiding physician, Dr. E. D. Rathbone, testified that transfusions were begun 15 minutes before Mrs. Rider died.

Valuable time was lost in determining the patient's blood type, he said.

Curling Rink Burns

MISSION (CP) — Fire, whipped by gusting wind, destroyed the Mission and District Curling Club rink and a large barn here Tuesday night. Damage is estimated at $100,000.

Council suggested parking areas along the sidewalks should be divided into stalls.

Not wise, thought the committee. It would mean making the stalls big enough for the biggest cars and space would be wasted. At present cars squeeze in wherever they can and very little parking space is wasted on Oak Bay Avenue.

Cost of living gone up? Not everywhere.

Councillors found that a number of items on the purchasing list for this year will cost less than in 1966.

Crushed gravel for roadwork is down about four cents a yard from $7.34 and $2.24.

Gasoline, diesel and other fuel oils are also down.

Pacific Petroleum's tendered cost of gasoline this year is 22.9 cents a gallon compared to 24.2 last year. Diesel fuel is down half a cent to 19.1; motor oil is down seven cents to $1.02. Light furnace oil is unchanged at 17.1 cents and Shell Oil's bunker B oil is 11.19 cents compared to 11.2 in 1966.

The committee recommended acceptance of the tenders.

Three Feared Drowned

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS, B.C. (CP) — The search continued today for the bodies of two Vancouver men believed to have drowned when their 15-foot aluminum boat overturned at Harrison Lake, 70 miles east of Vancouver. The body of a third man, David Ralph Thompson, 23, was found Tuesday near the overturned boat. Still missing are his companions, John William Morgan, 56, and his son-in-law, Gary Allen Fletcher, aged 26.

TORONTO TRADING

MARKET SUMMARIES

Declines Sharply

The Toronto Stock Exchange suffered its second sharpest decline of the year in light mid-afternoon trading as it followed the heavy sell-off at New York.

The New York Exchange, the traditional North American leader, continued to be shaken as tension increased in the Middle East.

Banks continued to feel the brunt of the decline although brokers could give no specific reason for their drop.

Royal fell 2 to 80, Nova Scotia and Imperial Commerce 1/4 each to 15 and 70% and Montreal 1/4 to 65%.

Among other industrials, Levy slid 1/4 to 19, I.T.L. Industries and Magna Electronics 1/4 each to 33 and 19%, Interprovincial Pipe Line 1/4 to 20% and Massey-Ferguson 1/4 to 22%.

Gold stocks slid 2.70 on index to 164.42. However, this was accounted for by profit taking after the group had jumped more than 15 points on index last week.

Dome declined 1/4 to 46% and Kerr Addison 1/4 to 14%. Canadian Superior backed off 1/4 to 25% in western oils.

NEW YORK market weakened late today amid continued concern over the Middle East. Trading was active.

Volume for the first four hours was 7,610,000 shares compared with 7,100,000 Tuesday.

The Arab-Israeli situation led to fears that the United States and Russia would be involved in a "nuclear eye-to-eye" crisis. Caution concerning the outcome led to considerable selling and general reluctance to buy.

Among the high-flying glamour stocks, Xerox lost 1/2, IBM 4, U.S. Smelting 2, Polaroid 3 and Control Data 1 1/2.

On the blue chip side of the market, Du Pont slumped 2 1/2, Eastman Kodak 1, U.S. Gypsum 2, General Electric 1 1/2, and United Aircraft 1.

Most Canadians fell, led by Dome and Massey, 1/4, and Distillers 1/2. McIntyre and Walker-Gooderham dropped 1/2, Inco and Alcan 1/4 and HBC 1/4. CPR backed the trend, gaining 1/4.

AT MONTREAL four bank issues suffered losses ranging from one to two points towards 2 p.m., sending the bank index down 2.62 points and dragging the rest of the market in their wake.

Royal fell two points to 80 and Canadian Imperial Commerce and Montreal 1/4 points each to 70% and 65% respectively. Provincial slid one point to 48 and Nova Scotia 1/4 to 15.

Among the lower papers, Consolidated was off 1 1/2 points to 39% and B.C. Forest 1/4 to 19. Massey-Ferguson lost 1/4 to 22% and Walker-Gooderham 1/4 to 32% among the industrial group. Dominion Glass and Hudson's Bay Co. both dipped 1/4 to 13 and 17%, respectively. CAE and Weston A each slipped 1/4 to 10% and 19%, respectively.

Trans-Canada Pipe Line was down 1/4 at 28% and Nova Scotia Light 1/4 at 10% among the utilities.

Senior oils were lower, with Husky and Pacific Petroleum each declining 1/4 to 15 and 13%, respectively.

AT LONDON the Arab-Israeli crisis and other sources of international tension continued to add to the gloom in the market.

Glits were 1/4 off and falls in industrials ranged to one shilling more.

Loscoes predominated in dollar stocks with Hiram Walker and Pacific Petroleum easier. Noranda and Trans-Canada Pipe were down 2.

Others to fall were Alcan, Massey and Power Corp. Inco was up 1/4 at 19% and Hollinger was firm.

Canadian banks weakened.

Local Yard Sells 'Bell' In Bid to Improve Profits

By AB KENT
Business Editor

The former Victoria-based E. C. Warner Investments Ltd. is expanding its interests to Harbor Ferries Ltd. of Vancouver.

President Ernie Warren, in a humorous letter to his "pals, shareholders and friends" of the four-firm group tells of plans to sell the Yukon Belle sightseeing boat to Harbor Ferries. Yukon Belle and Yukon Queen were made to take tourists around Victoria's Inner Harbor by McKay-Cormack Holdings Ltd. for its 35-per-cent owned Yukon Queen Tours Ltd. McKay-Cormack shipyard this year reported itself in a difficult position, blaming labor troubles and unprofitable contracts. The sale of one sightseeing vessel to Harbor Ferries Ltd. may be a step further out of difficulties.

In any case Mr. Warner expresses regret that the firm "will not be able to produce the financial statement you deserve, but we have had a thorough reorganization and I am determined to put this company on the same plateau as the other companies with which I am associated."

McKay-Cormack is refitting the vessel Cordova and three other ships owned by Harbor Ferries, and the former will be sold or chartered to the Vancouver firm.

Mr. Warner reports the possibility of further diversification so that the shipyard will not be subject to the ups and downs of shipbuilding.

He also apologizes for a drop in profits by Growers' Wine Co.

Ltd., controlled by Imperial Tobacco, which he said is reorganizing the winery as a national company.

Warner Investments is now Vancouver-based and lists its interests as Growers', A-1 Steel and Iron Foundry, McKay-Cormack Ltd., and E. C. Warner Investments Ltd.

Directors Monty Ross and Neville Goss resigned due to the shift in locale and have been replaced by Ben Williams, of C. M. Oliver and Co. Ltd., and John Bruk, of the legal firm, Lawrence, Shaw, Stewart and McLoughlin.

The Maclean-Hunter Research Bureau reports an upswing in consumer buying intentions for 1967, following a year of decline.

Based on 996 personal interviews across the country, a periodic survey conducted by the bureau shows that although Canadians have felt a buying pinch through higher prices and taxes, plus tighter credit, there is expectation that things will get better in the next six months.

Plans to buy a car are up from 8.5 per cent to 9.1 per cent in the 12-month period, but are off 2.1 per cent from the last quarter. Nearly 41 per cent will go for a new car, up nearly 6 per cent.

EXPO-BOUND

Fewer persons think now is a good time to buy a house, compared with a year ago, but vacation plans are still high, especially those covering Expo. Of the B.C. people asked, 55.8 per cent want to go to Quebec, second only to Ontario's 56.2 per cent.

But at the same time fewer persons are interested in a European trip this year.

Compared with the last quarter, the over-all index for B.C. shows the greatest increase.

Cost of living in Canada went up 1.3 points during April, the biggest jump in the cost of health and personal care, according to the Bureau of Economics and Statistics.

For April the consumer price index was 147.8 compared with 146.5 for March.

New Proposals To 'Twin' Line

OTTAWA (CP)—A surprise plan that could involve a new natural gas pipeline route across Northern Ontario emerged Tuesday when the National Energy Board was about to open hearings on an application to twin the current 30-inch line.

N. John McNeill of Toronto, a senior vice-president of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., asked the board for a two-week adjournment to let Trans-Canada and the three big gas distribution companies that are its major customers work out agreement on a revised project. Several alternatives to twinning are already being talked about.

After nearly nine hours of discussion, Board Chairman I. N. McKinnon announced an adjournment of the hearing until Wednesday, May 31, when Trans-Canada will be asked to report on the progress it has made towards resolving the issue with its distributors.

GAS SUPPLIES SHORT

A recurring theme in the discussion was the shortage of natural gas supplies in Ontario and Quebec expected in the delivery year starting next Nov. 1. Demand is expected to exceed supply by at least 33,000,000 cubic feet, about 10 per cent of this year's consumption.

One of Trans-Canada's "big three" customers, Northern and Central Gas Co., already has drawn up a plan for an entirely new 36-inch line from Winnipeg across Northern Ontario.

This would follow the Trans-Canada pipeline route east as far as Nipigon, Ont., then curve south through rugged wilderness. One section would split off towards Sault Ste. Marie, the other swinging east to Sudbury, North Bay and along the Ottawa Valley to Montreal and Quebec City.

Other alternatives are being discussed, including a line that would break a new route from Nipigon to Manitoulin Island and go underwater to the Bruce Peninsula to enter southern regions.

U.S. HOLDS KEY

However, all of the Northern Ontario projects hinge on a decision by the U.S. Federal Power Commission on Trans-Canada's bid for a new line through the U.S. which would carry gas from Winnipeg to Sault Ste. Marie.

Trans-Canada contends the U.S. route, which already has Canadian government blessing, is the cheapest and more efficient way of increasing gas supplies in the east.

The FPC decision is expected early in June. If it rejects the Trans-Canada plan, the Northern Ontario route will have to be developed immediately to meet the rapidly-growing demand for gas in the east.

Kaiser Buys Texada In New Midepsa Deal

MONTREAL (CP)—Shareholders of Midepsa Industries Ltd. are to vote today on a projected $100 million agreement involving Kaiser Aluminum to exploit mineral deposits in the Secura Desert of northern Peru.

The shareholders will be asked by their company to ratify an agreement which sets out the conditions under which Kaiser will participate in the development project.

The agreement modifies conditions of an existing agreement between Midepsa and Texada Mines Ltd. and paves the way for the purchase of Texada by Kaiser.

Midepsa, a Montreal-based company, owns a 93-per-cent interest in Minerale Industrielles d.e.l. Peru. In 1963 Minerale turned over its rights on about 2,000,000 acres in the Secura Desert to a new company owned 60 per cent by Midepsa and 40 per cent by Texada.

Under the proposed agreement, Kaiser would acquire an 80-per-cent interest in the Secura deposits of phosphate and potash brine which, a Midepsa spokesman said, are believed to be among the largest in the world.

Midepsa would retain a 20-per-cent interest in the deposit and, in addition, would acquire a 20-per-cent interest in the sales and distribution company set up to market the Secura products.

GET KAISER STOCK

Midepsa also would receive 10,000 shares of Kaiser stock and about 487,000 shares of Midepsa now held by Texada would be surrendered and cancelled.

Under the proposed agreement, Kaiser would begin the production of phosphates in commercial quantities at Secura by Nov. 1, 1969, and each full production by 1971. Production would be about 2,000,000 tons of phosphates annually at the start.

Terrors Just A Myth

MONTREAL (CP)—The terrors automation holds for many people are the result of confusion and misunderstanding, Pierre Delegrave, vice-president in charge of employee and public relation at Domtar Ltd., said Tuesday.

He told a conference of the Canadian Vocational Association that "the bogey of automation has to be killed. Automation never was the villain some claimed it was."

"Our sophisticated new machines create jobs, not wealth. They increase productivity and generate economic growth. The added wealth creates the new jobs, either in the production of new goods or in the provision of additional services demanded by those into whose hands the new wealth comes."

Problems created by progress today were not essentially different from the problems created by the early textile machinery of 150 years ago.

"The difference in our situation today from that of past eras of technological advance is that things have speeded up."

"Until now, it was at least theoretically possible to train or retrain a worker for a job and forget about him. Now, retraining him for a job is not enough. He must be trained for constant change."

Vocational training should impart, in addition to a basic skill, "the attitudes that will enable the worker to switch jobs again and again as technology races ahead."

"You don't teach jobs; you teach adaptability."

Pollard Fastest Rookie at Indy

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Five first-time starters in the Memorial Day 500-mile auto race represents vast experience in races.

The Grand Prix world road racing circuit contributed two—New Zealander Dennis Hulme, currently leading the world standings, and Austrian Jochen Rindt, No. 2 for the 1966 season.

HANDLED STOCKERS

The U.S. Auto Club is represented by Art Pollard, Medford, Ore., and Wally Dallenbach, East Brunswick, N.J., both of whom came up through super modified stock car racing.

NASCAR, the southern stock car racing circuit, contributed Lee Roy Yarborough, Columbia, S.C.

Rindt is the youngest at 25. Yarborough is 28. Hulme and Dallenbach both 30 and Pollard 40 and in his 12th year of racing.

QUALIFIED 13TH

Pollard is the oldest and fastest of the "rookies" with a qualifying speed of 163.897 m.p.h., good for the inside on the fifth three-car row.

Pollard appeared regularly in super-modified races at Western Speedway at Victoria, B.C., until about four years ago.

He is a winner of the 100-lap Daffodil Cup at the speedway.

Newcomers must drive 10 approved laps around the 2½-mile track at 130 m.p.h., 10 at 135, 10 at 140 and 10 at 145. They are allowed to go 1 m.p.h. under the standard or 4 m.p.h. if they get outside that bracket the lap does not count.

Most drivers have a few bad laps. Dallenbach had none, completing the 100 miles in the minimum period.

He Throws Like Arthritic Lefty

By Associated Press

Don Drysdale, handed the role of stopper for Los Angeles Dodgers when Sandy Koufax retired, is responding to the challenge as if he were a left-hander with an arthritic elbow.

Drysdale hurled his second straight shutout and lowered his earned-run average to 1.43 Tuesday night with a 7-0 victory over New York Mets.

It was the best pitched game in the National League where the San Francisco Giants shaded Philadelphia Phillies 5-4 in 11 innings. Houston Astros battered Pittsburgh Pirates 8-3 and Atlanta Braves thumped St. Louis Cardinals 9-6. Cincinnati's game at Chicago was rained out.

The Dodgers scored four runs on one hit in the first inning with Met starter Chuck Estrada contributing four walks and a wild pitch to the rally which was climaxed by Al Ferrara's bases-loaded double.

Most drivers have a few bad laps. Dallenbach had none, completing the 100 miles in the minimum period.

COWAN DECLINES

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Gary Cowan, United States amateur golf champion, will pass up the U.S. open tournament set for June 15-18 at Springfield, N.J.

Cowan, the insurance salesman from Kitchener, Ont., who defeated Dean Boman of Bethesda, Md., last year for the U.S. amateur title, said Tuesday he could not afford to enter the open. As the reigning U.S.

champion he was Canada's only automatic qualifier.

"I won't be playing; it's too expensive," he said.

Professionals George Knudson of Toronto and Stan Leonard of Vancouver also will not be playing in the tournament.

Leonard, in his qualifying bid at Seattle, picked up after 27 holes without announcing his score. He had a first-round 73.

Knudson, upset because he was required to qualify after winning the Canada Cup individual honors and the Greater New Orleans open and because the U.S. Golf Association found a flaw in his original entry form, refused to refile.

However, at least seven native Canadians qualified Monday in preliminary trials. They are Al Balding, Bobby Breen and Frank Whitley of Toronto, Ron Parasiuk of Windsor, Ont., Ron Folk of Saskatoon, Bobby Cox Jr. of Vancouver and Bill Ezricki, formerly of Winnipeg but now of Mashpee, Mass.

Low net was Steve Allan. He shot a 71.

Runners-up was Don Stott, Cowichan, with a 79.

In the 13-and-under division, Ray Horne of Gorge Vale, had a score 99.

Girls' low gross winner was Kay Clairmont of Gorge Vale.

Mike Gray, with a 76, won the Gorge Vale junior championship. Tied for runner-up honors were Cecie Ferguson and Tom Horrigan, each with 79.

Shamrocks Blast Myth; Grab Lead on the Road

Irish, Carlings Clash Again At Arena Tonight

VANCOUVER—Victoria Shamrocks erased a myth and resisted attack on their first-place tenancy in the Inter-City Lacrosse League here Tuesday night.

The myth, growing like a beard in Centennial year, was that Rocks couldn't win on the road.

Coming into Kerrisdale Arena they were no wins, two losses and a tie.

Playing with only two lines, without their leading scorer Ron Jay, Shamrocks ran over Vancouver Carlings 10-8.

A repeat victory tonight when the teams resume hostilities in Victoria's Memorial Arena at 8 will give the Irish a four-point cushion over Vancouver.

Jay will return tonight but Ranjit Dillon may not play. He suffered a foot injury late in Tuesday's game and is in no mood at the moment for long gallops.

If Ranjit isn't mobile, coach Dave Unwin will shift Billy Gray to defence and using Jay in Gray's spot, again go with two lines.

Two Lines Do Trick

"It worked well Tuesday," Unwin said. "And the players liked it. With three lines the boys sometimes are six to eight minutes on the bench."

Unwin can afford to go with only two offensive units because his team is fitter than most.

Two of the fit ones played a large role against Vancouver. Defenceman Ted Liebeck, taking over from Ranjit Dillon as the point man on power plays, rapped in two vital goals in the third period.

"Liebeck has a heavy shot and lets it go overhand," Unwin said. "I don't think Skip Chapman (Vancouver goalie) liked to see him (Liebeck) fire."

Clarkson on Target

Larry Clarkson was another Rock to find the range. He pumped in Victoria's first three goals and would have had more, Unwin says, except for goalposts which got in the way.

Bill Munroe, stronger this year, and Reg Foster split four goals.

Cool for the first time this year when Rocks lost 10-8 last Saturday to New Westminster, goalkeeper Barry Forbes was his old sparring, stung self Tuesday. He took care of 32 Vancouver shots, 13 coming in the first period.

Against the determined Carlings, Forbes will have to be alert tonight. If he is—and the two-line stratagem holds up—Shamrocks will be working on another—and more pleasant—myth.

They have played three home games and won them all. That's the kind of record—and myth—Unwin appreciates best.

Next game: Tonight—Vancouver at Victoria.

WHACK A REF AND GET A SEASON . . .

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver lacrosse player Don Boyd was suspended for five games Tuesday night by inter-city league commissioner George Wainborn of Vancouver.

The Vancouver club was also fined $50 as a result of Saturday's game at Coquitlam when Boyd cross-checked referee Bev Groves of Coquitlam during a league game. The cross-check came after Groves had handed Boyd a minor and misconduct penalty.

The suspension and the fine were the same as levied against Coquitlam-player

Fred Usselman for a May 20 incident at North Surrey, when Usselman punched referee Jim Folis on the chin.

Wainborn and the league governors also said that any player to molest a referee this season will be suspended for the balance of the year. If such an attack was determined vicious, a player would be suspended indefinitely, and could seek reinstatement after two years.

"The decision was for the good of the game," said Wainborn. "This is it. We've had to lay it on the line because things were getting out of hand."

Button Triumph

Gorge Vale partners John Carlow and Stu Mitchell defeated clubmates Chris Archer and Keith Alexander in their first defence of the city senior golf buttons on the 16th hole at Uplands.

The holders will now meet challengers Ray Martin and Poly Howard of Glen Meadows at Victoria Golf Club.

Rule Book Will Be Part of Equipment

SASKATOON (CP)—A handful of rule changes for the 1967-68 season were approved at the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association annual meeting Tuesday.

One amendment will increase the number of faceoff spots in the centre ice area to three by placing one red spot two feet in diameter five feet from each blue line in the centre of the rink.

Delegates decided a minor penalty should be assessed any player, including the goalkeeper, for using a stick which does not conform to specifications outlined in the CAHA rule book.

Starting next season when a match penalty has been assessed, the offending player's team shall receive a major penalty as well which must be served by a substitute player.

When a goalkeeper leaves his goal crease to join in a fight or altercation, act as peacemaker, or take part in another fight he shall receive a game misconduct penalty.

In the case of a delayed whistle on a possible penalty which is preceded by a goal the penalty will not be assessed.

Other changes will see play stopped immediately when the puck crosses the goal line on an icing call and a faceoff at centre ice when a referee or linesman errs in calling an icing infraction. The first icing rule previously applied only to junior hockey.

Decision Delayed On Pro Grid Bid

NEW YORK (AP)—Cincinnati's application as the 10th member of the American Football League in 1968 has been reviewed by the owners Tuesday but a decision was delayed.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle, head of the two major pro football leagues in the U.S., said there is no specific timetable for reviewing the stadium and ownership possibilities.

SASKATOON (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has reworked its constitution, giving itself absolute authority to govern. It then ratified a new five-year agreement with the National Hockey League.

The constitutional amendments, unanimously endorsed Tuesday by delegates to the annual meeting, are designed primarily to keep amateur hockey disputes out of the courtroom.

Basically, they declare that the CAHA is a fully self-governing organization whose executive committee has absolute powers to interpret, define and explain all provisions of the CAHA constitution, bylaws, regulations and rules.

Appeals are limited to the executive committee. There is provision of an automatic indefinite suspension of any member or individual who appeals to the courts.

The suspension would be lifted only if the courts make a judicial finding that the CAHA or its executive committee acted in bad faith or had not complied with the rules of natural justice.

The amendments are based on recommendations by Winnipeg lawyer Martin Freedman.

who was retained by the CAHA after an Alberta Supreme Court case last February.

WENT TO COURT
Calgary Spurs went to court when the CAHA overruled its Alberta branch and declared two players ineligible to play for the Western Canada Senior Hockey League club.

Mr. Justice H. W. Riley ruled Dave Parenteau and Emory Sampson eligible, differing with the CAHA interpretation of its rules and termed the CAHA action "officious and not in harmony with its own constitution." An appeal was rejected.

The NHL will finance a CAHA administrative fund, a player development fund and a draft claim fund. Preliminary amounts mentioned were $75,000 annually for administration, $250,000 for player development and $3,000 for each of the first 72 players taken in a draft of over-age junior players and $2,000 for each additional player.

The CAHA will distribute the draft money to clubs who helped develop the drafted player.

The pact will not permit a player to turn professional until he has completed his junior hockey. As of the 1968-69 season, the junior-age limit will be 20 years on or before Dec. 31 and junior-age players will not be allowed to go to professional clubs on a five-game trial basis.

Warned, Says Nancy To Keep Mouth Shut

TORONTO (CP) — Shot-putter Nancy McCredie, who said she once idolized her former coach Lloyd Percival, testified in court Tuesday that Percival gave her pills which she believed to be Dexedrine, a stimulant.

Miss McCredie, a former member of the Don Mills Track Club, was testifying at a trial of libel action brought by Percival against five members of the central Ontario branch of the Amateur Athletic Union who have charged Percival with giving athletes stimulants and sedatives to improve their performances.

The athletes told a civil jury of four men and two women that Percival, former head coach and director of the Don Mills club, used to give her heart-shaped pills and tell her to take one an hour before competing.

She told the court that when Percival first gave her one of the pills, he said it was "just to relax you."

Asked how she regarded Percival at that time, Miss McCredie replied "I idolized him. I looked on him as my father. He predicted two Canadian records for me, and he was right. I trusted him fully. He was my coach. I was an athlete. I thought him the greatest coach in the world."

The defendants in the case are Fred Foot, George Dennison, Jack Bradfield, Doreen Davies and Jesse Lightwood who form the registration committee for Ontario of the AAU.

The trial is continuing before Mr. Justice Alexander Stark.

Miss McCredie said she received pills from Percival only before big events and sometimes he advised her not to let anyone see her taking them.

She said she received pills from Percival before the 1963 Pan-American Games in Brazil and the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo but did not use them on either occasion.

Miss McCredie said she did not tell Percival she was not taking the pills because she was afraid of him. She said that after the AAU began its investigation of Percival she received a message from him, delivered by high-jumper Susan Nigh, to keep her mouth shut or he would get her.

HERO DOWN DRAIN

Miss Nigh gave her two pills on a plane flight to Toronto from Vancouver last year and said they had come from Percival, Miss McCredie said.

She testified she gave the pills to her parents and later produced them, at Foot's request, at an AAU meeting convened by the Ontario registration committee.

Miss McCredie denied being expelled from the Don Mills club and said she had confronted Percival about certain rumors, which he admitted.

"I thought my little old hero was going down the drain," she said.

Luck Didn't Follow Shift to Luckies

The next time Brian Pearce works for Luckies the young softball hurler might be carrying two or three horseshoes in a back pocket.

Moving up from the junior men's league, Pearce was short on luck Tuesday at Central Park while suffering a 3-0 setback against Molsons in a Senior Men's Open Softball League game.

Pearce had the ill fortune to come up against a fine pitching effort by Molsons' Ed Kubek. Kubek held Luckies scoreless on six hits.

Luckless Pearce also joined a team that was missing the services of two injured fielding aces—third-sacker Larry Montgomery and centre-fielder Brian Weston.

Key defensive lapses contributed to all three Molsons runs. Luckies made only two errors, but both were critical.

Jim John reached first on an error in the second inning before scoring on Duane Sutherland's squeeze bunt. Ron Brosseau reached base on an error with two out in the fifth to set the stage for a two-run double by Roy St. Denis.

The defeat left Luckies a full

Kings Force Traffic Jam

Kings Hotel jumped into an early lead and held on to defeat Sooke Hotel 5-3 Tuesday at Heywood Avenue Park and moved into a four-way tie for second place in the Stuffy McGinnis Softball League.

Kings scored four times in the second inning to build up a 5-0 lead. Ron Griffiths singled home two runs to lead the winners' attack in that frame. Three walks, a single and a throwing error by losing pitcher Larry Neil also contributed to the Kings rally.

PRICES TOO HIGH?

Phantoms Fail To Lure Fans

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A month into The Great American Soccer Experiment, the results are less than a dazzling success in Pittsburgh despite a built-in audience and one of the hottest teams in the country.

Pittsburgh Phantoms lead the National Professional Soccer League's Eastern Division with four straight victories. But they drew only 4,094 in their last two home games. They have had 15,751 at all four.

Phantoms lost their first game after four straight victories Tuesday night in St. Louis when they were clipped 3-1 by the Stars.

Stars hold first place in the league's western division with 59 points while the Phantoms remain on top of the eastern division with 57 points.

In a weekend game at home, the Phantoms beat Chicago 3-1 while Atlanta was drawing 2-2 with New York. Toronto was playing to a 2-2 stalemate at St. Louis and Los Angeles Toros were blanking California 2-0.

"I think the reason is the weather has been so terrible," said club president Peter H. Block. "And I certainly don't think it's going to stay like this."

Wet, windy weather forced postponement of two Phantom home games, puzzling football fans who remember sitting through worse.

The postponements were called by Forbes Field officials whose prime concern is the Pittsburgh Pirates. Soccer cleats are not kind to outfield grass when the ground turns sloppy.

The soccer field runs across the outfield, more than 100 feet from the choice seats around home plate.

Prices are $5 and $4 for choice seats and $2.50 for general admission.

"The price is too high," said Pete Marovich, secretary-treasurer of the West Penn Soccer League, an amateur group which has been playing for years in the mill town around Pittsburgh and provides the Phantoms with a ready-made, hard-core following.

"We said when we started it would take three or four years to get started," Block said. "It's going to take awhile."

Asked whether the Phantoms could survive that long with present attendance, he replied: "I don't think anybody could take 1,300 or 1,400 each game for a whole season."

Famed Basketball Team Sold

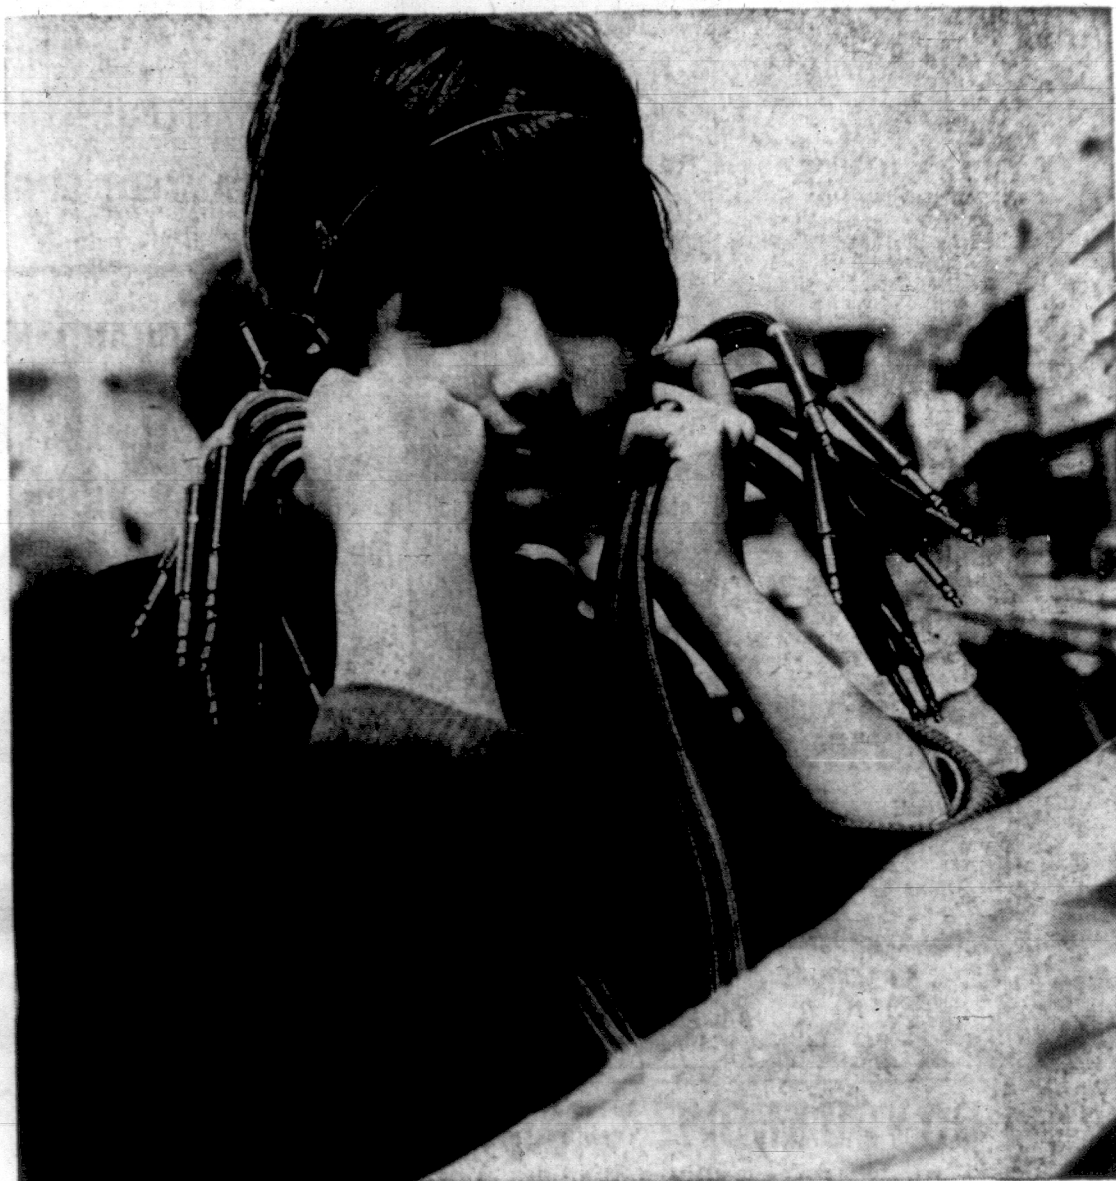

CHICAGO (AP) — The clowning, world-famous Harlem Globetrotters basketball team — officially recognized ambassadors of good will — changed hands Tuesday in a sale reportedly in the $3,000,000 range.

Announcement of the transaction, subject to approval by the Probate Court, was made by John W. Kluge, chairman of the board and president of Metromedia, Inc. Metromedia owns radio and television stations, the Ice Capades ice show and outdoor and direct mail companies.

Abe Saperstein displayed the Globetrotters for the first time in 1927. They rose from a travelling unit with a diet of baloney sandwiches to a world-girdling troupe.

Saperstein died last year. There are two Globetrotter teams. Each year they play in 300 United States cities. Under Saperstein, they played in 87 countries. They have played before an estimated 60,000,000 persons.

damsel in distress

...that's our Judy

Yesterday, a young man called Judy and asked: "How many miles is it to the moon?"

She couldn't give him the answer. Now she's distressed—not because she couldn't give him the answer, you understand, but because... well, here's what Judy told us:

"What troubles me is that calls like this one, and the very large number of calls we receive for numbers that customers can find in the telephone directory, mean those people who need directory assistance sometimes have to wait longer than they should to reach an information operator."

Judy is one of 350 people in information service at B.C. TEL and, like the others, she's anxious to give you fast, efficient information service when you need it.

We know our operators are doing their best, but they're only human. And being human, they become distressed when they know some people have to wait longer than they would like to reach the operator when they have to call information for telephone number assistance.

Judy doesn't want you to wait too long and she's asked us to pass along these tips to help save you time:

- Remember that "information service" is for telephone number information only.
- Check your telephone directory for the numbers you require.
- Note the numbers you call frequently and keep the list near your telephone for easy reference.
- When you call information service, make a note of the number you obtain and keep it handy for future use.
- Have correct spelling and address ready to help your information operator find the number faster, and if it's a new listing, tell her.

We know Judy will appreciate your co-operation. So will all of our operators.

P.S. Average distance from earth to the moon is 238,857 miles—but it's just a short, time-saving reach to your telephone directory.

Channelling, Diking Proposed

Diversion Plan 'Uneconomical'

LAKE COWICHAN — It is uneconomical to attempt flood control in this district by diverting the water from Cowichan Lake to the Nitinat River.

Jack Webster, a hydraulics engineer of the provincial lands department, explained this to a Chamber of Commerce group Tuesday.

He said a diversion at the head of the lake to Nitinat would cost $5,800,000.

Mr. Webster recommended as an alternative a system of channel improvements and diking along the full extent of the Cowichan and Koksilah Rivers and Somenos Creek.

This project would include lowering of the level of Cowichan Lake by six feet and installation of a new control structure.

Mr. Webster was a member of a department team which has just completed a feasibility study in the area.

He said his channel improvement plan would benefit North Cowichan, Duncan and unorganized areas as well as the village of Lake Cowichan.

It would also curb flooding on the Indian reserve which makes up 60 per cent of the land area in the Cowichan-Koksilah delta.

Mr. Webster said the plan, if implemented, would add 50 an acre to the value of Indian reserve farm land.

He broke the cost down into four main brackets—diking of the Cowichan River $970,000; Koksilah River $302,875; Somenos Creek $43,175, and the Lake Cowichan area $500,000.

Mr. Webster said such an undertaking would be financed by the provincial and federal governments and local authorities.

WHOLE FAMILY INJURED

Girl, 5, Killed When Car Plunges Over Embankment

PORT ALBERNI — A young girl died and her brother was injured Tuesday when the car driven by their mother plunged down an embankment on the shores of Cameron Lake.

Four-year-old Glen Bates, of 215 2nd Avenue North, Port Alberni, was in satisfactory condition in hospital here today.

His sister, Kathleen, 5, was dead on arrival.

Their mother, Mrs. Leslie Philip, and step-father Raymond Philip, were both released after treatment for cuts and bruises.

DRIVING TO WORK

The accident happened at 3:15 p.m. as Mrs. Philip was driving her husband to work at Crofton. Both children were in the back seat, according to RCMP.

Eight miles west of Port Alberni the car went out of control and swerved over an embankment, crashing to the shore of Cameron Lake 10 feet below.

Police were still uncertain today how the accident was caused. No other vehicle was involved.

An inquest was to open here today.

JURY BLAMES INEXPERIENCE IN FATALITY

NANAIMO — A Port Alberni youth's lack of driving experience was blamed Tuesday for the death of Anna Dalia Charlie, April 23.

Mrs. Charlie died when the car driven by a relative, Francis Charlie, 19, left the highway north of here and crashed into a ditch.

A coroner's jury decided the accident was caused when the wheels of the car caught in the gravel at the side of the road. Charlie had been driving only four months and was on his second learners' licence.

NO PICKETTING DURING TALKS

VANCOUVER — An injunction application to prevent picketing at Western Mines near Campbell River was adjourned Tuesday pending talks between the company and union.

The adjournment was granted on the understanding there will be no picketing during this period. The hearing can be resumed on two days notice from the union.

Judge Kirke Smith said in B.C. Supreme Court the adjournment has the same effect as an injunction and any breach will constitute contempt of court.

Members of Local 1039 of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union walked out last Thursday and began picketing. They were later fired.

The 120 men sought a 25-cent hourly wage increase which the company refused because the current agreement runs to 1969.

REPUTIATED

Union lawyer Sidney Simons told the court the men feel the agreement was repudiated by the company because the promised townsite and recreational facilities have not been provided.

Mine manager Charles Campbell said the company has a commitment to have 3,000 tons of copper concentrate at Campbell River dock by June 5. Judge Smith said the company's failure to provide housing doesn't entitle the union to take illegal action.

DASH OF COLOR was seen at S. J. Willis School Tuesday when members of the Kuper Island Band visited the school and lunched with students. Chatting with Beth Knowles, 15, and Karen Turner, 15, are Michael Horne, 14; William James, band leader, 15, and Clyde Jack, 16.

Contempt Proceedings Adjourned

NANAIMO (CP) — Contempt of court proceedings against three officers of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union were adjourned Tuesday until June 15.

At the same time, Mr. Justice Thomas A. Dhom issued a second order against the three unions involved and directed it should also be heard on June 15.

Both sets of proceedings order union president Steve Stavens, secretary Homer Stevens and business agent Jack Nichol to show cause why they should not be cited for contempt of court.

The adjournment resulted from an appeal notice against the original order. The appeal hearing has been set for June 7 in Vancouver.

PRESS RELEASES

The first order refers to alleged press releases by the UFAWU in March saying the union had ordered a membership vote to determine whether a telegram should be sent to its shrewdworkers in Prince Rupert ordering them to unload five trawlers.

Earlier a Supreme Court injunction referring to the telegram had been issued by Judge Kirke Smith.

The second order relates to a press release by the union May 4, containing comments said to have been made by Vancouver and District Labor Council secretary Paddy Neale.

Roadblocks Coming

TOFINO — Spot roadblocks, aimed at seizing liquor from juveniles and rowdies, will be used on the Alberni-Tofino and Uclulet-Tofino highways during the summer, police said Tuesday.

Band Serenades Students, Lunches With Fund Workers

Little Tommy Tucker sang for his supper: Kuper Island Indian Band played for its lunch.

On Tuesday 13 members of the band and director Brother DuFor visited S. J. Willis School, toured classrooms and workshops and played a concert for 600 students before joining the school's band fund drill team for lunch.

S. J. Willis students are spearheading a drive for funds to send the drum and fife band to Expo. The trip was planned some time ago, then fell through when it was found there would be no official backing.

Students, hearing of the band's plight, decided to help. The Students' Council gave $50. The Times gave another $200 and set up collection centres at the Times office and at the Bank of Nova Scotia at Yates and Douglas. Mayor Hugh Stephen gave another $100.

Today another $72 had been collected at the school, which will also accept donations, and plans are afoot for further fund-raising projects.

The Indian band marched in the Victoria Day parade, preceded by a drill team from S. J. Willis, formed and rehearsed only a few days before the parade.

It is estimated that it will take $10,000 to send the band to Expo.

MUSIC, DRAMA, CLUBS

Joint Production Cancelled

DUNCAN — A co-operative summer venture by Duncan Music and Drama Clubs has been cancelled.

John Sanders, president, said Tuesday the music club could not get the personnel to cast a production of the one-act Gilbert and Sullivan operetta "Trial by Jury."

He said: "We feel we are letting the drama club down but there is no way around it."

The operetta had been in rehearsal and Cowichan High School auditorium booked for the run but the club found it impossible to find someone to play the bass lead.

Peter Josselyn was to be director.

Duncan Drama Club planned to stage a revival of the local one-act play "Ten yards of Calico," written by Dickie Bowron.

Victoria Firm Lowest Bidder

DUNCAN — Four tenders have been received by Cowichan School Board for construction of the new six-classroom Lane Road School.

Low bid was $184,000 from Luney Bros. & Hamilton Ltd., Victoria.

George Routley, works superintendent for the board, said the estimate was $182,640.

Garden Hose Fails To Quell Apartment Fire

A garden hose proved no match for a fire which destroyed a two-room apartment and a garage at an East Sooke Road home Tuesday night.

Nola Foss, 15, who occupied the apartment over the garage, alerted her father L. W. Foss.

He tried to quell the blaze with the garden hose but without success and he confined his efforts to wetting down the adjacent house until the fire in the garage burned through wiring and stopped the water pump.

Nearest fire station is 15 miles away. Firemen from Sooke and Metehosin attended but the building was beyond saving.

Kayaks to Giant Carriers
... He Shepherds Them All

By DON DINGWALL

CROFTON — Being harbor-master at Crofton is no longer in the same class as being an admiral in the Swiss navy.

At one time Eric Long's chief concern was with the safety of dinghies, kayaks and cabin cruisers.

Today his responsibility extends to the giant pulp and lumber carriers which use the port — an average of 20 a month.

And Eric Long loves it. Ashore and afloat he has been associated with the merchant marine all his life.

For 13 years prior to 1941 he was in the Far East as chief officer afloat and superintendent ashore for the British firm of Butterfield & Swire.

The Japanese had virtually assumed control of the international port of Shanghai when the Long family left.

They escaped internment only because the company insisted on Mr. Long taking his overdue vacation because he was holding up a long line of reliefs.

The holiday was spent in Canada and Mr. Long was charmed by Victoria after the fifth, squalor and poverty of China.

His luckiest decision was not to follow through after booking passage back to the Orient in a Japanese ship, ... on the eve of Pearl Harbor.

Apprenticed and commissioned in the merchant navy as a navigating officer, Mr. Long volunteered to get back on the bridge.

He had eye trouble and his protests that Nelson managed pretty well with one eye were of no avail against arguments of RCN doctors.

He wound up in the air force, in the intelligence service.

His knowledge of the Far East was used in lectures to coastal command aircrews. He was appointed harbormaster at Crofton in 1947.

Mr. Long likens harbors to highways with rules of the road to be observed.

Crofton harbor traffic today ranges from dinghies to the supercargo carrying freighters.

Mr. Long is a Londoner who apprenticed with the Blue Funnel Line of which his father was captain-commodore.

He was a junior officer with a French line before switching to Butterfield & Swire.

During his years at sea, Mr. Long was always grateful for the worldwide services of the Mission to Seamen.

At Crofton Mr. Long, a licensed lay reader of the Anglican Church, is the mission's representative.

His last word was an appeal for books and magazines for the mission.

"It doesn't matter what language, we get everyone from Germans to Turks," said Mr. Long.

Rebel Who Broke With Establishment Past

Son of a retired company director, British public school graduate, he wears a gold ring and drives a three-litre Rover.

But he turned down a commission to volunteer as a tank in a tank regiment and went to technical school instead of university.

Greater Victoria School Board chairman Peter Bunn, 45, possibly the most outspoken figure in B.C. public life today, is a man of contradictions.

A rebel in the eyes of the establishment, he is, a pragmatist thoroughly committed to change in whatever way works best.

Their Tongue

"I'm not one of the establishment," he says. "And to them, if you're not one of them, you're a rebel. But I can talk their language because of my early education."

Talking their language pays off. Under his chairmanship this year, the board, which administers 55 schools, 30,000 students and 1,035 teachers.

Steered through a $15-000 school referendum, the largest construction vote ever passed outside Vancouver.

Built a relationship of mutual trust and understanding between the board and the department of education, the city and municipalities.

Moved from its 19th century offices in Craigdarroch Castle into a 20th century administrative centre in the Paul Building on the Lansdowne campus grounds.

Consolidated existing teachers' resources (books, visual aids, etc.) in a central location at Craigdarroch.

Yet despite these successes, peppery Croydon-born Mr. Bunn sometimes chafes against the restrictions of office.

"The speed I would like in changing some aspects of the education system is not possible. I do have to rein back a bit."

"Eventually you have to adopt the position that while things may not be perfect, they are a bit less bad than before. If you bring the whole thing tumbling down on top of you, nobody has gained."

He misses the days when, as a trustee he could be more free-wheeling in debate than he is now as chairman.

The secret of his outspokenness is his independence. A self-employed contractor he is not tied to any group.

"If I were a doctor trustee I would always be looking over my shoulder to see what doctors thought. If a lawyer I might be worried about what other lawyers would think. I feel free to say the things that should be said."

Most often this means blasting Premier Bennett's administration.

Does So Little

"The Social Credit government does so little for people," he explains, "browses furrowing over never-too-serious blue eyes."

"Education is a second-class citizen. Mr. Dam walks ahead of Mr. Education, yet there is nothing more important than education."

As for representation of the Greater Victoria district, "Never have so many MLAs done so little for their area."

"It's not fair to pinch Winnie's words, is it, but it's an absolute travesty. They couldn't care less."

He is careful, however, to exclude Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane.

"Only Alan Macfarlane shows an open-minded sincere dedication to future education needs in Greater Victoria and I'm not a Liberal," says Mr. Bunn, who gave up membership in the New Democratic Party when he became chairman, because he thinks the chairman should be non-partisan.

A chief focus of controversy has been his five-year fight for a vocational school in Victoria.

"It's a sickening story. A mass of unfulfilled promises by the department of education."

Dam Policy

"There's no room in the Vancouver school. Where do people who need these facilities go? If the government can build a goddam dam they can build a vocational school."

Mr. Bunn first demonstrated his "rebel mentality" when he turned down a commission and entered the 9th Queen's Royal Lancers as a tanker.

In five years, Mr. Bunn, graduate of prep school and Brighton College, who holidayed on the continent with his family in the depth of the depression, had his outlook broadened in the university of North African and Italian campaigns.

"There, I learned the other fellow's point of view," he said.

PETER BUNN
... complex man

After the war he spent nine months skiing in Cortina and climbing in the Alps waiting to be demobbed, then shipped home to a 15-month concentrated building construction course under the soldiers' resettlement plan.

Clerk of Works

He became clerk of works in Brighton Engineering department supervising construction and maintenance of 6,000 council houses. In 1949, two years after he married the girl next door whom he had known since he was 11, he left for Canada, "browned off with the petty restrictions of post-war Britain."

"I could have gone to South Africa or New Zealand," he said.

But he came to Canada, he said, because "potentially it is the finest country in the world."

He demonstrated his attitude towards life in his new country by landing a construction job 48 hours after arrival in Victoria, despite National Employment Service warnings there were 3,400 unemployed here and "what chance did he have?"

After nine months he went into business for himself as a small contractor, specializing in the carriage trade—"good class remodelling and additions."

He is still at it. Peter Bunn Contractor, And now has three children, Jill, 15, Simon, 11, and Pauline, 7.

Very 'Umbly

"Very 'umbly, isn't it," he quips.

Mr. Bunn got on the school board six years ago. He was elected chairman last year.

Despite his expertise in bricks and mortar, education means more to him than buildings.

"When I say education, and I do think it's so bloody important, I don't mean sucking up facts and regurgitating them. I mean an inquiring education, finding out, discussion, the kind of education we're moving into now, though so terribly slowly."

But buildings are important, he said. "Isn't it likely that teachers will teach better when teaching conditions improve?"

He sees the board as "the ombudsman of education" and thinks its most important achievement since he became a member has been the preparation of the Downey-Harrick report which severely criticized school administration.

Commissioned by the board and entrusted to UBC education administration specialists Lorne Downey and Walter Harrick, the report's basic findings are still causing changes in the district.

Victoria Club

"The board, because of the elections was suddenly made up of more young people with children of their own in school. They saw the Victoria School district was suffering from educational incest."

Drunk Driver Laws Set For Revision

OTTAWA (CP) — New laws against impaired driving will be included in a proposed revision of the Criminal Code this year, Justice Minister Trudeau told the Commons last week.

The government is expected to favor breath tests for drivers suspected of being intoxicated. When a certain level of alcohol content in the blood was exceeded by the driver, he would automatically be convicted of impaired driving.

Such legislation has been recommended by the Commons justice committee and the Canadian Bar Association.

Mr. Trudeau told Barry Mather (N.D.P.—New Westminster) that his department has studied the recent unanimous report of the Commons committee and "reached certain conclusions which will be incorporated in amendments to the Criminal Code."

The code revision, the first in many years, is expected to be introduced next fall.

Everybody had gone to Victoria Normal School. It was almost a club. Something was radically wrong so we brought in the report," said Mr. Bunn.

Explaining the board's ombudsman function, he said, "I think it's important the school be given back to the people. Professional educators often tend to gather schools up and hold them to their bosoms. The greatest possible use should be made of the facilities by the citizenry at large."

"Whenever a responsible group wants a school facility, it's important they should have it."

"When I was chairman of buildings and grounds the board began the policy of making facilities available to the public through commissions at a nominal break-even rent."

Next September, he said, a pilot project will be launched which will open the libraries of two or three junior high schools after school hours.

"I think it's important that, if you have anything on the ball at all, you should have a go at some kind of public service," he explained, "whether it's helping out with a cancer drive or as a school trustee."

But English upper-class attitudes to public service apart, Mr. Bunn is very much a public man, and enjoys his public life tremendously.

Worried About War

He is concerned about the war in Vietnam and has played a quiet part in some of the local rallies.

"I find myself ashamed of the federal government being prepared to let big business make money out of the war in Vietnam. If not immoral, it is amoral."

But he is worried that with what he calls "the quiet McCarthyism in Canada at the moment," to participate too openly would mean that "very quickly I wouldn't be

Varied Punishment Makes Men Bitter

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mary Lynch of Saint John, N.B., the national parole board's only woman member, said Tuesday night there is too much variation in sentences handed out by Canada's judges and magistrates.

Miss Lynch, who practised law from 1933 to 1960 when she was appointed to the parole board, said in an interview "the disparity has a very bad effect on prisoners."

"It makes them very bitter," she said. The bitterness makes the parole job more difficult and the offender less likely to reform.

For example, she said, she knows of two rapists in adjoining cells in an eastern prison. The first was serving two years for what she considered a far worse offence than the second, whose sentence was 10 years and 10 lashes.

Miss Lynch is here on a three-day tour of British Columbia prisons.

Hudson's Bay Company

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, MAY 24, 1967—PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

Last Sunday, we drove out to the thriving Cowichan Valley Forest Museum a mile north of Duncan for a reunion with two friends.

One is retired logging operator Jerry Wellburn, to whose labors the museum owes its existence. The other is a brawny, chunky, logging locomotive which we last saw three years ago, as it came down Drinkwater Road on a flatbed truck.

In spite of the maple bough that had twined rakishly around its horn's nest had taken its log-hauling job away, and all that remained for it was a lifeless existence as an exhibit.

Mr. Wellburn waved that notion aside.

"Next time you come out here," he told us, "she'll be on the rails, and you two can ride her."

There are more machines now, including other salvaged logies donated by companies interested in helping preserve a tangible record of our lumbering past.

The tract has been expanded to 23 acres, and a fine log-built hall houses lesser displays.

What Jerry Wellburn started alone has become a community attraction sponsored and assured of permanence by Cowichan Valley Forest Museum Society.

The founder-director is as he was on that earlier meeting: lean, vigorous as a young man at 67, and if anything, more enthusiastic about the project than when we first met him.

"I think I've seen more people happy and laughing in the last three years than in all the rest of my life," he said while we strolled across to North Cowichan Station, one of the two on the museum's Cowichan Valley Railway line.

Down by Somenos Lake, a steam-locomotive cut loose with two whistle-blasts. They were sonorous yet mellow; a sound to delight the heart. The rails began to sing; and around the bend came a brawny locomotive proud in fresh paint and polished metal, blue-black smoke jutting from her stack.

Behind her were two carloads of holiday kids and grownups, plainly enchanted by their trip.

"Recognize her?" Jerry asked.

So we got our ride, up in the One-Spot Shay's cab with engineer Elmer Blackstaff at the controls; and I wouldn't ask for a better.

The locomotive took us through tall green woods, preserved as part of the setting for a return to the logging past. With another sonorous whistle salute, it pulled its train across a lake inlet on a log trestle.

It steamed serenely, 21 functional tons of hauling power beautifully balanced on its wheels. The old Shay will never head a log-train again; but it forms part of a wonderland without which this island would be poorer.

In 1966, something over 28,000 tourists visited the forest museum—a name which Jerry Wellburn would like to exchange for one with no connotation of hushed halls and glass show-cases. This year, he is prepared for a much larger influx.

We roved for an hour or so, then returned to a station complete with ancient phone and telegrapher's "bug." There, another visitor with a feeling for steam locomotives was climbing into the Shay's cab.

His name is Peter Allen. He is chairman of Canadian Industries Limited, and he had been lured to the railway by a magazine mention seen months before in the East.

CIL's chairman reached for the bell-cord.

"Not yet," said engineer Blackstaff.

Then, with a wisp of steam and a shaft of smoke, the Shay began to roll.

Engineer nodded, chairman tugged... and the bell clanged bravely for another journey into the land of yesterday which waits here for all comers.

EYEBALL TO EYEBALL ENCOUNTER

DICK JAMES
... too late with camera

'Stump' Moved, Breathed Heavily Like a Horse

Caddy may be an elephant ... of sorts.

An elephant that breathes like a horse and is the color of a cinnamon bear.

Pretty monstrous when you come upon him (her?) while cruising island waters.

But worthwhile, according to city yachtsman Dick James who thinks he's solved the mystery of the local sea monster, Cadborosaurus.

Mr. James' "Caddy" is actually a sea elephant, he found out from Dr. Clifford Carl, director of the Provincial Museum.

The yachtsman is convinced

the sporadic sightings of Caddy are really sea elephants.

Mr. James, commodore of the Turkey Head Sailing Association, spotted the creature over the weekend while sailing his 42-foot sloop Lalanga II off Turn Point on Stuart Island.

He heard a noise "much like a horse breathing heavily".

He and his wife, Ruth, turned around and saw what they thought was a large brown stump in the water.

They steered toward it and when within 20 feet the "stump" moved and made sounds ... like a horse.

"It was about 17 or 18 feet long and the color of a cinnamon bear. The huge nostrils were big enough to put a man's fist in and it had a bump on its head about six inches high. The neck was at least eight inches," said Mr. James.

Both Mr. and Mrs. James are "shutter bugs". While Ruth James took the helm, her husband dashed below to get his camera. By the time he was ready to take a picture ... you guessed it ... the creature had decided to take a dive.

So, although the James' are convinced they've solved one of our sea's mysteries those who believe in Caddy can still hold on to their illusions.

After all, more than 30 years of legend among Victoria's sea-watchers can't be lightly dismissed.

CADDY EXPOSED?

Six Cadets Injured When Car Hits Water

20-Foot Plunge On North Pender

A high tide probably saved the lives of six Royal Roads cadets when their car plunged 20 feet down a cliff on North Pender Island Tuesday night.

Their car landed in five feet of water which cushioned the impact.

At low tide they would have smashed into jagged rocks, RCMP said.

Air force cadet Gordon E.

Sharpe, 19, has a broken leg and back injuries, while A/F cadet Terry B. Rogers, 18, is suffering cuts and abrasions.

FOUR RELEASED

The other four were released after treatment at Lady Minto Hospital, Ganges.

They are: Peter Van Haastrecht, 21, the driver; Larry Riegert, 22; Frederick James, 22, and William Card, 20.

They were among 31 Royal Roads cadets on a five-day survival course on North Pender.

RCMP said they were driving along the lonely road when the car apparently went out of control and failed to negotiate a bend.

INTO HOPE BAY

The car took off and splashed into the waters of Hope Bay.

Two youngsters who witnessed the accident ran for help.

But by the time rescuers arrived the cadets had managed to escape from the half-submerged vehicle.

Soaked and suffering shock, they were taken across to the hospital on Salt Spring Island by a fisheries patrol vessel.

The car was owned by Capt. Larry Craig of Victoria, believed to be one of the officers in charge of the survival course "Operation Northbound."

It was extensively damaged.

JUDY TASSELL
... remembered lessons

Esquimalt Teen-ager Saved Youth

An Esquimalt girl's swimming lessons four years ago saved the life of a Ladysmith youth at the weekend.

Sixteen-year-old Judy Tassell, of 394 Lampson, was identified today as the young girl who brought David Evans, 13, back to life on Sunday.

David had stopped breathing and his heart was not beating after being under water five minutes at Fullers Lake, Chemainus.

As he was pulled from the water Judy remembered what she'd been taught at swimming classes at Royal Roads.

MOUTH-TO-MOUTH

Without hesitating, she began giving mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

"He wasn't breathing at all," she said today during a break from Grade 11 class at Esquimalt High School.

"I plugged his nose and started breathing into his mouth. After a while water began to run out of his mouth and he started breathing."

"I don't remember how long I kept it up but it must have been 15 to 20 minutes."

"His heart was beating again by the time an ambulance arrived with breathing equipment."

David is in fair condition in hospital today.

Said David's mother: "She was a real hero. David owes his life to her. I'd like to thank her personally."

Old Favorites, New Hopefuls Set for Classic

The greatest fleet in Victoria's history will begin massing in the Inner Harbor on Friday as yachts from the Pacific Northwest gather for this year's Swiftsure and Juan de Fuca races.

Sid Bryant, general chairman for the races, said today 120 yachts had been entered and more entries are expected before the final cut-off.

Many old favorites will be back to compete in the most challenging race of the Pacific Northwest.

Among them will be the two yachts that gave spectators the thrill of a lifetime last year when they barreled over the finish line within inches of each other.

Royal Vancouver Yacht Club's John H. Long will be skipping the 49-foot sloop Mary Bower while Henry L. Cotkins, Seattle Yacht Club, will be at the helm of the 73-foot yawl Diamond Head.

MARUFFA BACK

Another Seattle favorite to be returning will be Maruffa. The 67-foot yawl will be skipped by SYC's John Graham.

Many new boats will be there to challenge champions of other years. One of the most spectacular of them will be Mir, a 78-foot ketch skippered by George O'Brien of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club.

Both races will start off Brothie Ledge on Saturday morning. Swiftsure contestants getting the gun at 9:30 and the Juan de Fuca competitors, 9:45 a.m.

The finish will be a line between the outer wharf breakwater and McLoughlin Point.

JOINT PATROL

The two classics will see international co-operation at its finest as Canadian and American boats combine forces to patrol the course and ensure safety conditions for yachts and crews.

HMCS Beacon Hill, commanded by Lt.-Cmdr. S. C. Gould, will be senior guard vessel and HMCS Cowichan, under the command of Lieut. J. D. Buchan, will assist and act as marker for the Swiftsure turning point. This will be where the old Swiftsure Lightship once kept her station and halfway in the 136-mile course.

The United States coast guard cutter, Cape Henlopen, will help patrol and act as marker when Juan de Fuca competitors round her at Callam Bay before heading back into the Strait of Juan de Fuca on the last half of their 73-mile race.

PLANES STAND BY

The RCMP's motor vessel Victoria and the Canadian coast guard cutter Ready will form part of the patrol fleet. American and Canadian air and sea rescue planes will be at the stand-by.

As in other years, Island Tug and Barge Limited will provide

Bedside Sitting Of Court Orders Further Remand

Sooke Magistrate Eugene Murphy convened his court in Royal Jubilee Hospital Tuesday afternoon to order a remand in a murder case.

James Frederick Redlin, 37, of Coombs, is charged with capital murder following the shooting death May 9 of Mrs. Lavina Maude Nicholson, 55, of Sooke.

Redlin was taken to hospital with injuries to his head that day and has been there since. He was remanded in absentia May 9 for one week and again on May 16.

On Tuesday the magistrate decided further remands should be made in the presence of the accused and moved his court to hospital.

Hospital officials said today Redlin's condition is satisfactory.

a tug to assist the race committee.

Stringent safety regulations have been laid down during the past two years. Last year, one of the roughest since the Swiftsure race was born with a four-yacht entry in 1930, proved the wisdom of the new rulings by the sponsoring body, the Pacific International Yachting Association.

Race officials, both ashore and afloat, will be maintaining an around-the-clock watch in order to keep an accurate plot of the yachts' positions and release up-to-the-minute information on the race progress.

Members of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club will man all stations. The club's fleet captain, Neville Lite, will be in charge of the shore station at Ogden Point while Jack Woodward will head the four-man committee which will relay information back to shore from HMCS Beacon Hill.

Eaton's have again made a return to a corner window of their store. Here, Humphrey Golby, will be in charge of information services.

PAIR BUILD BOAT FOR SWIFTSURE TEST

They'd Never But They Have Now

By PAT DUFOUR

A couple of do-it-yourselfers have set their sights on competing in this year's Swiftsure.

When Glen and Ralph Higgins set out from Brothie Ledge in their 37-foot sloop, Sea Smoke, the brothers will be realizing a dream that began when they bought a plug from local marine architect, Ray Richards, designer of the Warrior and Haide boats.

The Warrior plug (a wooden model from which a mold for fiberglass boats is made) put the enthusiastic brothers in the boat-building business.

The British America Oil Company loaned them a vacant lot at the corner of Fairfield and St. Charles and for 18 months neighbors and passers-by were treated to the sight of a boat being breathed into existence.

Ralph, although he'd sailed for 20 years and once was a member of the Britannia Yacht Club in Ottawa, had never built a boat.

His brother was just as uninitiated. But, with the boat-building fever upon them, and with the technical advice and help of many local firms, Sea Smoke began to come alive slowly and laboriously.

The chores seemed endless. There were supporting ribs to be taken out, to be replaced later with oak ribs that the brothers steamed into shape. Four laminations of fibreglass were applied to both the inside and outside of the hull. There was the inside of the mahogany cabin to finish.

The brothers felt like David taking a ping at Goliath when it came time to add the 6,000-pound lead keel that was built for them by Vancouver Island Brass. It meant hoisting Sea Smoke by crane, upside down, and restoring her to the usual position once the job was completed.

They finished the deck with celastin, a water-proof coating that provides a non-skidding surface.

Then came the task of making the tall wooden mast and boom.

Sir Thomas Lipton, the millionaire yachtsman, couldn't have been more proud that the Higgins brothers when on the Easter weekend of 1966 Sea Smoke first wetted her waterline off Ogden Point.

Determined to keep their yacht in the Victoria-built category, Glen and Ralph went to Dick James, the local sailmaker, for Sea Smoke's suit of sails.

Although a comparative infant in sailing years, Sea Smoke has already won her racing spurs.

FIRST PLACE

In the winter series of the Turkey Head Sailing Association held at Oak Bay, Sea Smoke persistently showed her transom to the rest of the competitors, winning first place and the Oak Bay Marina Trophy for her delighted owners.

Capt. Peter de Cunha has been chosen by the co-skipper to be Sea Smoke's navigator in the Swiftsure. Rounding out the crew will be Duncan Macphail, Louis Lindholm and Dave Rainsford.

Most of the yachts that battle for supremacy in Swiftsure have cost their skippers a king's ransom to acquire. Sea Smoke was kinder. Easier on the pocketbook, she set

Monday Off For Most Over Holiday

The July 1 Dominion Day holiday falls on a Saturday this year and the law says that's when it must be observed but most workers in the province will get the following Monday off.

Government officials today said the 19,000 provincial civil servants and the 14,000 federal civil servants in B.C. will be given Monday off under long-standing regulations.

Most collective bargaining agreements also are worded in such a way that an extra day off is mandatory when Dominion Day falls on a "day of rest."

ONLY SUNDAY

But the federal Dominion Day Act says only "when the 1st day of July is a Sunday, the 2nd day of July shall be, in lieu thereof, throughout Canada, a legal holiday and shall be kept and observed as such under the name of Dominion Day."

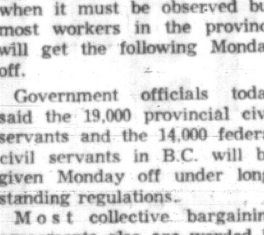

The wording prevents a switch of legal status to Monday this year. In any event, the idea likely would not even be entertained as this is the 100th anniversary year of Confederation.

The result will be that individual retailers will have to make up their minds in the next few weeks whether to make it a long weekend for business houses or not.

"We haven't heard of any declarations of intent by other organizations but under our regulations federal civil servants will be entitled to Monday off," said W. J. Robertson, Vancouver, regional director of the Federal Civil Service Commission.

IN BIG COMPANY, Sea Smoke, the 37-foot yacht owned by Glen and Ralph Higgins, is registered with the Esquimalt Squadron, Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association. The only other RCNSA yacht that will be sailing in this year's Swiftsure will be the Royal Canadian Navy's 112-foot ketch HMCS Oriole, which has competed in the event for many years.

Arrange House Tour

By PAT DUFOUR

A bachelor who whips up a batch of home-made bread with the dexterity of a Victorian grandmother, antiques that would have the curator of the British Museum drooling with envy and intimate glimpses of homes that are the epitome of gracious living will provide an irresistible combination when the Women's Committee to the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria holds its annual house tour on Saturday, May 27, from 2 to 5 p.m.

I was given a chance to see two of the four homes that will be open to the tour. I wish I'd have had time to see the others.

Local architect, Peter Cotton, must be one of the most eligible bachelors in town. Not only does he create homes that would have you begging for the opportunity to mortgage your bank account for ever, he also cooks with the skill that any career girl would give up her weekly hairdos to acquire.

When I visited the duplex apartment which he built at 636 Toronto Street, I almost threw my diet sheet out the window as I sniffed the aroma of home-made bread.

The duplex which Mr. Cotton built is as individual as the owner himself. Windows, 16 feet high and flattered with drapes made of a combination of colorful print bedspreads combined to make unusual curtains, give the illusion that you're still standing in the attractive garden.

The split-level home is gay with paintings that sing with color and texture. Mr. Cotton's bedroom is uniquely bordered with drapes which he created in way-out batik. The ceiling of the basement room is serrated, each panel smartly tinted with wall-paper.

Mrs. Cotton lives with her son and her room has its own tea corner and a fireplace that reminds you of English cottages. Its old, old tiles are daintily exquisite and, Mr. Cotton admits that he built the house around them, after finding the fireplace in a local torn-down building.

Another local artist, Lloyd Cook has set his own stamp on the kitchen. Above the sink is a unique decoration, made by casting plaster in sand and using kitchen utensils, weeds

World Theme For UCW Tea

An international theme will flavor the community friendship tea being held by the First United Church Women, Saturday in the Fellowship Hall.

Each of the guests' tables will be decorated in a motif to represent different countries. Entertainment, too, will follow the theme with songs and dances from Italy, Scotland, Norway and France.

The tea, which is open to the public, is from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Greeting guests will be wife of the minister, Mrs. Robert J. D. Morris, and UCW president, Mrs. J. D. Martin.

Arranging the tea are Mrs. S. Ash, Mrs. R. A. Marquis, Mrs. A. H. Sheard and Miss Ruby Wilks.

Convention Here

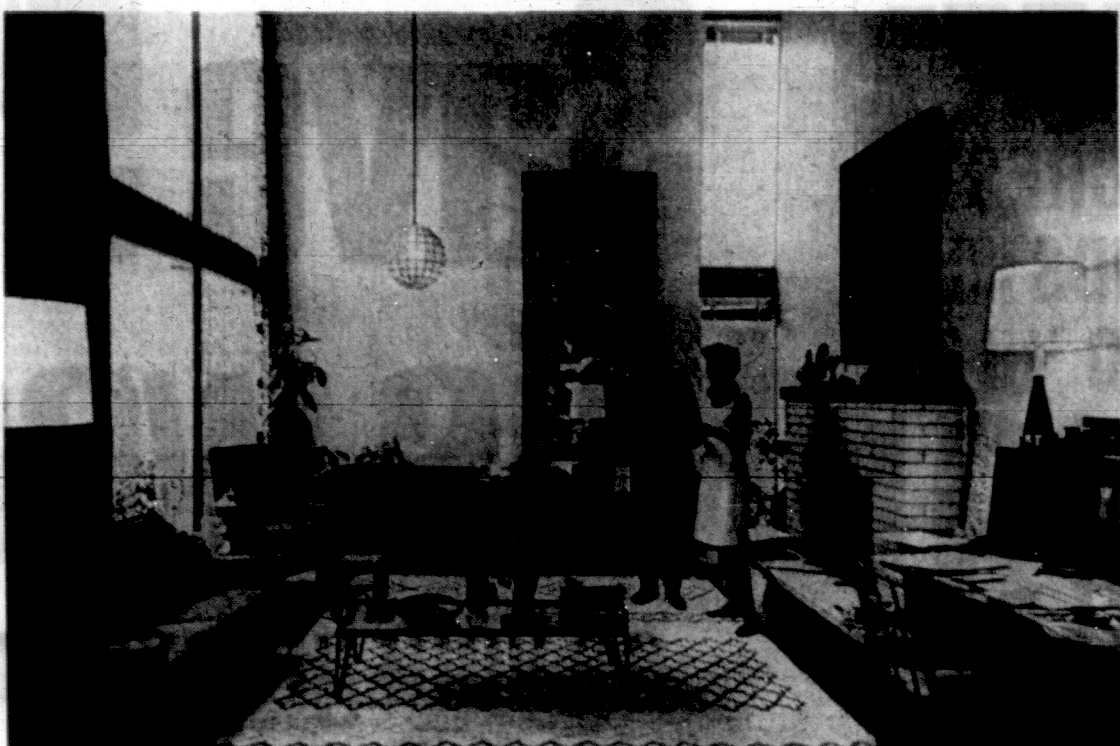

The 62nd annual convention of the British Columbia Branch, King's Daughters and Sons, will be held this week in Victoria. The two-day meet begins today in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Kirk Hall.

Business sessions start at 7:30 p.m. this evening. On Thursday, members of the Victoria District will host a luncheon, beginning at 12:15 p.m., following the conclusion of the convention.

Mrs. John Angus, at left, greets committee members on the lawns of her Rockland Avenue home. Seen in this picture are Mrs. E. W. Thomas (centre) and Mrs. J. T. Donaldson.

Mrs. R. A. Whyte, who with Mrs. J. C. Chanvin is convening this year's house tour, is seen discussing details and grasses as models. The texture is so intriguing you can't resist running your fingers over it.

The second house I visited was the spacious early American colonial home of Dr. and Mrs. John Angus at 1509 Rockland Avenue. This home is an antique lover's paradise, being filled with treasures inherited by Dr. Angus and collected over the years.

On the mantelpiece in the drawing room is a superb Chinese jade tree, brilliant with jewels of jade, amethyst and corneal. Delicate Ch'ien Lung bowls of creamy white porcelain flank this beauty.

In the drawing room a full dinner service of amber crystal, complete with chandeliers candle-holders, adds brilliance to the setting.

There are many paintings that are worthy of a tour of their own, including one by Francesco Guardi, of the 18th century Venetian school. In meticulous oils, it's called "Steps of the Doge's Palace."

There are too many to mention them all but one by the English painter, J. Bosboom, should be studied carefully... it's beautiful. The water color is of an interior of a Dutch cathedral.

NEWLYWEDS TRAVEL TO OTTAWA

Following their recent wedding, newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Grant Peterson left on a honeymoon trip to Ottawa. They will spend the summer in the capital city and then travel on to Chicago, where Mr. Peterson will be studying for his doctorate in economics at Northwestern University.

The bride, the former Florence Cheryl Corless, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Corless, 291 Parkside Crescent, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Peterson of Peachland, B.C. St.

Aidan's United Church was decorated with salmon pink gladioli and white snapdragons for the service conducted by Rev. A. G. MacLeod.

As the couple signed the register, Mrs. Eric Dittmars sang "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dainty A-line gown of candlelight silk, fashioned with a full court train sweeping back from the shoulders. Appliques of re-embroidered lace and seed pearls highlighted the bodice of the gown. Her tiered veil of silk illusion net misted softly from a lace coronet, starred with seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of Zorena roses, lily of the valley and ivy.

Her three attendants were in matching gowns of apple green peau de chamois, styled on empire lines. They accented the outfits with floral bonnets and bouquets of Johanna Hill roses and ivy.

Maid of honor was Miss Gail Flitton, West Vancouver, and bridesmaids were the Misses Gail Maxwell, Prince George, and Jamesina McLellan, Victoria.

Richard Matthews, Vancouver, was best man, ushering the guests were John Watters and Bruce Lofting of Vancouver, and Harley Bratton, Prince George.

Lily of the valley topped the tiered wedding cake which centred the head table at the reception following in the Olde England Inn. Charles Odum, West Vancouver, proposed the toast to the bride.

A suit of pink blended silk and linen was worn by the new Mrs. Peterson for travelling. She chose a hat in tone and navy blue accessories to complement the outfit. Her corsage was of white orchids.

Annual Meet

Members of St. Joseph's School of Nursing Alumnae will gather in the hospital on Saturday, June 3, for the group's annual meeting and dinner. Registration is at 5:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the nurses' residence and dinner begins at 6 in the hospital dining room. For reservations, contact Mrs. H. Wilton, 3781 Mystic Lane, at 477-6519 before May 29.

Party Trio for New Bride

Mrs. W. G. De Long was hostess at a surprise shower held at the St. Mary Lake home of the bride's parents.

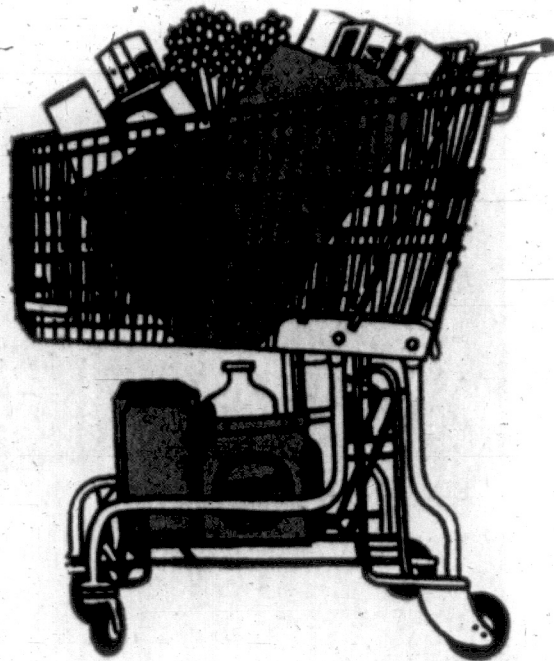

A cup and saucer shower was given by Mrs. David Winters at her Walker Hook home. Special guests at the showers were the bride's mother, Mrs. M. B. East, and mother of the groom, Mrs. Peter Cartwright.

POPE CALLS FOR END OF VIETNAM BOMBING

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI today called for an end to the bombing of North Vietnam and to Communist arms infiltration into South Vietnam.

The Roman Catholic pontiff told an audience of pilgrims that "all acts of terrorism" in Vietnam should cease.

The call for an end to the bombing in North Vietnam was the first time the Pope had made such a direct appeal. He coupled it with appeals to the Communists to stop the infiltration and terrorism which he said does not serve the cause of peace.

63 Killed in 71 Incidents During Vietnam 'Truce'

SAIGON (Reuters) — A 24-hour truce to celebrate Buddha's birthday ended at midnight Tuesday night with a total of 71 incidents—32 of which involved casualties—the U.S. command reported today.

A spokesman said 12 Americans were killed and 60 were wounded during the truce, while American soldiers killed 51 guerrillas.

He said southern allied troops resumed offensive operations when the truce ended at midnight Tuesday night. A Viet Cong declared 48-hour truce ended seven hours later.

With the resumption of operations today, B-52 bombers swept over South Vietnam three times before dawn, hitting suspected guerrilla positions twice in the Central Highlands and once 12 miles west of Saigon.

The spokesman said that five minutes after the truce ended mortar shells hit an American position near the scene of Tuesday's battle, 315 miles northeast of Saigon.

During the battle Tuesday—which was not counted among the incidents because it started before the truce—eight Americans and 43 guerrillas were reported killed.

Meanwhile, a number of civilians were reported killed in various incidents.

Three children were killed and three women wounded an hour after the truce ended when an American mortar shell landed in the town of Dau Tieng, 39 miles northwest of Saigon.

Another civilian was killed when an American truck lost its load on a curve, and seven Vietnamese died 48 miles northwest of here when a small bus hit a mine.

The spokesman said 20 civilians reported "killed" in the Quang Ngai battle were wounded.

REJECTS TRUST COMPANY PLEA

Council Approves Demolition

Esquimalt council has upheld a demolition recommendation of the metropolitan health board despite a plea that the welfare of two orphaned children is partly dependent on the buildings concerned.

The health board recommended the demolition after an inspection of the 13 cabins at 867 Viewfield Road.

The dilapidated cabins are part of the estate of J. Z. Dufrene, victim of a shooting incident at Harrison Hot Springs last October.

At a public hearing Tuesday, lawyer David Kirchner requested a year's grace to allow the executors of the estate, Canada Trust, to assess the buildings and decide whether or not repairs were possible.

He did not indicate that repairs would be made.

Mr. Kirchner said although the estate was valued at $200,000, its assets had been frozen by federal and provincial tax departments and cash assets had to be used for the education of the Dufrene children rather than repairs.

Council met in closed session after the public hearing and upheld the demolition order.

Reeve Ray Bryant said this morning the order has a six-month time limit.

Seven of the 13 cabins are occupied and welfare officials have been asked to help in relocating tenants.

BUGGING PROBE TOLD:

'Let Courts Decide'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The courts, not the provincial legislature, should be left to govern against the wrongful use of electronic listening devices, lawyer Mary Southin told the inquiry into invasion of privacy Tuesday.

Miss Southin said common law eventually will evolve into a useful system for dealing with bugging devices. She said common law has managed to exist in a changing and complex world and would undoubtedly adjust to meet the challenge of the electronic bug.

She said community interest would best be served by amending the criminal code to outlaw the use of the devices except in special cases — notably where police are permitted to bug under a warrant issued by a senior member of the judiciary.

"We don't know of the electronic advances that will be made in the next 10 or 20 years and it is always easier for judges to adjust the law than it is to adjust the legislature."

Miss Southin who previously appeared before the inquiry as counsel for the Pulp and Paper

Workers of Canada, stressed that she was giving her personal views on the law.

The inquiry was set up early this year after bugging devices were discovered at the Pulp and Paper Workers' convention in a downtown hotel. Pat O'Neal, organizer for the rival International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, later admitted hiring a private detective to bug the convention rooms.

HOME GARDEN

Rare Plant Colorful, Distinctive

By HILDA BEASTALL

Each year with the first warm weather comes inquiries regarding a strange looking plant blooming in a half dozen or so local gardens.

The large leaves are divided into many segments and are borne on stems a foot long. But it is the curious chocolate-brown-purple inflorescence which causes consternation among the gardeners.

The name of the plant is Dracunculus vulgaris, and it belongs in the Arum family, which also contains the plant we call a calla.

TINY FLOWERS

Like all of these plants, the colorful part of the inflorescence is not the true flower. The chocolate-purple part is really the spathe or the bract, in the centre of which rises the spadix, a fleshy spike containing hundreds of tiny flowers.

The dracunculus plant (the leaves and the flower stem) grow to a height of three or four feet, so that the whole thing is an impressive sight.

Native to the Mediterranean area, we see a few of these around in gardens, but some folks object to the strong odor emanating from the true flowers as they begin to open.

BIRDS CARRY SEEDS

Since most of the enquiries come from gardeners who say they did not plant the dracunculus into their gardens, we must assume that occasionally seed is set and is carried by birds to other properties.

The large divided leaves are handsome by themselves, and the tuberous root probably takes three or four years to grow to the point of producing bloom.

Closely related to our native yellow skunk-cabbage, Lysichiton camtschatensis, Dracunculus vulgaris also thrives best in wooded areas, even those having much water lying around in winter.

Famous Stars to Brighten Victoria Symphony Season

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Now under contract with the Victoria Symphony Society is a group of six soloists who would raise eyebrows and whet musical appetites in virtually any major city in the world.

This is part of the international gala season — its 27th and greatest — planned for the Victoria Symphony Orchestra by its new musical director and conductor, Laszlo Gati.

Details of the completed plans for the season were released today by president John Meredith and Mr. Gati.

Besides the international status of the soloists, there are several other highlights to the new look the symphony will wear for 1967-68.

Season subscribers will have a choice of programs.

They will have the privilege of making up their own series if they wish.

In conjunction with the season, the society will turn impresario, presenting a series of six celebrity concerts.

There will be an additional series of programs by the Victoria Symphony Concert Orchestra in McPherson Playhouse.

There will be at least two bonus programs.

The box office at Eaton's opens for pre-sale of the season from June 1 to 24. This also is changed from previous years when reservations only could be made at this period.

PACKAGE DISCOUNT
Subscribers will find that they can buy their tickets (to be made up in books this year) in four different ways.

They can buy the package of six gala and four masterworks series — 10 concert pairs as before — at a considerable discount on the individual concert price.

Or they can have their choice of the six gala or the four masterworks series at a smaller discount.

Or they can make up their own series, choosing not less than six from both sets with the same discount as they would receive in buying the 10.

SOLOISTS
Soloists appearing in the Gala or "G" series are:

Oct. 1-2, Pina Carmirelli, Italian violinist who was invited by Rudolf Serkin to perform all the Beethoven violin and piano recitals at Carnegie Hall.

Oct. 22-23, Marina Medvan, brilliant young Soviet pianist, student of Emil Gilels.

Nov. 5-6, Paul Olefsky, solo cellist of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra.

Jan. 28-29, Christian Ferras, French violinist, noted European recording artist and 1967 winner of the Grand Prix du Disque.

Feb. 11-12, Nicanor Zabaleta, world's greatest harpist.

March 10-11, Witold Malczewski, Polish pianist and world-famous interpreter of Chopin.

RECITAL SERIES
On the Wednesday or Thursday immediately preceding the weekend they are to appear with the symphony, each of these artists will be presented in recital at McPherson Playhouse.

This recital series will be offered as a separate package. In the Masterworks, or "M" series, Canadian pianist, Robin Wood will appear in November, the Messiah will be sung by Victoria Choral Society with the concert orchestra in December, and Mozart Requiem and Haydn's Lord Nelson Mass in April.

McPherson Playhouse concerts will feature Robin Wood and Winifred Scott in a two-piano work with orchestra, student winners of symphony auditions, and solo performers from the orchestra.

This star-studded program of at least 16 concerts, Mr. Gati emphasizes, has been possible only because of the devotion and spirit of the orchestra members and their willingness to undertake the pressure and unremitting work of major rehearsal schedules.

"They are the key to the whole situation," says Mr. Meredith. "Without their full cooperation none of this would be possible."

QUITTING as head of the Voice Of America, U.S. global propaganda radio, is John Chancellor. He is returning to NBC as a national affairs correspondent.

Direction Is Criticized

By DON McLEOD

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A play about a family of Scottish settlers in Cape Breton in the early 19th century was criticized Tuesday night by adjudicator Guy Beaulne of the Dominion Drama Festival for direction which he said failed to define characters or how the audience was to view the production.

The Dauphin Players of Ottawa presented The Blood Is Strong by Toronto author-broadcaster Lester Sinclair.

Mr. Beaulne said the play was "lacking theatrical invention, a bit shy in its expression, but with moments of touching emotion and interesting moments of acting."

He said he felt defeated as a spectator because it seemed director John Knight wanted the audience to follow the tale as in a storybook, but touches of realism, such as water leaking from a bucket, destroyed this theory.

The lighting started with a "beautiful opening" but deteriorated and costumes looked too new.

"My feeling is that it has not been an entirely successful production. Some of the actors felt their characters, but were not helped, maybe, by the director."

Among individual performances, he singled out Aline Van Dine as Mary MacDonald, wife of a Scottish settler yearning for his highland home.

"This is a very interesting actress... with warmth and presence," Mr. Beaulne said. Some of her scenes were "moments of magic."

Tonight, the Vernon Players from British Columbia present Gilliam, a two-act comic tragedy written by three journalists who combined as playwrights for the first time to produce the work.

Question Wins Book For Girl

ELAINE MCKINNEY
...questioning girl

A 13-year-old girl who has been taking dancing lessons since she was three, today won a World Book Atlas for a question submitted to Ask Andy. The question is answered in the column below.

Elaine McKinney, 658 Niagara Street, is an expert at taps, ballet and character dancing. She is also fast becoming a good musician. She takes piano lessons.

A Grade 8 pupil at Central Junior High School Elaine's favorite subjects are English, social studies and science.

She has submitted many questions, to Ask Andy, but this is the first time she has won a prize. She likes reading the column, especially when it deals with natural sciences.

Elaine is going to continue to write to Andy. She hopes eventually to win a World Book Encyclopedia.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Elaine McKinney, age 13, of Victoria, British Columbia, Canada, for her question:

What makes a seashell roar?
A seashell sits silently on the seashore and utters not a sound when you take it home and place it on a shelf. However, if you hold it close to your ear, you may hear a roaring that sounds somewhat like the rushing waves on a tidal beach. Not every kind of shell has one of these mysterious orchestras. The right shell must have a curved dome of snail-like coils and a wide mouth. One of the best is a graceful conch shell but the flat clam shell is no use at all.

Actually, the shell itself does not provide the roaring orchestra. The original sound is produced by your own beating heart and the pulsing of the blood coursing through your body. Under normal conditions, these personal sounds are too soft for you to hear. But the shell is a natural echo chamber with lots of small chambers and curved walls. As the soft sound of your pulse bounces back and forth inside the shell, it is amplified to a roar like the swoosh of distant surf.

Scouts Make Third Try For Award

Juan De Fuca Scouts hope everything comes in threes. Thirty-two of them are trying to capture the Provincial Adventure award for the third time this August.

The group which includes representatives from each of the 11 troops in Juan De Fuca district, will attempt to scale Mount Anderson Glacier in the Olympics as their objective.

The award, given three years ago for the first time, uses planning and adherence to schedule as the main criteria in judging the adventure hikes. District Scoutmaster Robert Muir, organizer of past trips and this one, said Saturday that 93 applications have been received so far for two trips.

Many interested parents accompany the boys.

Mr. Muir said that since last year's Forbidden Plateau excursion two of the accompanying parents had become Scout troop leaders.

"This could be a good way of reviving interest in the scout movement," he added.

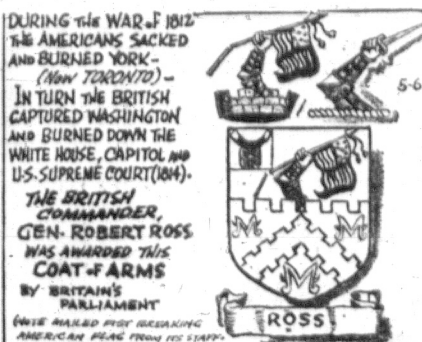

A trip to the Forbidden Plateau area will be made this year by the second group of 32 juniors but they will not be entering the adventure competition.

The senior trip will take an estimated 10 to 12 days to cover some 75 miles. Plans have been approved by the Olympic park chief ranger. The boys will climb through three passes on their way to the glacier.

TWICE IN LIFE

Hears Voice
Of Canada
In Children

By ELIZABETH FORBES

The voice of Canada. Some hear it in the roar of rivers and the call of the loon over a lonely lake. Others know it in the clatter of construction machinery, the whirl of the reapers in prairie grain fields or the swish of the big trucks as they travel coast-to-coast highways.

Still others find it in the harsh noise of a diesel engine, the scream of falling trees in the forests or the surging sigh of strong nets as they are eased in or out of fish boats.

Some know it in the roar of a crowd at hockey, football or baseball games. And some in the off-beat music of a "love-in" staged in a city square or a park.

No matter how or where, those who do hear it will tell you that it is a sound we take very much for granted and that it is only on rare occasions that we are conscious of hearing it at all.

That's why I have no hesitation in telling you that only twice in my life have I been convinced I was actually listening to such a voice.

Forbes

First time was on Oct. 16, 1957, at Lansdowne Park in Ottawa.

You will remember that was the year Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, accompanied by His Royal Highness Prince Philip, came to Ottawa as the first reigning monarch to open Parliament.

It was the last day of the visit. The royal couple was on the way to Uplands Airport—but first there was to be a brief stop at the park where thousands of school children were assembled.

The morning was misty and damp and with more than a hint of chill in the air. But the children had worn gay colors and they created a warm mosaic that blended into a never-to-be-forgotten picture.

When the royal car entered the gates and slowly circled the grounds, all the excited murmurs of those thousands of boys and girls swelled into a shout that sent the startled birds winging from the roofs of the stands.

After the car had completed the circle and the Queen and the Prince had been escorted to a dais, those same voices rose again in God Save the Queen.

Some sang in French. Others in English. It didn't matter. They all blended in a great swirl of sound that reached out and surrounded everyone there with friendship and love.

It was an emotion-packed moment. Beside me a grey-haired, strong-featured man said softly: "It's the voice of Canada!" And I knew he was right!

Second time I was conscious of hearing that voice was last Friday morning in front of our own Legislative Buildings.

It was the annual IODE "Salute to Queen Victoria" ceremony. The sun was shining and the sky was blue.

Added interest was given in the appearance of Her Royal Highness Princess Alexandra and her husband, the Hon. Angus Ogilvy.

Again there were children present, grade sixers from our elementary schools. They filled the wide stone steps in front of the entrance to the Legislative Buildings, from bottom to top. They wore gay colors and they created another picture not easily forgotten.

The excited murmurs were there too, as these youngsters waited for a real, live princess. When the appointed time came and she stepped from her car, I heard another great shout of welcome.

After the princess was escorted to a dais, these children sang with keen enthusiasm, Flag of Canada and Our Home, Our Land, Our Canada.

Here were young voices—not as many, but equally as sweet and clear—as I had heard them once before.

Looking up at the bright faces I wondered what nationalities were represented. How many different countries had given us these citizens of the future. And, although they all sang in English this time, how many tongues could they claim as theirs.

It didn't really matter for those voices blended perfectly in a great swell of sound that enveloped the princess and her party and every other person there, in warmth and love.

Suddenly, I imagined I heard that grey-haired, strong-featured man who stood beside me 10 years ago in Ottawa's Lansdowne Park, saying "It's the voice of Canada!"

And again, I was sure he was right!

3 CANADIAN VESSELS GET READY TO MOVE

HALIFAX (UPI)—Three Canadian warships are on stand-by orders for the Middle East.

The Canadian Navy supply ship HMCS Provider is fuelling up this morning and the destroyer-escort Kootenay is taking on stores preparatory to sailing to the Middle East if so required. The destroyer Saguenay, now at sea on manoeuvres will join the others for the trip east.

The ships will form part of a contingency plan to withdraw the Canadian forces with UNEF if a step-up in the evacuation becomes necessary.

TAKES 4-YEAR-OLD SON

U.S. Officer Defects, Lands Plane in Cuba

MIAMI (UPI)—An army major with domestic problems and a top security clearance became the highest United States officer ever to defect to a Communist country Wednesday when he and his four-year-old son were granted political asylum in Cuba.

The defection of Major Richard Hardwood Pearce, 36, whose ex-wife normally has custody of their son, apparently came as a shock to all who knew him.

"I never heard him say one thing detrimental toward his government or country and that's why I think this thing is more domestic than political," a friend said.

"A man certainly wouldn't take a boy four years old to Cuba unless he was trying to get back at someone," a friend said.

Pearce, a decorated veteran of the Vietnam War, was known as a "loner" by associates. An infantry advisor who served with him in Vietnam described him as "not unfriendly, but just hard to get to know."

Radio that Pearce and his son had defected ended an intensive air search that had been under way since the major and his son failed to return to Key West Sunday from a "sightseeing" trip over the Florida keys in their private plane, a Cessna 150.

Pearce picked up his sandy-haired son, Richard Jr., May 12, at the Houston, Tex., home of his former wife, who has remarried. He told her he wanted to take the boy on vacation.

"He didn't say where they were going or anything," she said.

INVESTIGATION

The army said in Washington that while Pearce had a "top secret" security clearance, "all classified documents to which he had access have been inventoried and have been accounted for." It added an investigation of the case was under way.

In announcing Pearce's defection, Havana Radio quoted him as saying:

"I have decided to leave my country in the company of my young son for reasons of conscience and I request that Cuban authorities grant me asylum or authorization to continue on to another country of my choice."

HONG KONG (AP)—Bus drivers went on strike again today at the home of the Communist Chinese leaders kept up their labor harassment of the British colony after 11 days of riots and demonstrations.

Officials said roving pro-Communist agitators intimidated operators and conductors into abandoning half of Hong Kong Island's 180 buses. Two hundred gas company workers also went on strike but service was continued by supervisors and 150 employees who refused to walk out. Reports persisted that the Communists, who touched off the series of riotous incidents after police broke up a strikers' demonstration, would disrupt water and electric services.

The government said the reports were being "maliciously circulated" by Communist elements. It repeatedly gave assurances that its Essential Services Corps would maintain public utility services if there were strikes.

Income Boost Demanded By Farmers

OTTAWA (CP)—Seemingly endless ranks of farmers, marching eight abreast and waving placards, threatened today the expansive lawns of Parliament Hill today in a massive complaint against federal agricultural policies.

Chanting, singing, shouting and cheering, they waited for Agriculture Minister Green to answer their demands for higher subsidies and better prices.

Estimates of the strength of the demonstration varied widely. One police officer guessed 10,000. But Jean Marc Krouse, organizational director for the Catholic Farmers Union, put the Quebec showing alone at 12,000 with more busloads arriving steadily.

The long procession of dairy men, many of them in well-cut suits and sports jackets, took more than an hour to pass up Wellington Street and to Parliament Hill.

MPs MILLING

Many MPs of opposition parties wore lapel cards identifying them with the protest. Creditist leader Real Caouette and some of his followers in the Commons mingled with the men, shaking hands.

The marchers were demanding quick government action to boost net income, particularly through higher subsidies and easier quotas on manufacturing milk.

Many left their farms Tuesday night and early today to travel hundreds of miles. A delegation submitted a brief to Prime Minister Pearson and several cabinet ministers in The Centre Block just before noon.

Injunction Sought

NELSON (CP)—A court hearing on an application by Cominco Ltd. for an injunction banning picketing at its Trail plants by striking electrical workers is to continue today.

UN Agrees To Discuss War Threat

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The UN Security Council decided today to take up the critical situation in the Middle East.

Despite strong statements by the Soviet Union and India opposing a council meeting at this time and expressions of reservations by France, no formal objection was raised.

The meeting was called at the request of Canada and Denmark.

Canadian Ambassador George Ignatieff said Canada is asking "that the Security Council and in particular all of its permanent members, who bear special responsibilities, add the weight of their influence collectively by asking that no member of the United Nations take any action which would worsen the situation or jeopardize the efforts of the secretary-general to preserve peace."

Ignatieff said the Security Council had the responsibility to agree on some course of action that would help Secretary-General U Thant in his efforts to preserve peace in the Middle East.

DIDN'T THINK AHEAD

Soviet Ambassador Nicolai Fedorenko said the Canadian ambassador did not take into account "the simple fact" that Thant now is in Cairo to gather "the necessary information" about the Middle East situation.

He said the council should await his report.

Fedorenko described Ignatieff's attitude as "rather ironical."

"It reminds us of an Oriental proverb. He is asked to look at the moon but he looks at his own finger."

But the Soviet ambassador said Ignatieff, together with certain other Western representatives, is "artificially dramatizing" the situation.

Arthur Goldberg, U.S. ambassador, said:

"This council would have to be burying its head in the sand if it refused to recognize the threat to peace implicit in the events that have occurred since the secretary-general left two days ago."

Goldberg said the situation had deteriorated since Thant's departure for Cairo Monday.

"It is precisely because of these events that we are meeting to consider what the Security Council ought to do in the discharge of its responsibility to further his efforts, not to impede him."

The council agreed to allow the ambassadors or Israel, the United Arab Republic and Syria to take part in the debate as parties directly concerned.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Moscow — British Foreign Secretary George Brown suggested Russia and Britain work together for re-establishment of a United Nations presence in the Middle East to replace the UN-Emergency Force which is being withdrawn.

Paris — The French government, without giving the exact procedure, called for concerted efforts by France, Britain, the United States and Russia to resolve the Middle East crisis.

Margate, England — Prime Minister Wilson said Britain will promote and support international action to uphold the right to free passage in the Gulf of Aqaba which contains Israel's outlet to the Red Sea.

Cairo — Al-Ahram, semi-official newspaper in the United Arab Republic, reported the U.A.R. has mined the Gulf of Aqaba and that Egyptian planes and torpedo boats are patrolling the entrance to the gulf and Egyptian guns are trained on the mouth of the gulf.

London — British warships in the Mediterranean were on precautionary alert including the 30,530-ton aircraft carrier Victorious, off Malta.

Cairo — UN Secretary-General U Thant talked with U.A.R. officials in an effort to ease the crisis. He had no definite appointment to meet President Nasser.

Ottawa — Prime Minister Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin told the Commons Canada seeks to replace the outgoing UN Emergency Force with some form of UN intervention. The government, charged with playing foreign policy too close to the vest, faced two non-confidence votes.

Washington — President Johnson sided with Israel, saying Egypt's threat to halt Israeli shipping is "illegal and potentially disastrous to the cause of peace."

Moscow — The Soviet government backed the Arabs, warning that "aggression" in the Middle East will "encounter not only the united strength of the Arab countries, but also resolute resistance on the part of the Soviet Union."

United Nations — The Security Council was called into emergency session today. Canada wants to put UN troops back between the Egyptians and Israelis, but some diplomats at the UN think the Soviet Union may block action by the council.

Amman — Jordan expelled the Syrian ambassador and called its diplomats home from Damascus in retaliation for a bomb explosion on the Syrian-Jordanian border.

France Seeking Big Four Meet

(Times News Services)

France and Britain, both allies of Israel in the 1956 Suez war, called today for international efforts to cool off the Middle East crisis as Egypt was reported moving on land, sea and in the air to block Israeli shipping in the Gulf of Aqaba.

At the same time, Mecca radio reported Saudi Arabia had been declared in a state of general mobilization for possible war with Israel.

France suggested a meeting of the Big Four powers to discuss joint action to keep peace in the Middle East. The wartime Big Four are Britain, the United States, Russia and France.

A cabinet spokesman said the French government is working for consultations among the four powers who have "a particular responsibility in the safeguarding of peace."

In Britain, Prime Minister Wilson told a labor union meeting his government is seeking a solution through the United Nations and is ready to join any other countries in keeping open the Gulf of Aqaba.

WARSHIPS WAIT ORDERS

British warships in the Mediterranean were put on a standby alert.

Israel has said an Egyptian blockade of the gulf, its only shipping route to the Red Sea and Indian Ocean, would mean a fight.

Lloyds, the international shipping underwriters whose intelligence service keeps track of shipping throughout the world, said it knows of no ships of any nationality heading for the gulf or preparing to leave the Israeli port of Eilat at the head of the waterway.

In Cairo, UN Secretary-General U Thant began his peace mission by conferring with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad.

Israeli's foreign minister, Abba Eban, flew toward New York, where the UN Security Council was called into session. Israeli sources said Eban would ask U.S. officials to clarify American intentions in the crisis and would remind them of previous U.S. assurances of support for Israel against Arab attack.

President Johnson said Tuesday the Gulf of Aqaba should be open to ships of all countries and declared Egypt's threatened blockade illegal.

About the same time, the Soviet government warned that it would back Arab countries in Continued on Page 3

Israel Forces Poised

TEL AVIV (CP)—Israel's newly-mobilized military forces were poised for action today after Premier Levi Eshkol warned Tuesday night that any interference with shipping in the Gulf of Aqaba would amount to an act of aggression against his country.

Speaking to the Knesset on Egypt's announcement that it would bar Israeli ships from the vital waterway, Eshkol called on the world's major sea powers to act immediately to maintain the right of free passage to Israel's port of Eilat at the head of the gulf.

He said any interference with shipping in the gulf would be "a gross violation of international law, a blow at the sovereign rights of other nations and an act of aggression against Israel."

Eshkol said Israel would cling to its right to free passage through the gulf in accordance with its 1957 announcement to the United Nations General Assembly.

Thant Hears War Chants

CAIRO (AP)—Thousands of Egyptian demonstrators shouting "we want war" massed in front of the Arab League headquarters Tuesday next to the hotel where United Nations Secretary-General U Thant was resting after his arrival from New York.

The demonstration was organized by the Arab Socialist Union, Egypt's sole political party, and included white collar workers and women employees from virtually every firm in Cairo.

Thant arrived for talks with President Nasser over the worsening Middle East situation involving the Arabs and Israel.

U.S. WILL ACT EGYPT WARNED

CAIRO (Reuters)—The United States has warned the United Arab Republic that it considers the blocking of the Gulf of Aqaba as an act of aggression and will use all measures in and out of the United Nations to counter it, according to well informed sources here.

The sources said the U.S. measures did not rule out the use of force if all other possibilities were exhausted. They added that these views were conveyed to Egyptian officials here.

U.S., Russia Go Easy In Bid to Avert War

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Associated Press Staff Writer

As Middle East leaders push the threat of war close to the point of no return, a new test of U.S.-Soviet relations is in prospect.

Both the Russians and the Americans seem to be acting with notable caution in this newest of a long succession of Arab-Israeli uprisings, suggesting neither welcomes the idea of war in the sensitive area.

Neither the Soviet government's pledge of support to the Arabs nor President Johnson's statement that Egyptian blockade of the Gulf of Aqab is "illegal and potentially dangerous" changed matters in that respect.

Both the Russians and the Americans have commitments in the Middle East which they consider important to their national interests.

But Soviet press treatment of the gathering clouds seemed to reflect much Kremlin worry. Another full-blown donnybrook in the Middle East could open the door to a return to the deep freeze of the cold war.

Pravda Monday connected the crisis with Vietnam. It claimed the United States was behind the uproar to deflect attention from its penetration of the demilitarized zone there and its bombing of Hanoi.

Pravda noted the presence of the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean in a way suggesting a warning against repetition of 1958, when the fleet landed U.S. marines in Lebanon at the height of a crisis there.

Even Moscow's announcement of support for the Arabs seemed to lack the thunder of Soviet pronouncements and threats of other crises.

When the Suez war broke late in 1956, then Premier Nikita Khrushchev threatened to send rockets against England in retaliation for the British-French attack on Egypt.

U.S.-SOVIET PRESSURE

Soviet and American interests happened to coincide then. Neither wanted a conflagration in the Middle East. Their combined pressure forced withdrawal of the British, French and Israeli forces from Egypt. Different circumstances pre-

FAMILIES RUN GAUNTLET OF JEERS, GLUE POTS

By ANTHONY GREY

PEKING (Reuters)—Two

British diplomats were kicked and smeared with glue by Red Guards in Shanghai today, a British spokesman said here.

Peter Hewitt and Raymond Whitney, both first secretaries in the office of the British charge d'affaires here, ran a gauntlet of jeering workers and Red Guards at Shanghai Airport as they were returning to Peking.

Hewitt's wife and two children also were with them. The demonstrators jeered, kicked and struck the two diplomats and daubed glue used for putting up wall posters on their clothes, the spokesman said.

Hewitt's jacket was torn in the melee.

Hewitt had been carrying out consular duties in Shanghai. He was ordered back to Peking by the Chinese government, which announced two days ago that it was closing the British office in Shanghai.

Whitney travelled to Shanghai earlier in the week after demonstrators had broken into Hewitt's house and smashed everything in it.

A protest was being prepared about today's incident, the British spokesman said.

New demonstrations erupted today in Peking in front of the British and Outer Mongolian diplomatic missions after charges that officials of both countries committed anti-Chinese atrocities.

The fresh protests outside the British office followed publication here today of a New China news agency report from Hong Kong claiming that at least 200 Chinese were killed or seriously wounded there in rioting Monday.

At the embassy of Outer Mongolia, only a few hundred yards away, several hundred demonstrators shouted slogans after the Chinese agency reported violent incidents involving Chinese in Ulan Bator.

The news agency reports said British authorities in Hong Kong sent thousands of riot police into the streets to slaughter workers and staff of Chinese organizations.

The demonstrations followed five days of quiet outside the British mission, after three days of protests last week involving more than 1,000,000 people, also against British handling of the Hong Kong riots.

OUTSPOKEN SCHOOL BOARD CHAIRMAN

Rebel Who Broke With Establishment Past

Son of a retired company director, British public school graduate, he wears a gold signet ring and drives a three-line Rover.

But he turned down a commission to volunteer as a tank regiment and went to technical school instead of university.

Greater Victoria School Board chairman Peter Bunn, 45, possibly the most outspoken figure in B.C. public life today, is a man of contradictions.

A rebel in the eyes of the establishment, he is a pragmatist thoroughly committed to change in whatever way works best.

Their Tongue

"I'm not one of the establishment," he says. "And to them, if you're not one of them, you're a rebel. But I can talk their language because of my early education."

Talking their language pays off. Under his chairmanship this year, the board, which administers 35 schools, 30,000 students and 1,035 teachers,

Steered through a $15,000,000 school referendum, the largest construction vote ever passed outside Vancouver.

Built a relationship of mutual trust and understanding between the board and the department of education, the city and municipalities.

Moved from its 19th century offices in Craigdarroch Castle into a 20th century administrative centre in the Paul Building on the Lansdowne campus grounds.

Consolidated existing teachers' resources (books, visual aids, etc.) in a central location at Craigdarroch.

Yet despite these successes, peppy Croydon-born Mr. Bunn sometimes chafes against the restrictions of office.

"The speed I would like in changing some aspects of the education system is not possible. I do have to rein back a bit."

"Eventually you have to adopt the position that while things may not be perfect, they are a bit less bad than before. If you bring the whole thing tumbling down on top of you, nobody has gained."

He misses the days when, as a trustee he could be more free-wheeling in debate than he is now as chairman.

The secret of his outspokenness is his independence. A self-employed contractor he is not tied to any group.

"If I were a doctor trustee I would always be looking over my shoulder to see what doctors thought. If a lawyer I might be worried about what other lawyers would think. I feel free to say the things that should be said."

Most often this means blasting Premier Bennett's administration.

Does So Little

"The Social Credit government does so little for people," he explains, brows furrowing over never-too-serious blue eyes.

"Education is a second-class citizen. Mr. Dam walks ahead of Mr. Education, yet there is nothing more important than education."

As for representation of the Greater Victoria district, "Never have so many MLAs done so little for their area."

"It's not fair to pinch Winnie's words, is it, but it's an absolute travesty. They couldn't care less."

He is careful, however, to exclude Oak Bay Liberal Alan Macfarlane.

"Only Alan Macfarlane shows an open-minded sincere dedication to future education needs in Greater Victoria and I'm not a Liberal," says Mr. Bunn, who gave up membership in the New Democratic Party when he became chairman because he thinks the chairman should be non-partisan.

A chief focus of controversy has been his five-year fight for a vocational school in Victoria.

"It's a sickening story. A mass of unfulfilled promises by the department of education."

Dam Policy

"There's no room in the Vancouver school. Where do people who need these facilities go? If the government can build a goddam dam they can build a vocational school."

Mr. Bunn first demonstrated his "rebel mentality" when he turned down a commission and entered the 9th Queen's Royal Lancers as a ranker.

In five years, Mr. Bunn, graduate of prep school and Brighton College, who holidayed on the continent with his family in the depth of the depression, had his outlook broadened in the university of North African and Italian campaigns.

"There, I learned the other fellow's point of view," he said.

PETER BUNN
... complex man

After the war he spent nine months skiing in Cortina and climbing in the Alps waiting to be demobbed, then shipped home to a 15-month concentrated building construction course under the soldiers' resettlement plan.

Clerk of Works

He became clerk of works in Brighton Engineering department supervising construction and maintenance of 6,000 council houses. In 1949, two years after he married the girl next door whom he had known since he was 14, he left for Canada, "browned off with the petty restrictions of post-war Britain."

"I could have gone to South Africa or New Zealand," he said.

But he came to Canada, he said, because "potentially it is the finest country in the world."

He demonstrated his attitude towards life in his new country by landing a construction job 48 hours after arrival in Victoria, despite National Employment Service warnings there were 3,400 unemployed here and "what chance did he have?"

After nine months he went into business for himself as a small contractor, specializing in the carriage trade—"good class remodeling and additions."

He is still at it, Peter Bunn Contractor. And now has three children, Jill, 15, Simon, 11, and Pauline, 7.

Very 'Umbie

"Very 'umble, isn't it," he quips.

Mr. Bunn got on the school board six years ago. He was elected chairman last year.

Despite his expertise in bricks and mortar, education means more to him than buildings.

"When I say education, and I do think it's so bloody important, I don't mean sucking up facts and regurgitating them. I mean an inquiring education, finding out, discussion, the kind of education we're moving into now, though so terribly slowly."

But buildings are important, he said. "Isn't it likely that teachers will teach better when teaching conditions improve?"

He sees the board as "the ombudsman of education" and thinks its most important achievement since he became a member has been the preparation of the Downey-Hartick report which severely criticized school administration.

Commissioned by the board and entrusted to UBC education administration specialists Lorne Downey and Walter Hartick, the report's basic findings are still causing changes in the district.

Victoria Club

"The board, because of the elections was suddenly made up of more young people with children of their own in school. They saw the Victoria School district was suffering from educational inept."

Drunk Driver Laws Set For Revision

OTTAWA (CP) — New laws against impaired driving will be included in a proposed revision of the Criminal Code this year, Justice Minister Trudeau told the Commons last week.

The government is expected to favor breath tests for drivers suspected of being intoxicated. When a certain level of alcohol content in the blood was exceeded by the driver, he would automatically be convicted of impaired driving.

Such legislation has been recommended by the Commons justice committee and the Canadian Bar Association.

Mr. Trudeau told Barry Mather (NDP—New Westminster) that his department has studied the recent unanimous report of the Commons committee and "reached certain conclusions which will be incorporated in amendments to the Criminal Code."

The code revision, the first in many years, is expected to be introduced next fall.

Everybody had gone to Victoria Normal School. It was almost a club. Something was radically wrong so we brought in the report," said Mr. Bunn.

Explaining the board's ombudsman function, he said, "I think it's important the school be given back to the people. Professional educators often tend to gather schools up and hold them to their bosoms. The greatest possible use should be made of the facilities by the citizenry at large."

"Whenever a responsible group wants a school facility, it's important they should have it."

"When I was chairman of buildings and grounds the board began the policy of making facilities available to the public through commissions at a nominal break-even rent."

Next September, he said, a pilot project will be launched which will open the libraries of two or three junior high schools after school hours.

Busy Schedule

The trustee's job is still considered a spare-time effort. Yet the last local levy cost Mr. Bunn 100 hours of his spare time over a four-week period. As a trustee he gets $2,000 a year, a large chunk of which is taken in taxes.

Guy Stanley Talks to PETER BUNN

An average week of board business goes like this:

Monday—dinner with Victoria High students, followed by a school board meeting until 11:20 p.m.

Tuesday—make a TV tape with newsman at 9:45 a.m. Meeting with deputy minister of education at 11 a.m.; 8 p.m. speak at Willows PTA.

Wednesday—meet with Victoria Labor Council.

Thursday—5:15 p.m. open tenders for Christie Point elementary and junior high school building, followed by a meeting with municipal board.

Friday—8 p.m. meeting, followed by a visit to the drama festival.

"I think it's important that, if you have anything on the ball at all, you should have a go at some kind of public service," he explained, "whether it's helping out with a cancer drive or as a school trustee."

But English upper-class attitudes to public service apart, Mr. Bunn is very much a public man, and enjoys his public life tremendously.

Worried About War

He is concerned about the war in Vietnam and has played a quiet part in some of the local rallies.

"I find myself ashamed of the federal government being prepared to let big business make money out of the war in Vietnam. If not immoral, it is amoral."

But he is worried that with what he calls "the quiet McCarthyism in Canada at the moment," to participate too openly would mean that "very quickly I wouldn't be acceptable as chairman of the school board."

Mr. Bunn considers himself an establishment product now divorced from the establishment.

During his post-war course he took the 5 a.m. workers' train every day from Brighton to the Croydon hangar where it was given. He went home again about 7 p.m. on the regular train.

"I would travel third class wearing faded battle dress," he said.

Occasionally he would see old school friends getting off the first-class cars. "They would be embarrassed to speak to me," he said.

When he holidayed in England three years ago he never bothered to look them up.

"We have nothing in common anymore," he said.

Varied Punishment Makes Men Bitter

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mary Lynch of Saint John, N.B., the national parole board's only woman member, said Tuesday night there is too much variation in sentences handed out by Canada's judges and magistrates.

Miss Lynch, who practised law from 1933 to 1960 when she was appointed to the parole board, said in an interview "the disparity has a very bad effect on prisoners."

"It makes them very bitter." She said the bitterness makes the parole job more difficult and the offender less likely to reform.

For example, she said, she knows of two rapists in adjoining cells in an eastern prison. The first was serving two years for what she considered a far worse offence than the second, whose sentence was 10 years and 10 lashes.

Miss Lynch is here on a three-day tour of British Columbia prisons.

Arthur Mayse

Last Sunday, we drove out to the thriving Cowichan Valley Forest Museum a mile north of Duncan for a reunion with two friends.

One is retired logging operator Jerry Wellburn, to whose labors the museum owes its existence. The other is a brawny, chunky, logging locomotive which we last saw three years ago, as it came down Drinkwater Road on a flatbed truck.

In spite of the maple bough that had twined rakishly around its hornet's nest, the "One-spot" Shay from the Hillier at logging claim looked pretty forlorn. Its life, to all practical purposes, seemed over: the trucks had taken its log-hauling job away, and all that remained for it was a lifeless existence as an exhibit.

Mr. Wellburn waved that notion aside. "Next time you come out here," he told us, "she'll be on the rails, and you two can ride her."

There are more machines now, including other salvaged locos donated by companies interested in helping preserve a tangible record of our lumbering past.

The tract has been expanded to 23 acres, and a fine log-built hall houses lesser displays.

What Jerry Wellburn started alone has become a community attraction sponsored and assured of permanence by Cowichan Valley Forest Museum Society.

The founder-director is as he was on that earlier meeting: lean, vigorous as a young man at 67, and if anything, more enthusiastic about the project than when we first met him.

"I think I've seen more people happy and laughing in the last three years than in all the rest of my life," he said while we strolled across to North Cowichan Station, one of the two on the museum's Cowichan Valley Railway line.

The loco took us through steam-locomotive cut loose with two whistle-blasts. They were sonorous yet mellow; a sound to delight the heart. The rails began to sing; and around the bend came a brawny locomotive proud in fresh paint and polished metal, blue-black smoke jutting from her stack.

Behind her were two carloads of holiday kids and grownups, plainly enchanted by their trip.

"Recognize her?" Jerry asked.

So we got our ride, up in the One-Spot Shay's cab with engineer Elmer Blackstaff at the controls; and I wouldn't ask for a better.

Down by Somenos Lake, a tall green woods, preserved as part of the setting for a return to the logging past. With another sonorous whistle salute, it pulled its train across a lake inlet on a log trestle.

It steamed serenely, 21 functional tons of hauling power beautifully balanced on its wheels. The old Shay will never head a log-train again; but it forms part of a wonderland without which this Island would be poorer.

In 1966, something over 28,000 tourists visited the forest museum—a name which Jerry Wellburn would like to exchange for one with no connotation of hushed halls and glass show-cases. This year, he is prepared for a much larger influx.

We roved for an hour or so, then returned to a station complete with ancient phone and telegrapher's "bug." There, another visitor with a feeling for steam locomotives was climbing into the Shay's cab.

His name is Peter Allen. He is chairman of Canadian Industries Limited, and he had been lured to the railway by a magazine mention seen months before in the East.

CIL's president reached for the bell-cord.

"Not yet," said engineer Blackstaff.

Old Favorites, New Hopefuls Set for Classic

The greatest fleet in Victoria's history will begin massing in the Inner Harbor on Friday as yachts from the Pacific Northwest gather for this year's Swiftsure and Juan de Fuca races.

Sid Bryant, general chairman for the races, said today 120 yachts had been entered and more entries are expected before the final cut-off.

Many old favorites will be back to compete in the most challenging race of the Pacific Northwest.

Among them will be the two yachts that gave spectators the thrill of a lifetime last year when they barreled over the finish line within inches of each other.

Royal Vancouver Yacht Club's John H. Long will be skippering the 49-foot sloop Mary Bower while Henry L. Cotkins, Seattle Yacht Club, will be at the helm of the 73-foot yawl Diamond Head.

MARUFFA BACK

Another Seattle favorite to be returning will be Maruffa. The 67-foot yawl will be skippered by SYC's John Graham.

Many new boats will be there to challenge champions of other years. One of the most spectacular of them will be Mir, a 78-foot ketch skippered by George O'Brien of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club.

Both races will start off Brothie Ledge on Saturday morning. Swiftsure contestants getting the gun at 9:30 and the Juan de Fuca competitors, 9:45 a.m.

The finish will be a line between the outer wharf breakwater and McLoughlin Point.

JOINT PATROL

The two classics will see international co-operation at its finest as Canadian and American boats combine forces to patrol the course and ensure safety conditions for yachts and crews.

HMCS Beacon Hill, commanded by Lt.-Cmdr. S. C. Gould, will be senior guard vessel and HMCS Cowichan, under the command of Lieut. J. D. Buchan, will assist and act as marker for the Swiftsure turning point. This will be where the old Swiftsure Lightship once kept her station and halfway in the 136-mile course.

The United States coast guard cutter, Cape Henlopen, will help patrol and act as marker when Juan de Fuca competitors round her at Clallam Bay before heading back into the Strait of Juan de Fuca on the last half of their 73-mile sail-out.

PLANES STAND BY

The RCMP's motor vessel Victoria and the Canadian coast guard cutter Ready will form part of the patrol fleet. American and Canadian air and sea rescue planes will be at the stand-by.

As in other years, Island Tug and Barge Limited will provide

Bedside Sitting Of Court Orders Further Remand

Sooke Magistrate Eugene Murphy convened his court in Royal Jubilee Hospital Tuesday afternoon to order a remand in a murder case.

James Frederick Redlin, 37, of Coombs, is charged with capital murder following the shooting death May 9 of Mrs. Lavina Maude Nicholson, 55, of Sooke.

Redlin was taken to hospital with injuries to his head that day and has been there since.

He was remanded in absentia May 9 for one week and again on May 16.

On Tuesday the magistrate decided further remands should be made in the presence of the accused and moved his court to hospital.

Hospital officials said today Redlin's condition is satisfactory.

'Stump' Moved, Breathed Heavily Like a Horse

Caddy may be an elephant ... of sorts.

An elephant that breathes like a horse and is the color of a cinnamon bear.

Pretty monstrous when you come upon him (her?) while cruising island waters.

But worthwhile, according to city yachtsman Dick James who thinks he's solved the mystery of the local sea monster, Cadborosaurus.

Mr. James' "Caddy" is actually a sea elephant, he found out from Dr. Clifford Carl, director of the Provincial Museum.

The yachtsman is convinced

the sporadic sightings of Caddy are really sea elephants.

Mr. James, commodore of the Turkey Head Sailing Association, spotted the creature over the weekend while sailing his 42-foot sloop Lalanga II off Turn Point on Stuart Island.

He heard a noise "much like a horse breathing heavily."

He and his wife, Ruth, turned around and saw what they thought was a large brown stump in the water.

They steered toward it and when within 20 feet the "stump" moved and made sounds ... like a horse.

"It was about 17 or 18 feet long and the color of a cinnamon bear. The huge nostrils were big enough to put a man's fist in and it had a bump on its head about six inches high. The neck was at least eight inches," said Mr. James.

Both Mr. and Mrs. James are "shutter bugs". While Ruth James took the helm, her husband dashed below to get his camera. By the time he was ready to take a picture ... you guessed it ... the creature had decided to take a dive.

So, although the James' are convinced they've solved one of our sea's mysteries those who believe in Caddy can still hold on to their illusions.

After all, more than 30 years of legend among Victoria's sea-watchers can't be lightly dismissed.

Six Cadets Injured When Car Hits Water

20-Foot Plunge On North Pender

A high tide probably saved the lives of six Royal Roads cadets when their car plunged 20 feet down a cliff on North Pender Island Tuesday night.

Their car landed in five feet of water which cushioned the impact.

At low tide they would have smashed into jagged rocks, RCMP said.

Two of the cadets were being transferred to Canadian Forces Base hospital at Esquimalt today.

Air force cadet Gordon E. Sharpe, 19, has a broken leg and back injuries, while A/F cadet Terry B. Rogers, 18, is suffering cuts and abrasions.

FOUR RELEASED

The other four were released after treatment at Lady Minto Hospital, Ganges.

They are: Peter Van Haastrecht, 21, the driver; Larry Riegert, 22; Frederick James, 22, and William Card, 20.

They were among 31 Royal Roads cadets on a five-day survival course across on North Pender.

RCMP said they were driving along the lonely road when the car apparently went out of control and failed to negotiate a bend.

INTO HOPE BAY

The car took off and splashed into the waters of Hope Bay.

Two youngsters who witnessed the accident ran for help.

But by the time rescuers arrived the cadets had managed to escape from the half-submerged vehicle.

Soaked and suffering shock, they were taken across to the hospital on Salt Spring Island by a fisheries patrol vessel.

The car was owned by Capt. Larry Creig of Victoria, believed to be one of the officers in charge of the survival course "Operation Northbound."

It was extensively damaged.

JUDY TASSELL
... remembered lessons

Esquimalt Teen-ager Saved Youth

An Esquimalt girl's swimming lessons four years ago saved the life of a Ladysmith youth at the weekend.

Sixteen-year-old Judy Tassell, of 394 Lampon, was identified today as the young girl who brought David Evans, 13, back to life on Sunday.

David had stopped breathing and his heart was not beating after being under water five minutes at Fullers Lake, Chemunus.

As he was pulled from the water Judy remembered what she'd been taught at swimming classes at Royal Roads.

MOUTH-TO-MOUTH

Without hesitating, she began giving mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. "He wasn't breathing at all," she said today during a break from Grade 11 class at Esquimalt High School.

"I plugged his nose and started breathing into his mouth. After a while water began to run out of his mouth and he started breathing."

"I don't remember how long I kept it up but it must have been 15 to 20 minutes."

"His heart was beating again by the time an ambulance arrived with breathing equipment."

David is in fair condition in hospital today.

Said David's mother: "She was a real heroine. David owes his life to her. I'd like to thank her personally."

PAIR BUILD BOAT FOR SWIFTSURE TEST

They'd Never But They Have Now

By PAT DUFOUR

A couple of do-it-yourselfers have set their sights on competing in this year's Swiftsure.

When Glen and Ralph Higgins set out from Brothie Ledge in their 37-foot sloop, Sea Smoke, the brothers will be realizing a dream that began when they bought a plug from local marine architect, Ray Richards, designer of the Warrior and Haida boats.

The Warrior plug (a wooden mold from which a mold for fiberglass boats is made) put the enthusiastic brothers in the boat-building business.

The British America Oil Company loaned them a vacant lot at the corner of Fairfield and St. Charles and they finished the deck with celastin, a water-proof coating that provides a non-skidding surface.

Then came the task of making the tall wooden mast and boom.

Sir Thomas Lipton, the millionaire yachtsman, couldn't have been more proud that the Higgins brothers when on the Easter weekend of 1966 Sea Smoke first wetted her waterline off Ogden Point.

Determined to keep their yacht in the Victoria-built category, Glen and Ralph went to Dick James, the local sailmaker, for Sea Smoke's suit of sails.

Although a comparative infant in sailing years, Sea Smoke has already won her racing spurs.

FIRST PLACE

In the winter series of the Turkey Head Sailing Association held at Oak Bay, Sea Smoke persistently showed her transom to the rest of the competitors, winning first place and the Oak Bay Marine Trophy for her delighted owners.

Capt. Peter de Cunha has been chosen by the co-skippers to be Sea Smoke's navigator in the Swiftsure.

Rounding out the crew will be Duncan Macphail, Louie Lindholm and Dave Rainsford.

Most of the yachts that battle for supremacy in Swiftsure have cost their skippers a king's ransom to acquire. Sea Smoke was kinder. Easier on the pocketbook, she set for 18 months, neighbors and passers-by were treated to the sight of a boat being breathed into existence.

Ralph, although he'd sailed for 20 years and once was a member of the Britannia Yacht Club in Ottawa, had never built a boat.

His brother was just as uninitiated. But, with the boat-building fever upon them, and with the technical advice and help of many local firms, Sea Smoke began to come alive slowly and laboriously.

The chores seemed endless. There were supporting ribs to be taken out, to be replaced later with oak ribs that the brothers steamed into shape. Four laminations of fibreglas were applied to both the inside and outside of the hull. There was the inside of the mahogany cabin to finish.

The brothers felt like David taking a ping at Goliath when it came time to add the 6,000-pound lead keel that was built for them by Vancouver Island Brass. It meant hoisting Sea Smoke by crane, upside down, and restoring her to the usual position once the job was completed.

'PUBLIC CONFUSED'

Campbell Needles Local Governments

Municipalities complaining about taxation and the distribution of funds should set their own houses in order.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell told the 28th conference of British Columbia Municipal Officers this morning much needs to be done at the local government level.

"For a start you should go home from this conference and devise a tax bill the ordinary man can understand," he said. "I got my tax bill a few days ago (Mr. Campbell resides in Oak Bay) and I must confess that it is almost impossible from it to find out just where the tax dollar goes."

"The public generally must be hopelessly confused at times," Mr. Campbell said that by

SEDCO Trials Under Way Off Albert Head

Deep water trials of the SEDCO 135-F offshore drilling vessel began today in 21 fathoms off Albert Head.

The $10 million vessel built by Victoria Machinery Depot for South eastern Commonwealth Drilling Co. likely will leave for the west coast of Vancouver Island next week to carry out offshore petroleum exploration by Shell Canada Ltd.

VMD president Harold Husband said shipbuilder's trials are expected to conclude by the weekend and the takeover by SEDCO will take place on the site of sea trials.

The vessel was assisted in laying anchors Tuesday by Island Tug and Barge Ltd.'s Sudbury II and smaller tugs which had a little difficulty holding the rig in a strong tide and brisk wind.

breaking down his tax bill he discovered that schools were costing him $246 a year.

"Take the homeowner grant away from that and it means that I am sending four children to school for $10 a month," he said. "I think that's a pretty tremendous bargain. I'll go down to the liquor store and spend more than that in a week."

Mr. Campbell said that with the homeowner grant applied to school costs there were many people in the province who actually paid nothing towards schools.

30,000 DON'T PAY

"In Vancouver alone there are more than 30,000 who don't pay a penny in school taxes," he said. "And I'll bet there are 30,000 people in Vancouver who don't realize that."

Mr. Campbell said he agreed that municipal financing should be reviewed in B.C. but stressed that the start should be made with explanations at the municipal level.

Following his speech he was asked if in fact that he advocated a major overhaul of municipal financing.

"I have said many times that municipal financing is under constant review," he said. "We are always studying it and always will."

He did not comment on the special study soon to be instituted by the Union of British Columbia Municipalities.

Mildly critical of school boards, Mr. Campbell said they did a poor job of selling their product.

"As soon as they get a bylaw out of the way they leave the explaining to you," he said. "They make no attempt to sell their product, neither do many municipalities."

Local Yard Sells 'Belle' In Bid to Improve Profits

By AB KENT
Business Editor

The former Victoria-based E. C. Warner Investments Ltd. is expanding its interests to Harbor Ferries Ltd. of Vancouver.

President Ernie Warren, in a humorous letter to his "pals, shareholders and friends" of the four-firm group tells of plans to sell the Yukon Belle sightseeing boat to Harbor Ferries.

Yukon Belle and Yukon Queen were made to take tourists around Victoria's Inner Harbor by McKay-Cormack Holdings Ltd. for its 95-per-cent owned Yukon Queen Tours Ltd.

McKay-Cormack shipyard this year reported itself in a difficult position, blaming labor troubles and unprofitable contracts.

The sale of one sightseeing vessel to Harbor Ferries Ltd. may be a step further out of difficulties.

In any case Mr. Warner expresses regret that the firm "will not be able to produce the financial statement you deserve, but we have had a thorough reorganization and I am determined to put this company on the same plateau as the other companies with which I am associated."

McKay-Cormack is refitting the vessel Cordova and three other ships owned by Harbor Ferries, and the former will be sold or chartered to the Vancouver firm.

Mr. Warner reports the possibility of further diversification so that the shipyard will not be subject to the ups and downs of shipbuilding.

He also apologizes for a drop in profits by Growers' Wine Co.

Ltd., controlled by Imperial Tobacco, which he said is reorganizing the winery as a national company.

Warner Investments is now Vancouver-based and lists its interests as Growers', A-1 Steel and Iron Foundry, McKay-Cormack Ltd., and E. C. Warner Investments Ltd.

Directors Monty Ross and Neville Goss resigned due to the shift in locale and have been replaced by Ben Williams, of C. M. Oliver and Co. Ltd., and M. Oliver and Co. Ltd., and John Bruk, of the legal firm, Lawrence, Shaw, Stewart and McLaughlin.

The Maclean-Hunter Research Bureau reports an upswing in consumer buying intentions for 1967, following a year of decline.

Based on 996 personal interviews across the country, a periodic survey conducted by the bureau shows that although Canadians have felt a buying pinch through higher prices and taxes, plus tighter credit, there is expectation that things will get better in the next six months.

Plans to buy a car are up from 8.5 per cent to 9.1 per cent in the 12-month period, but are off 2.1 per cent from the last quarter. Nearly 43 per cent will go for a new car, up nearly 6 per cent.

EXPO-BOUND

Fewer persons think now is a good time to buy a house, compared with a year ago, but vacation plans are still high, especially those covering Expo.

Of the B.C. people asked, 55.8 per cent want to go to Quebec, second only to Ontario's 56.2 per cent.

But at the same time fewer persons are interested in a European trip this year.

Compared with the last quarter, the over-all index for B.C. shows the greatest increase.

Cost of living in Canada went up 1.3 points during April, the biggest jump in the cost of health and personal care, according to the Bureau of Economics and Statistics.

For April the consumer price index was 147.8 compared with 146.5 for March.

U.S. HOLDS KEY

However, all of the Northern Ontario projects hinge on a decision by the U.S. Federal Power Commission on Trans-Canada's bid for a new line through the U.S. which would carry gas from Winnipeg to Sault Ste. Marie.

Trans-Canada contends the U.S. route, which already has Canadian government blessing, is the cheapest and more efficient way of increasing gas supply in the east.

The FPC decision is expected early in June. If it rejects the Trans-Canada plan, the Northern Ontario route will have to be developed immediately to meet the rapidly-growing demand for gas in the east.

Kaiser Buys Texada In New Midepsa Deal

MONTREAL (CP)—Shareholders of Midepsa Industries Ltd. are to vote today on a projected $100 million agreement involving Kaiser Aluminum to exploit mineral deposits in the Secura Desert of northern Peru.

The shareholders will be asked by their company to ratify an agreement which sets out the conditions under which Kaiser will participate in the development project.

The agreement modifies conditions of an existing agreement between Midepsa and Texada Mines Ltd. and paves the way for the purchase of Texada by Kaiser.

Midepsa, a Montreal-based company, owns a 93-per-cent interest in Minerals Industries, del Peru. In 1963 Minerals turned over its rights on about 2,000,000 acres in the Secura Desert to a new company owned 60 per cent by Texada and 40 per cent by Midepsa.

Under the proposed agreement, Kaiser would acquire an 80-per-cent interest in the Secura deposits of phosphate and potash brine which, a Midepsa spokesman said, are believed to be among the largest in the world.

Midepsa would retain a 20-per-cent interest in the deposit and, in addition, would acquire a 20-per-cent interest in the sales and distribution company set up to market the Secura products.

GET KAISER STOCK

Midepsa also would receive 10,000 shares of Kaiser stock and about 487,000 shares of Midepsa now held by Texada would be surrendered and cancelled.

Under the proposed agreement, Kaiser would begin the production of phosphates in commercial quantities at Secura by Nov. 1, 1969, and each full production by 1971.

Production would be about 2,000,000 tons of phosphates annually at the start.

New Proposals To 'Twin' Line

OTTAWA (CP)—A surprise plan that could involve a new natural gas pipeline across Northern Ontario emerged Tuesday when the National Energy Board was about to open hearings on an application to twin the current 30-inch line.

N. John McNeill of Toronto, a senior vice-president of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., asked the board for a two-week adjournment to let Trans-Canada and the three big gas distribution companies that are its major customers work out agreement on a revised project. Several alternatives to twinning are already being talked about.

After nearly nine hours of discussion, Board Chairman I. N. McKinnon announced an adjournment of the hearing until Wednesday, May 31, when Trans-Canada will be asked to report on the progress it has made towards resolving the issue with its distributors.

GAS SUPPLIES SHORT

A recurring theme in the discussion was the shortage of natural gas supplies in Ontario and Quebec expected in the delivery year starting next Nov. 1.

Demand is expected to exceed supply by at least 33,000,000 cubic feet, about 10 per cent of this year's consumption.

One of Trans-Canada's "big three" customers, Northern and Central Gas Co., already has

Terrors Just A Myth

MONTREAL (CP)—The terrors automation holds for many people are the result of confusion and misunderstanding.

Pierre Delegrave, vice-president in charge of employee and public relation at Domtar Ltd., said Tuesday.

He told a conference of the Canadian Vocational Association that "the bogey of automation has to be killed. Automation never was the villain some claimed it was."

"Our sophisticated new machines create jobs, not wealth. They increase productivity and generate economic growth. The added wealth creates the new jobs, either in the production of new goods or in the provision of additional services demanded by those into whose hands the new wealth comes."

Problems created by progress today were not essentially different from the problems created by the early textile machinery of 150 years ago.

"The difference in our situation today from that of past eras of technological advance is that things have speeded up."

"Until now, it was at least theoretically possible to train or retrain a worker for a job and forget about him. Now, retraining him for a job is not enough. He must be trained for constant change."

Vocational training should impart, in addition to a basic skill "the attitudes that will enable the worker to switch jobs again and again as technology races ahead."

"You don't teach jobs; you teach adaptability."

Channelling, Diking Proposed

Diversion Plan 'Uneconomical'

LAKE COWICHAN — It is uneconomical to attempt flood control in this district by diverting the water from Cowichan Lake to the Nitinat River.

Jack Webster, a hydraulics engineer of the provincial lands department, explained this to a Chamber of Commerce group Tuesday.

He said a diversion at the head of the lake to Nitinat would cost $5,800,000.

Mr. Webster recommended as an alternative a system of channel improvements and diking along the full extent of the Cowichan and Koksilah Rivers and Somenos Creek.

This project would include lowering of the level of Cowichan Lake by six feet and installation of a new control structure.

Mr. Webster was a member of a department team which has just completed a feasibility study in the area.

He said his channel improvement plan would benefit North Cowichan, Duncan and unorganized areas as well as the village of Lake Cowichan.

It would also curb flooding on the Indian reserve which makes up 60 per cent of the land area in the Cowichan-Koksilah delta.

Mr. Webster said the plan, if implemented, would add $50 an acre to the value of Indian reserve farm land.

He broke the cost down into four main brackets—diking of the Cowichan River $970,000; Koksilah River $302,875; Somenos Creek $43,175, and the Lake Cowichan area $500,000.

Mr. Webster said such an undertaking would be financed by the provincial and federal governments and local authorities.

WHOLE FAMILY INJURED

Girl, 5, Killed When Car Plunges Over Embankment

PORT ALBERNI—A young girl died and her brother was injured Tuesday when the car driven by their mother plunged down an embankment on the shores of Cameron Lake.

Four-year-old Glen Bates, of 216 2nd Avenue North, Port Alberni, was in satisfactory condition in hospital here today.

His sister, Kathleen, 5, was dead on arrival.

Their mother, Mrs. Leslie Philip, and step-father Raymond Philip, were both released after treatment for cuts and bruises.

DRIVING TO WORK

The accident happened at 3:15 p.m. as Mrs. Philip was driving her husband to work at Crofton. Both children were in the back seat, according to RCMP.

Eight miles west of Port Alberni the car went out of control and swerved over an embankment, crashing to the shore of Cameron Lake 10 feet below.

Police were still uncertain today how the accident was caused. No other vehicle was involved.

An inquest was to open here today.

JURY BLAMES INEXPERIENCE IN FATALITY

NANAIMO—A Port Alberni youth's lack of driving experience was blamed Tuesday for the death of Anna Dalia Charlie, April 23.

Mrs. Charlie died when the car driven by a relative, Francis Charlie, 19, left the highway north of here and crashed into a ditch.

A coroner's jury decided the accident was caused when the wheels of the car caught in the gravel at the side of the road. Charlie had been driving only four months and was on his second learner's licence.

NO PICKETTING DURING TALKS

VANCOUVER—An injunction application to prevent picketing at Western Mines near Campbell River was adjourned Tuesday pending talks between the company and union.

The adjournment was granted on the understanding there will be no picketing during this period. The hearing can be resumed on two days notice from the union.

Judge Kirke Smith said in B.C. Supreme Court the adjournment has the same effect as an injunction and any breach will constitute contempt of court.

Members of Local 1039 of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union walked out last Thursday and began picketing. They were later fired.

The 120 men sought a 25-cent hourly wage increase which the company refused because the current agreement runs to 1969.

REPUTATION
Union lawyer Sidney Simons told the court the men feel the agreement was repudiated by the company because the promised townsite and recreational facilities have not been provided.

Mine manager Charles Campbell said the company has a commitment to have 3,000 tons of copper concentrate at Campbell River dock by June 5. Judge Smith said the company's failure to provide housing doesn't entitle the union to take illegal action.

DASH OF COLOR was seen at S. J. Willis School Tuesday when members of the Kuper Island Band visited the school and lunched with students. Chatting with Beth Knowles, 15, and Karen Turner, 15, are Michael Horne, 14; William James, band leader, 15, and Clyde Jack, 16.

Contempt Proceedings Adjourned

NANAIMO (CP)—Contempt of court proceedings against three officers of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union were adjourned Tuesday until June 15.

At the same time, Mr. Justice Thomas A. Dhom issued a second order against the three unions involved and directed it should also be heard on June 15.

Both sets of proceedings order union president Steve Stavens, secretary Homer Stevens and business agent Jack Nichol to show cause why they should not be cited for contempt of court.

The adjournment resulted from an appeal notice against the original order. The appeal hearing has been set for June 7 in Vancouver.

PRESS RELEASES

The first order refers to alleged press releases by the UFAWU in March saying the union had ordered a membership vote to determine whether a telegram should be sent to its shoreworkers in Prince Rupert ordering them to unload five trawlers.

Earlier a Supreme Court injunction referring to the telegram had been issued by Judge Kirke Smith.

The second order relates to a press release by the union May 4, containing comments said to have been made by Vancouver and District Labor Council secretary Paddy Neale.

Band Serenades Students, Lunches With Fund Workers

Little Tommy Tucker sang for his supper: Kuper Island Indian Band played for its lunch.

On Tuesday 13 members of the band and director Brother DuFor visited S. J. Willis School, toured classrooms and workshops and played a concert for 600 students before joining the school's band fund drill team for lunch.

S. J. Willis students are spearheading a drive for funds to send the drum and fife band to Expo. The trip was planned some time ago, then fell through when it was found there would be no official backing.

Students, hearing of the band's plight, decided to help. The Students' Council gave $50. The Times gave another $200 and set up collection centres at the Times office and at the Bank of Nova Scotia at Yates and Douglas. Mayor Hugh Stephen gave another $100.

Today another $72 had been collected at the school, which will also accept donations, and plans are afoot for further fund-raising projects.

The Indian band marched in the Victoria Day parade, preceded by a drill team from S. J. Willis, formed and rehearsed only a few days before the parade.

It is estimated that it will take $10,000 to send the band to Expo.

Joint Production Cancelled

DUNCAN — A co-operative summer venture by Duncan Music and Drama Clubs has been cancelled.

John Sanders, president, said Tuesday the music club could not get the personnel to cast a production of the one-act Gilbert and Sullivan operetta "Trial by Jury."

He said: "We feel we are letting the drama club down but there is no way around it."

The operetta had been in rehearsal and Cowichan High School auditorium booked for the run but the club found it impossible to find someone to play the bass lead.

Peter Josselyn was to be director.

ERIC LONG
... the happy harbor-master

Kayaks to Giant Carriers
... He Shepherds Them All

By DON DINGWALL
CROFTON — Being harbor-master at Crofton is no longer in the same class as being an admiral in the Swiss navy.

At one time Eric Long's chief concern was with the safety of dinghies, kayaks and cabin cruisers.

Today his responsibility extends to the giant pulp and lumber carriers which use the port — an average of 20 a month.

And Eric Long loves it. Ashore and afloat he has been associated with the merchant marine all his life.

For 13 years prior to 1941 he was in the Far East as chief officer afloat and superintendent ashore for the British firm of Butterfield & Swire.

The Japanese had virtually assumed control of the international port of Shanghai when the Long family left. They escaped internment only because the company insisted on Mr. Long taking his overdue vacation because he was holding up a long line of reliefs.

The holiday was spent in Canada and Mr. Long was charmed by Victoria after the filth, squalor and poverty of China.

His luckiest decision was not to follow through after booking passage back to the Orient in a Japanese ship... on the eve of Pearl Harbor. A pre-empted and commissioned in the merchant navy as a navigating officer, Mr. Long volunteered to get back on the bridge.

He had eye trouble and his protests that Nelson managed pretty well with one eye were of no avail against arguments of RCN doctors.

He wound up in the air force, in the intelligence service.

His knowledge of the Far East was used in lectures to coastal command aircrews. He was appointed harbor-master at Crofton in 1947.

Mr. Long likens harbors to highways with rules of the road to be observed.

Crofton harbor traffic today ranges from dinghies to the supercargo carrying freighters.

Mr. Long is a Londoner who apprenticed with the Blue Funnel Line of which his father was captain-commodore.

He was a junior officer with a French line before switching to Butterfield & Swire. During his years at sea, Mr. Long was always grateful for the worldwide services of the Mission to Seamen.

At Crofton Mr. Long, a licensed lay reader of the Anglican Church, is the mission's representative.

His last word was an appeal for books and magazines for the mission.

"It doesn't matter what language, we get everyone from Germans to Turks," said Mr. Long.

TAKES 4-YEAR-OLD SON

U.S. Officer Defects, Lands Plane in Cuba

MIAMI (UPI)—An army major with domestic problems and a top security clearance became the highest United States officer ever to defect to a Communist country Wednesday when he and his four-year-old son were granted political asylum in Cuba.

The defection of Major Richard Hardwood Pearce, 36, whose ex-wife normally has custody of their son, apparently came as a shock to all who knew him.

"I never heard him say one thing detrimental toward his government or country and that's why I think this thing is more domestic than political," a friend said.

"A man certainly wouldn't take a boy four years old to Cuba unless he was trying to get back at someone."

Pearce, a decorated veteran of the Vietnam War, was known as a "loner" by associates. An infantry advisor who served with him in Vietnam described him as "not unfriendly, but just hard to get to know."

decorated.

The army said in Washington that while Pearce had a "top secret" security clearance, all classified documents to which he had access have been inventoried and have been accounted for. It added an investigation of the case was under way.

In announcing Pearce's defection, Havana Radio quoted him as saying:

"I have decided to leave my country in the company of my young son for reasons of conscience and I request that Cuban authorities grant me asylum or authorization to continue on to another country of my choice."

The disclosure by Havana Radio that Pearce and his son had defected ended an intensive air search that had been under way since the major and his son failed to return to Key West Sunday from a "sightseeing" trip over the Florida keys in their private plane, a Cessna 150.

Pearce picked up his sandy-haired son, Richard Jr., May 12, at the Houston, Tex., home of his former wife, who has remarried. He told her he wanted to take the boy on vacation.

Drivers Intimidated
Into Leaving Buses

HONG KONG (AP)—Bus drivers went on strike again today at the homebound rush hour as pro-Communist Chinese leaders kept up their labor harassment of the British colony after 11 days of riots and demonstrations.

Officials said roving pro-Communist agitators intimidated operators and conductors into abandoning half of Hong Kong Island's 180 buses. Two hundred gas company workers also went on strike but service was continued by supervisors and 150 employees who refused to walk out.

Reports persisted that the Communists, who touched off the series of riotous incidents after police broke up a strikers' demonstration, would disrupt water and electric services.

The government said the reports were being "maliciously circulated" by Communist elements. It repeatedly gave assurances that its Essential Services Corps would maintain public utility services if there were strikes.

FAMILIES RUN GAUNTLET OF JEERS, GLUE POTS

Diplomats Kicked by Guards

By ANTHONY GREY
PEKING (Reuters)—Two British diplomats were kicked and smeared with glue by Red Guards in Shanghai today, a British spokesman said here.

Peter Hewitt and Raymond Whitney, both first secretaries in the office of the British charge d'affaires here, ran a gauntlet of jeering workers and Red Guards at Shanghai Airport as they were returning to Peking.

Hewitt's wife and two children also were with them.

The demonstrators jostled, kicked and struck the two diplomats and daubed glue used for putting up wall posters on their clothes, the spokesman said.

Hewitt's jacket was torn in the melee.

Hewitt had been carrying out consular duties in Shanghai. He was ordered back to Peking by the Chinese government, which announced two days ago that it was closing the British office in Shanghai.

Whitney travelled to Shanghai earlier in the week after demonstrators had broken into Hewitt's house and smashed everything in it.

A protest was being prepared about today's incident, the British spokesman said.

New demonstrations erupted today in Peking in front of the British and Outer Mongolian diplomatic missions after charges that officials of both countries committed anti-Chinese atrocities.

The fresh protests outside the British office followed publication here today of a New China news agency report from Hong Kong claiming that at least 200 Chinese were killed or seriously wounded there in rioting Monday.

At the embassy of Outer Mongolia, only a few hundred yards away, several hundred demonstrators shouted slogans after the Chinese agency reported violent incidents involving Chinese in Ulan Bator.

The news agency reports said British authorities in Hong Kong sent thousands of riot police into the streets to slaughter workers and staff of Chinese organizations.

The demonstrations followed five days of quiet outside the British mission, after three days of protests last week involving more than 1,000,000 people, also against British handling of the Hong Kong riots.

War Threat

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The UN Security Council decided without a vote today to take up the critical situation in the Middle East.

Despite strong statements by the Soviet Union and India opposing a council meeting at this time and expressions of reservations by France, no formal objection was raised.

The meeting was called at the request of Canada and Denmark.

Canadian Ambassador George Ignatieff said Canada is asking "that the Security Council and in particular all of its permanent members, who bear special responsibilities, add the weight of their influence collectively by asking that no member of the United Nations take any action which would worsen the situation or jeopardize the efforts of the secretary-general to preserve peace."

Ignatieff said the Security Council had the responsibility to agree on some course of action that would help Secretary-General U Thant in his efforts to preserve peace in the Middle East.

DIDN'T THINK AHEAD

Soviet Ambassador Nicolai Fedorenko said the Canadian ambassador did not take into account "the simple fact" that Thant now is in Cairo to gather "the necessary information" about the Middle East situation.

He said the council should await his report.

Fedorenko described Ignatieff's attitude as "rather ironical."

"It reminds us of an Oriental proverb. He is asked to look at the moon but he looks at his own finger."

But the Soviet ambassador said Ignatieff, together with certain other Western representatives, is "artificially dramatizing" the situation.

Arthur Goldberg, U.S. ambassador, said:

"This council would have to be burying its head in the sand if it refused to recognize the threat to peace implicit in the events that have occurred since secretary-general left two days ago."

Goldberg said the situation had deteriorated since Thant's departure for Cairo Monday.

"It is precisely because of these events that we are meeting to consider what the Security Council ought to do in the discharge of responsibility to further his efforts, not to impede him."

The council agreed to allow the ambassadors of Israel, the United Arab Republic and Syria to take part in the debate as parties directly concerned.

Fedorenko wondered why U.S.-Soviet relations is in prospect.

Both the Russians and the Americans seem to be acting with notable caution in this new test of a long succession of Arab-Israeli uprisings, suggesting neither welcomes the idea of war in the sensitive area.

Neither the Soviet government's pledge of support to the Arabs nor President Johnson's statement that Egyptian blockade of the Gulf of Aqab is "illegal and potentially dangerous" changed matters in that respect.

Both the Russians and the Americans have commitments in the Middle East which they consider important to their national interests.

But Soviet press treatment of the gathering clouds seemed to reflect much Kremlin worry. Another full-blown donnybrook in the Middle East could open the door to a return to the deep freeze of the cold war.

Pravda Monday connected the crisis with Vietnam. It claimed the United States was behind the upsurge to deflect attention from its penetration of the demilitarized zone there and its bombing of Hanoi.

Pravda noted the presence of the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean in a way suggesting a warning against repetition of 1958, when the fleet landed U.S. marines in Lebanon at the Moscow British Foreign Secretary George Brown suggested Russia and Britain work together for re-establishment of a United Nations presence in the Middle East to replace the UN Emergency Force which is being withdrawn.

Paris The French government, without giving the exact procedure, called for concerted efforts by France, Britain, the United States and Russia to resolve the Middle East crisis.

Margate, England—Prime Minister Wilson said Britain will promote and support international action to uphold the right to free passage in the Gulf of Aqaba which contains Israel's outlet to the Red Sea.

Cairo Al-Ahram, semi-official newspaper in the United Arab Republic, reported the U.A.R. has mined the Gulf of Aqaba and that Egyptian planes and torpedo boats are patrolling the entrance to the gulf and Egyptian guns are trained on the mouth of the gulf.

London—British warships in the Mediterranean were on precautionary alert including the 30,520-ton aircraft carrier Victorious, off Malta.

Cairo—UN Secretary-General U Thant talked with U.A.R. officials in an effort to ease the crisis. He had no definite appointment to meet President Nasser.

Ottawa—Prime Minister Pearson and External Affairs Minister Martin told the Commons Canada seeks to replace the outgoing UN Emergency Force with some form of UN intervention. The government, charged with playing foreign policy too close to the vest, faced two non-confidence votes.

United Nations—The Security Council was called into emergency session today. Canada wants to put UN troops back between the Egyptians and Israelis, but some diplomats at the UN think the Soviet Union may block action by the council.

France and Britain, both allies of Israel in the 1956 Suez war, called today for international efforts to cool off the Middle East crisis as Egypt was reported moving on land, sea and in the air to block Israeli shipping in the Gulf of Aqaba.

A the same time, Mecca radio reported Saudi Arabia had been declared in a state of general mobilization for possible war with Israel.

France suggested a meeting of the Big Four powers to discuss joint action to keep peace in the Middle East. The wartime Big Four are Britain, the United States, Russia and France.

A cabinet spokesman said the French government is working for consultations among the four powers who have "a particular responsibility in the safeguarding of peace."

In Britain, Prime Minister Wilson told a labor union meeting his government is seeking a solution through the United Nations and is ready to join any other countries in keeping open the Gulf of Aqaba.

WARSHIPS WAIT ORDERS
British warships in the Mediterranean were put on a standby alert.

Israel has said an Egyptian blockade of the gulf, its only shipping route to the Red Sea and Indian Ocean, would mean a fight.

Lloyds, the international shipping underwriters whose intelligence service keeps track of shipping throughout the world, said it knows of no ships of any nationality heading for the gulf or preparing to leave the Israeli port of Eilat at the head of the waterway.

In Cairo, UN Secretary-General U Thant began his peace mission by conferring with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad.

Israel's foreign minister, Abba Eban, flew toward New York, where the UN Security Council was called into session. Israeli sources said Eban would ask U.S. officials to clarify American intentions in the crisis and would remind them of previous U.S. assurances of support for Israel against Arab attack.

President Johnson said Tuesday the Gulf of Aqaba should be open to ships of all countries and declared Egypt's threatened blockade illegal.

About the same time, the Soviet government warned that it would back Arab countries if they took action by the council.

Israeli Forces
Poised

TEL AVIV (CP)—Israel's newly-mobilized military forces were poised for action today after Premier Levi Eshkol warned Tuesday night that any interference with shipping in the Gulf of Aqaba would amount to an act of aggression against his country.

Speaking to the Knesset on Egypt's announcement that it would bar Israeli ships from the vital waterway, Eshkol called on the world's major sea powers to act immediately to maintain the right of free passage to Israel's port of Eilat at the head of the gulf.

He said any interference with shipping in the gulf would be "a gross violation of international law, a blow at the sovereign rights of other nations and an act of aggression against Israel."

Eshkol said Israel would cling to its right to free passage through the gulf in accordance with its 1957 announcement to the United Nations General Assembly.

Thant Hears
War Chants

CAIRO (AP)—Thousands of Egyptian demonstrators shouting "we want war" massed in front of the Arab League headquarters Tuesday next to the hotel where United Nations Secretary-General U Thant was resting after his arrival from New York.

The demonstration was organized by the Arab Socialist Union, Egypt's sole political party, and included white collar workers and women employees from virtually every firm in Cairo.

Thant arrived for talks with President Nasser over the worsening Middle East situation involving the Arabs and Israel.

As Middle East leaders push the threat of war close to the point of no return, a new test of U.S.-Soviet relations is in prospect.

Neither the Soviet government's pledge of support to the Arabs nor President Johnson's statement that Egyptian blockade of the Gulf of Aqab is "illegal and potentially dangerous" changed matters in that respect.

Both the Russians and the Americans have commitments in the Middle East which they consider important to their national interests.

But Soviet press treatment of the gathering clouds seemed to reflect much Kremlin worry. Another full-blown donnybrook in the Middle East could open the door to a return to the deep freeze of the cold war.

Pravda Monday connected the crisis with Vietnam. It claimed the United States was behind the upsurge to deflect attention from its penetration of the demilitarized zone there and its bombing of Hanoi.

Pravda noted the presence of the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean in a way suggesting a warning against repetition of 1958, when the fleet landed U.S. marines in Lebanon at the height of a crisis there.

Even Moscow's announcement of support for the Arabs seemed to lack the thunder of Soviet pronouncements and threats in other crises.

When the Suez war broke late in 1956, then Premier Nikolai Bulganin threatened to send rockets against England in retaliation for the British-French attack on Egypt.

Soviet and American interests happened to coincide then. Neither wanted a conflagration in the Middle East. Their combined pressure forced withdrawal of the British, French and Israeli forces from Egypt.

Different circumstances prevailed during the confused turmoil of 1958 in Lebanon. When the marines landed, the Russians roared with anger, warning that the move could be a step toward world war. Moscow may have felt justified in contending its security was endangered, as the United States would have done should Soviet troops have landed, say, in a Latin American crisis.

More recently, Soviet and U.S. interests have tended to dovetail again. Russia, becoming a "have nation," possesses with the United States the awesome responsibility of enormous nuclear power. The Russians, like the Americans, seemingly have a stake in stability. The two powers both worked to promote peace between India and Pakistan when their 1965 war threatened new Asian turmoil.

While the Russians apparently intend to continue their global political contest with the Americans, the needs of their internal economic program suggest lessened tension and free association with Western nations in trade and commerce.

U.S. WILL ACT
EGYPT WARNED

CAIRO (Reuters)—The United States has warned the United Arab Republic that it considers the blocking of the Gulf of Aqaba as an act of aggression and will use all measures in and out of the United Nations to counter it, according to well informed sources here.

The sources said the U.S. measures did not rule out the use of force if all other possibilities were exhausted. They added that these views were conveyed to Egyptian officials here.
